FOES OF SEAWAY TREATY PREDICT SENATE DEFEAT

Vote Is Scheduled Tomorrow.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Unless President Roosevelt nuts on the pressure, the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada faces defeat in the final vote scheduled for Wednesday.

This was asserted openly today by the opposition to the treaty headed by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, Democratic whip, and was admitted privately by the pro-treaty forces. Instead of the required two-thirds vote necessary for ratification, the vote late Wednesday afternoon may see between 40 and 50 ballots cast against the agreement under which the United States and Canada contract to construct the waterway.

President Holds Balance.

The "if" in the case is, of course, the President. It is admitted that if he is willing to follow up his desires for ratification with such persuasive measure as White House occupants know how to apply, he may be able to swing a sufficient number of senators into line. But the time is short; for limitation on debate goes on with the opening of tomorrow's session, and the deciding vote is to be cast not later than 5 o'clock of the following day.

Senators on both sides of the question improved the last day of full and free discussion today with final arguments. Senator Lewis, Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], and Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] spoke for the opposition, and Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], foreign relations chairman in charge of the treaty, Senator Arthur W. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] and Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] in the treaty's behalf.

With Ciceronian adroitness, Senator Lewis implied, at the same time that he denied, that influence in favor of the treaty had been coming from the White House. And in characteristically oratorical phrases he warned colleagues, bent upon winning administration favor, that compliance with a Presidential command didn't always receive the expected reward.

Denies Use of Pressure.

"There have been intimations that the President had solicited senators on behalf of the treaty," Senator Lewis said. "Knowing the President as I do I must denounce such intimations. It is a thing to which he would not descend.

"He would agree that any senator who solicited his conscience and surrendered the rights of his constituents would desecrate his office, pollute this chamber, and be a traitor to his position.

"Certain senators in the past, during the consideration of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and the Panama canal treaty, who sacrificed principle for the sake of mere accommodation, far from being rewarded by the President then in power, not only were injured, but when they ran for office afterward received not one word of approval from the then President of the United States. They received instead his silent condemnation."

Fears Blow to U. S. Sovereignty.

The Illinois senator denied that he was arguing against the treaty because of any local factor involved, such as the Chicago drainage canal water diversion, or on account of the threat to any special interest, like the railroads.

"I oppose the treaty on national grounds," he declared, then continued:

"This treaty seeks to surrender sovereignty over American land in three states, over land and water in one state.

"By at least two decisions of the Supreme court, the treaty making power can not alienate the territory of any state without that state's consent. If a part of a state, why not the whole? I insist that there is no legal treaty before this body.

"It has been argued that the seaway will provide cheap transportation. I venture to predict that Canada and the port of Montreal, by regulation, will levy such charges upon American ships that they will not be able to carry American cargoes in fair competition with British vessels.

Under British Control.

"Let those who say Canada would not do such a thing remember that it is not for Canada to say. Canadian rivers and harbors questions are referable to the imperial traffic board at London. American traffic, therefore, will be subject to the regulation of Britain with her fine sense of self-preservation and her regard for her own interest. Do senators expect that a rival nation will give America an

WHEELER SILVER DOLLAR REFUSED BY TAXI DRIVER

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana insisted that the taxicab driver couldn't change the silver dollar—but the President laughingly told him that the chauffeur was afraid of that kind of money.

Wheeler gave Mr. Roosevelt one of his heartiest laughs in weeks today by telling him that the man who drove him to the White House demurred at accepting one of the silver dollars the Montana Democrat habitually carries.

Silver dollars are a bit rare in the town where the nation's paper currency is printed, and the President twitted Wheeler for several minutes before he dismissed the episode with a chuckle.

Incidentally, the subject of Wheeler's call was not silver but ways and means for the freer use of copper.

FALLS DOWN IN A PHONE BOOTH; FIVE GET HIM OUT

St. Louis, March 12.—(AP)—John L. Smith, 62, of Peoria, Ill., promised a St. Louis policeman tonight that hereafter when he enters a public telephone booth he will do his utmost to keep from falling down.

His experience tonight in the Illinois Terminal Railroad building caused him much discomfort as a result of being wedged tightly behind the closed door of the booth. A rescue crew of five men finally extricated him after much maneuvering.

Smith had missed a train to Peoria and during a five hour wait for another decided to call up his wife on the telephone. He fell and could neither arise to his feet nor extricate himself. Station employes summoned the policeman.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel L. Bullas, who is assigned to Judge Fred Rush's Criminal court, was held up by two gunmen last night as he was walking in front of 5031 Greenwood avenue. They forced him to surrender his wrist watch and $4.

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 12.—Leo Belanger today asked County Judge Harper for more lashes and a shorter jail term. For holding up a Chinese he drew a year and 10 lashes, and for carrying a gun two years in prison. The judge withheld a decision on the prisoner's request.

Rescue 3 Men from Hull of Jap Warship

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

TOKIO, March 13 [Tuesday].—Three seamen were rescued early this afternoon from the Japanese torpedo boat Tomozuru, which capsized with 113 officers and men aboard, and rescue workers renewed their efforts in the belief others would be saved.

Milk was passed through an air hole cut in the ship's hull to the trio, members of the engine room crew. Thus reinvigorated, the three opened the hatch and floated to the surface.

The fate of the other men remained unknown, but officers believed a third of the crew might be alive inside. A hammering sound—which was heard for five hours while the cruiser Tatsuta was towing the stricken boat to port yesterday—was again audible today from within the Tomozuru.

Craft Towed to Port.

Rescue workers tried desperately to lift the hull and force air into the suffocating interior.

The Tatsuta towed the helpless little craft, keel upward, to the small port of Tawagaura, five miles southwest of the Sasebo naval base, off which the disaster occurred.

"Rescue work was immediately started," navy officials announced. Mechanics and steel workers frantically started cutting an entry through the Tomozuru's steel hull.

An official announcement at 4:50 a. m. today said "it was considered certain" that the men aboard the ill-fated boat, which had anti-capsizing devices and was considered the last work in craft of its type, perished. Among them were six officers.

Hunt for Survivors.

Navy Minister Osumi went to the palace and reported to the emperor the loss of his majesty's warship.

Seaplanes and destroyers continued to search the numerous islets and bays near the scene of the disaster, seeking possible survivors who may have been swept from the Tomozuru's decks by the huge waves.

Most of the sailors were trapped inside the craft with no chance of escaping.

Waves Sweep Over Boat.

Officers aboard the Tomozuru's sister ships, the Manasuru and Chidori, which, with the Tatsuta participated in the ill-fated maneuvers, said the practice began at 1 a. m. yesterday in the midst of a heavy storm.

Waves swept over the tiny torpedo boats and washed small deck fixtures overboard.

A naval board of inquiry, including outstanding ship designers, was organized to study the causes of the disaster. Its findings were expected to have a vital influence on the navy's future principles of design.

Built After 1932 Disaster.

The Tomozuru was built in the navy's own shipyard at Maizuru after the Sawarabi disaster in 1932, when 105 sailors lost their lives. It was thought that weaknesses causing the Sawarabi's loss were overcome in the new craft, which were especially equipped to prevent capsizing, although they conformed to the navy's recent principles of crowding the utmost gunpower and speed into vessels of small tonnage.

Naval officials refused to disclose the exact nature of the disaster, but the navy ministry said the craft had been found "badly damaged and drifting, many of her crew believed drowned," after being missing since early yesterday morning. The torpedo boat was relocated at 1 p. m.

The number of men she carried on the fatal trip were many more than her normal complement.

The Tomozuru was completed Feb. 26. The vessel, of 527 tons, was considered to have one of the heaviest armaments ever planned for a ship of her size. Since its tonnage was less than 600 it was outside the range of the London naval treaty limits.

REGISTER TODAY IF YOU ARE NOT ON POLLING LIST

All precinct polling places in Chicago and the suburbs under the jurisdiction of the election board will be open today from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. for the intermediate registration preparatory to the April 10 primaries. The official notice issued by the board says:

"If you are not now registered at the address at which you will reside on April 10, you must register on March 13."

In other words, voters now on the books correctly need not register anew. Those who must register in order to vote are those who have moved from their old addresses and those who have become qualified voters through residence, naturalization or coming of age and who have not registered with the election board since the last previous registration.

JOHN HAMMERS ON WRONG DOOR TO GET A DRINK

In response to a woman's excited voice over the phone, Policemen Leo Larkin and Francis Plunkett of the Evanston force hurried to 1730 Chicago avenue in the suburb last night. They found John Fontaine, 45 years old, 1710 Darrow avenue, pounding on the door and demanding admittance. "They won't let me in," complained Fontaine when asked why he was pounding on the door. "I'm looking for a drink." Policemen Plunkett and Larkin told Fontaine he was knocking on the wrong door, for it was the entrance to the headquarters of the Woman's Christian Temperance union.

OPENING OF FAIR IS MOVED UP SIX DAYS TO MAY 26

Liquor Sales Only in Restaurants.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress Exposition for 1934 will open its gates May 26 instead of June 1 as previously planned, Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, announced yesterday. At the same time Fair officials made public the program to be adopted for the regulation of intoxicating liquor sales within the grounds.

"The earlier opening date was decided on," Maj. Lohr said, "so that the crowds of the week-end preceding Decoration day would have a chance to visit the Fair. We feel that many people will be coming into Chicago for that day, and that, if given an opportunity, they will visit the Exposition. Weather records show that some of the most ideal weather in this region is in the last two weeks of May, so that there will be no climatic bar to the earlier opening."

Fair Will Be Ready.

It was also learned that the officials voted for the earlier opening on the assurance that construction will be completed at that time and the Fair be ready for exhibition. At last year's opening two of the major exhibits were uncompleted. Officials are proud of that record, pointing out that no previous international exhibition was so nearly complete on opening day, but are confident that this year no exhibit will be incomplete.

The liquor program as made public by Maj. Lohr bans taverns, saloons, bars, and other establishments in which the sale of intoxicants is the prime reason for existence. No regulation has been established against the drinking of liquor on the grounds or the bringing in of flasks for private consumption. Drunken persons will not be admitted and disorderly persons will be ejected from the grounds as was done during the 1933 Exposition.

Planks in Liquor Platform.

The liquor platform has three major planks:

1. The sale of alcoholic liquor will be restricted to restaurants.

2. Exhibits of alcoholic liquor may be authorized with the condition that any such exhibit agreement shall not include sale, taking orders for outside delivery, or free dispensing of liquor.

3. Free dispensing of liquor in the form generally known as tasting will not be permitted.

In addition to these regulations liquor sales will be subject to the regulation of state law as to licensing and control. One large distillery which had asked for exhibit space, and intended to operate a distillery, has been denied a contract because conditions asked ran afoul of the proposed regulation.

Construction Moves Rapidly.

With the last legal barriers to the Fair removed with the passing of the south parks ordinance, construction at the Exposition grounds is now running full blast. Only one hurdle remains for the internationalizing of the Fair, the presidential invitation to foreign nations to erect official exhibits. Congressional action is needed before that invitation can be extended.

Maj. Lohr and President Rufus C. Dawes will go to Washington the first of next week at the invitation of administration leaders to aid in the ironing out of minor difficulties over this legislation. It is expected that within two weeks the invitations will be extended through the usual diplomatic channels.

Advance Sales Heavy.

Advance ticket sales already have reached the total advance sales of last year, with five hundred thousand tickets sold and delivered, and approximately three-quarters of a million more contracted for. A single block of seventy thousand tickets was sold yesterday to Otto K. Eitel, general manager of the Stevens hotel, to form one of the largest single sales yet made. Cash was paid for the tickets.

"The Stevens hotel is a Chicago institution," Mr. Eitel said, "and as such the management wishes to do all it can to aid the Fair. However, it is not all altruism. The Fair in 1933 did more than any single thing to bring prosperity to the hotels and we believe that the 1934 Exposition will do even more for Chicago and Chicago institutions."

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company yesterday signed contracts to exhibit at the 1934 Fair. The exhibit will maintain the same quarters in the electrical group that were occupied last year, with the company products and developments covering nine thousand square feet of space. The exhibit will have a value of $500,000.

A mass meeting, to be held during April to advertise the Fair to Chicago was advocated yesterday by Mayor Kelly in an address before the Junior Association of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel.

Thrilling Fight for Life Ends in River Tragedy

William Williamson, 58 years old, who was employed in Chicago and lived in a cottage on the banks of the Fox river a mile and a half north of Fox River Grove, lost his life in the river last evening after a woman and two other men had made a thrilling but vain fight to save him.

Williamson was an employe of the Felt & Tarrant Manufacturing company, makers of office machinery at 222 North Bank drive, but yesterday he did not go to work. In the afternoon he walked to Fox River Grove on a shopping trip.

Tries to Cross on Ice.

As evening came on he started home. The cottage in which he lived with a widowed cousin, Mrs. Anita Hanson, 52 years old, is on the north bank of the Fox, which flows from east to west at that point and which Williamson had to cross.

He had walked on the ice with safety earlier in the afternoon, and though the weather was mild he decided to risk it again. It was a fatal mistake.

When Williamson was halfway over the ice broke under his weight and he plunged into the water. He clung to the broken edges and shouted for help in the gathering dusk.

Mrs. Hanson, hearing the cries, came to the door of the cottage and saw her cousin's plight. Snatching up a coil of clothesline, she ran out on the ice. But she got too close to the helpless Williamson. Even as she flung the rope to him the ice broke under her and she too dropped into the icy water.

New Help Arrives.

Both Williamson, who was growing numb from the exposure, and Mrs. Hanson shouted for assistance. They were heard by Guy A. Jones, a rural mail carrier, who lives a short distance upstream from the Williamson cottage.

Jones summoned a neighbor, George Jedlicka, and they hurried to the river bank. There they found an old rowboat which they quickly pushed out over the ice toward the couple floundering in the water.

When they reached the area of thin ice the boat broke through into the water and Jones and Jedlicka rowed it alongside Williamson and Mrs. Hanson.

By this time Williamson was barely able to hang onto the crumbling edge of the ice. Jedlicka leaned over the side of the boat and tied the clothesline around the half conscious man's body. Jones and Jedlicka then lifted him into the boat and turned to help Mrs. Hanson in.

Four Thrown Into River.

But the maneuver was too much for the little craft's stability. It capsized and plunged all four of its occupants into the water.

At this moment members of the Fox River Grove fire department, summoned by Jones' wife, arrived on the scene. An extension ladder was pushed out on the ice and Williamson, Mrs. Hanson, Jones, and Jedlicka were brought ashore. But the rescue came too late for Williamson. The firemen worked over him for some time, but were unable to revive him. The other three suffered from exposure, but were expected to recover.

295-125 TALLY; 231 DEMOCRATS DEFY EXECUTIVE

Provide Payment in Greenbacks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—In a riotous five hour session the house of representatives today tossed aside its administration halter and handed President Roosevelt a direct and decisive rebuff on the soldiers' bonus issue.

REP. WRIGHT PATMAN. [Acme Photo.]

The Patman bill, calling for immediate payment of the bonus in greenbacks, swept through the lower body of congress by the topheavy vote of 295 to 125, in the face of the President's public opposition to the measure and his threat of veto.

231 Bolt Leadership.

The majority of more than two to one accorded the bonus bill spelled the most severe reversal the Roosevelt administration has yet suffered at the hands of congress. The final roll call saw 231 of the President's own party in the house bolting their leadership to vote in favor of the veterans' legislation. Only 74 of the Democratic minority supported the President with votes against the measure.

The Republican minority was likewise split on the issue, 59 of its members casting their ballots for the bonus and 51 voting against it.

Paradoxically, it was the Republican leadership which fought tooth and nail throughout the tumultuous session to kill the bonus legislation and preserve the Roosevelt economy program. Democratic leaders were silent—not one took the floor to voice the customary plea for the majority party to stand behind its White House chieftain. And on the earlier roll call which forced the bonus legislation to the floor of the house even the Democratic stalwarts of the powerful ways and means committee voted in favor of the bill.

Later Back Administration.

With the bonus scalp tucked in their belts, however, house champions of the ex-service man relaxed their efforts and failed to upset the administration's applecart again on another angle of the veterans' question.

In a party caucus immediately following passage of the bonus bill the Democratic majority of the house voted 165 to 74 to support its leadership in an effort to lop from the independent offices appropriation bill some 350 millions in veterans' benefits which have been added by the senate. The caucus vote binds the Democrats of the house to send the supply bill to conference with the senate without instructions.

A party caucus last week on the same question saw the Democrats openly flout the administration and demand that conferees for the house insist on the preservation of the senate's veterans' amendments.

House in Uproar.

The bonus measure threw the house into the wildest disorder. Shouting and yelling, the rampaging membership paid no attention whatever to the gavel which Representative Clarence Cannon [Dem., Mo.], presiding, banged in an almost steady tattoo.

The tumult reached its highest point when Mr. Cannon, a former parliamentarian of the house, unexpectedly sustained a Republican point of order which would have lifted the most important section from the bonus bill and rendered the measure completely ineffective.

Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] pointed out that the bill provided for the payment of federal money without an appropriation, and argued that the rules of the house stipulate that such legislation shall come only from the appropriations committee.

Sustains Point of Order.

Mr. Cannon sustained his point of order and chaos followed. Gesturing wildly and yelling at the top of his voice Representative Thomas L. Blanton [Dem., Tex.], a leader of the bonus bloc, advanced to the very foot of the chairman's rostrum demanding a reconsideration of the decision and trying to make himself heard above the din.

Opponents of the bonus plan were applauding and cheering, demanding that Mr. Blanton be forced to take his seat; bonus advocates clamored loudly for the chair to reverse its decision.

Finally Mr. Blanton succeeded in convincing Chairman Cannon that the rule did not apply to the bonus measure and the Taber point of order was ruled out.

Assails Fellow Democrats.

There was no mincing of words as the debate raged throughout the day, but from Representative John Young Brown [Dem., Ky.] came the most scathing denunciation of the motive behind the tremendous vote in favor of the bonus bill.

"You are buying veterans' votes," shouted the youthful Kentuckian serving his first term in congress. "You are holding out this piece of bait to get veterans' votes this summer. There is not a man in the house who believes this bill will ever become a law, and yet you sit here and vote for it for your own political welfare."

It was a question too, of leadership, Representative Brown continued. The President, chosen a year ago last November to lead a Democratic recovery, had voiced his unqualified opposition to the bonus, he recalled, and the issue today lay between the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt and the leadership of Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], author of the bonus measure, and his cohorts in the house.

Prefers to Follow Leader.

"Mr. Roosevelt was chosen leader of this nation at the polls," Brown declared. "I know my vote against this bill will lose me votes back home, but I prefer to follow the leadership of the man in the White House—who says we can't pay the bonus now—than the leadership of gentlemen on this floor who tell us that we can pay it."

From Representative Carl M. Wiedeman [Dem., Mich.], came an answer to Mr. Brown that reflected some of the spirit of today's revolt against the White House.

"I was elected to this congress," he shouted, "and I believe I have a duty to perform. I will not listen to the dictation of any man in the performance of that duty as my conscience directs."

Voicing the position of the Republican old guard, Representative Robert Luce [Rep., Mass.], a leading congressional authority on financial matters, warned that passage of the bonus legislation means the first step toward disastrous inflation.

"Legislative Insanity."

"In all my long years in this house," the veteran Republican asserted, "I have never seen a greater example of legislative insanity than the action we are about to take. You are pretending to help the soldier with legislation that will pay him off in printing press money. No man here can foretell the consequences of this action."

His words brought a chorus of jeers from the Democratic side and Mr. Luce was forced to stop speaking, until Representative Pettengill [Dem., Ind.] leaped to his feet:

"I demand that the chair accord courtesy to this distinguished gentleman," he shouted. "He knows what he is talking about."

Mr. Luce continued: "You are about to pass this iniquitous legislation with ulterior purposes on the false pretense of doing something for the veterans of the United States. You are doing it in the face of your President's opposition, your party platform, and the pledges you gave to your people. Its final passage will mean the destruction of our financial and economic order."

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], who bolted the Republican leadership to vote in favor of the bonus, declared that immediate payment of the adjusted service certificates was an "act of justice when compared with what the government is doing in every other direction in the interest of national recovery."

Charges Veto Understanding.

Mr. Britten also accused the Democratic majority of seeking to throw "sand" in the eyes of the veterans by voting for a measure they are certain will be vetoed by the President. Democrats, he charged, supported the measure with the secret understanding that they would not vote to override Mr. Roosevelt's refusal to accept it.

"Frankly," said the Chicagoan, "I am at a loss to understand the psychology which makes the present administration a squanderer of public funds in one direction on the theory of putting a lot of money into circulation, and being a literal miser in another direction where the distribution of public money would find a very much wider and more beneficial distribution."

14 Jap Soldiers Slain by Manchukuo Bandit Army

TOKIO, March 12.—(AP)—Fourteen Japanese soldiers, including two officers, were killed Saturday in a fierce battle between Japanese troops and 500 bandits in Manchukuo, an official communique revealed today. "But," the communique added, "the regimental flag was saved."

RIGHT TO MERGE UPHELD 5 TO 4 BY SUPREME COURT

Trade Commission Order to Separate Reversed.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—The right of two Connecticut companies to merge in a declared effort to give the public lower costs and to maintain employment was upheld today by the Supreme court.

The Arrow-Hart and Hegeman Electric company appealed from a federal trade commission order refusing them permission to unite. Lower courts held the merger was an illegal consolidation of two competing companies.

The decision was 5 to 4. The opinion was handed down by Justice Roberts, with Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo dissenting.

The commission ruled the consolidation of the Arrow Electric company and the Hart & Hegeman Manufacturing Co., violated the Clayton anti-trust act.

In Interest of Recovery.

It took the position the two companies before the merger had been active competitors, and that the consolidation had resulted in substantially lessening competition.

The new company contended the merger was legal, asserted there had been no lessening of competition, and declared it was in the interest of industrial recovery, improving employment conditions and giving the public lower prices.

In handing down the court's decision Justice Roberts said it was unnecessary to consider whether competition was diminished since "the commission lacked authority to issue any order against the petitioner."

Says Clayton Act Nullified.

The justice added the Clayton act "does not forbid the acquirement of property or the merger of corporations pursuant to state laws, nor does it provide any machinery for compelling a divestiture of assets acquired by purchase of otherwise, or the distribution of physical property brought into a single ownership by merger."

In his dissenting opinion, Justice Stone said the Clayton act had been nullified in part by the majority ruling and that a way had been opened by which corporations could effect mergers the law was intended to prohibit.

"The commission made its finding, abundantly supported by evidence," Stone added, "that the course of action taken was 'an artifice and subterfuge designed in an attempt to evade the Clayton act, to perpetate the elimination of competition."

LOSES PROBATION CHANCE BECAUSE HE CARRIED A GUN

Walter Darling, 30 years old, 3747 West 59th place, who was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone to serve 2 years in Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of the Dyer act forbidding the interstate transportation of stolen automobiles, might have received probation if Assistant U. S. Attorney Alfred W. Bosworth had not told the judge he was carrying a gun when arrested.

"Young men like you are potential murderers and there is no excuse for any one to carry a gun, even in Chicago," Judge Stone told the prisoner. "As long as I sit here any man who enters my court charged with carrying a gun can expect no leniency."

BANDIT KILLED BY POLICE AFTER THREE HOLDUPS

A round of robberies by three gunmen on the south side came to an end last night when one of the bandits was shot and killed by Detective James J. McLaughlin, a squad leader attached to the Hyde Park station. The slain bandit was a young Negro. His campanions, one white and the other a Negro, escaped.

The gunmen first appeared at Harry Solomon's delicatessen at 1009 East 53d street and stole $35. They next stole $40 in a holdup of Walter Gruenberg's delicatessen at 803 East 53d street. Not satisfied with their loot, the bandits walked a few doors west to the Park View pharmacy at 800 East 53d street, menaced M. M. Gordon, the owner, and twelve patrons, and got $100.

Meanwhile, Detective McLaughlin and Policemen Robert English and John Conneeley were speeding in 53d street in response to the first robbery alarm, that at Solomon's delicatessen. Conneeley was left at Solomon's and McLaughlin and English turned back on 53d street. In front of the Park View pharmacy McLaughlin met the two Negro bandits coming out. One of them fired at McLaughlin and the detective sent five bullets at him in return. Two hit the Negro, killing him.

FIRST MACHINE GUNNER GUILTY UNDER NEW LAW

Earl McMahon, alias Jimmy Glennon, an ex-convict pal of the slain Theodore [Handsome Jack] Klutas, leader of a former kidnaping and bootlegging gang, was convicted of possession of a machine gun yesterday in a bench trial before Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court. This is the first conviction under the new state law prohibiting the possession of a machine gun by any other than the police or sheriffs. The conviction carries a mandatory indeterminate sentence of 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary.

McMahon was seized with the machine gun Jan. 6 in a raid by state's attorney's police on a bungalow at 619 South 24th avenue, Bellwood. Klutas at the same time was slain by the police.

The defendant testified in his own behalf and attempted to blame the ownership of the machine gun on the slain Klutas. Assistant State's Attorneys Gordon Nash and Thomas Dillon, however, said the evidence clearly showed that McMahon was in the possession of one machine gun while Klutas had a second such weapon.

The anti-machine gun law was passed at the last regular session of the legislature and was designed to curb the possession of machine guns by criminals.

KELLY SUPPORTS DIVERSION OF GAS TAX FOR SCHOOLS

Mayor Favors Creation of Junior Colleges.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he will actively support legislation providing diversion of a portion of the state gasoline tax to the schools. He estimated that the revenue derived from diversion of 1 cent of the tax would amount to between 5 and 6 million dollars for this year — the equivalent of salaries for a month and a half to teachers and other employés of the Chicago public schools.

A second important revelation affecting the Chicago schools was made by Mayor Kelly. He stated that when the school board is eventually established on a sound financial basis, and the teachers paid up in full, he favored the creation of three junior colleges, one each for the north, south and west sides of the city. In its economy program last summer the school board discontinued the operation of Crane Junior college.

Mayor Explains Position.

In connection with the gas tax diversion the mayor said that he had explained his position to Gov. Horner. Under the present law the 3 cent gas tax is divided among the state, city and county governments in Illinois, 1 cent going to each.

"I am willing to relinquish the one cent share of the city," asserted Mayor Kelly, "with the understanding that the Chicago schools will get the entire amount. I believe, however, that the state and the county should contribute a fair share of the tax for the schools. I do not favor a new tax.

"The argument has been advanced that this diversion would hinder employment. On the other hand you have the teachers employed, but not receiving pay."

An announcement of the mayor's stand is expected to come this afternoon in Springfield when the legislature convenes. It is to be made by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] in the senate and by Representative James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago] in the lower house.

Horner's Conference Today.

From all reports, the third special session of the legislature, at loggerheads internally and with the governor for the last three weeks, is moving toward an agreement on school legislation. Gov. Horner will hold a conference in his office at the statehouse this morning with ten senators and ten representatives from both the Democratic and Republican ranks.

An attempt will be made to reach a definite agreement on the method to be followed for providing additional tax funds for the schools. If all is harmonious the new legislation will be pushed through to passage this week and the legislators will leave for their homes to campaign for the April 10 primaries.

20 Bills Considered.

No less than twenty bills to provide new revenues for the schools have been introduced at the special session. All legislation would divert fresh funds into the state school fund, which is apportioned to the school districts of the state on a per pupil basis. The school fund, under the existing law, amounts to $10,500,000 annually. Of this sum Chicago gets about $3,300,000.

Several plans for diversion of part of the motor fuel tax to the schools have been advanced. One bill, pushed by the administration and introduced by Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] majority leader of the lower house, provides that the schools shall obtain two-thirds of the cities' gas tax penny and one-third of the county's. The state's share would not be touched.

The Sinnett bill is on second reading, or the amending stage of the legislative journey. It was deemed possible that if an agreement can be reached at the governor's conference this morning the Sinnett bill will be amended, inasmuch as it is advanced in the parliamentary procedure a day ahead of other legislation that might be introduced.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, declared that he was squarely behind Mayor Kelly's stand in the school situation. He revealed that the back pay rolls of the public schools amount to $28,500,000 to March 1.

Directors of the Illinois Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association, meeting at the Hotel Sherman last night, protested against the Powers bill before the state legislature in Springfield. The Powers bill provides, among other things, that every bottle of whisky must be 75 per cent four year old whisky or else be labeled imitation whisky.

GEN. O'RYAN SUGGESTS 'OSTRACIZING' ARMIES OF CRIMINALS IN CITY

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan recalled tonight that the Greeks had a weapon which modern society might wield against the criminal armies in cities. The commissioner admitted that his plan might be open to constitutional objections, but he laid it, nevertheless, before the Ohio Society of New York.

"Suppose," he said, "that a statute were enacted providing that in cities, say, of the first class the mayor was authorized to appoint a commission of ostracism.

"The commission would consider the records of habitual criminals and select those to be ostracized. For any specified numbers of years or for life. The criminal ostracized would be directed to leave the city at short notice and he warned" that prison awaited him if he returned.

FUR SAMMONS' BOND PROPERTY ORDERED SOLD

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney yesterday ordered the sale of four pieces of real estate to satisfy two $10,000 bond forfeitures against James [Fur] Sammons, Chicago hoodlum, who is serving a sentence in the Indiana state prison at Michigan City for being a habitual criminal. Deputy Sheriff George Hellman said the property would be auctioned off at the Clark street door of the county building in three weeks.

The bonds had been posted for Sammons several months ago on reinstated indictments charging attempt to kill in the $85,000 International Harvester company pay roll robbery of 1926, in which three guards were wounded.

Lewis Attacks Pending St. Lawrence Treaty.

advantage when it has the treaty right to defeat us at any point?

"On the other hand, those who call for ratification of the treaty would give to British ships the chance to unload British goods in Chicago, Detroit, or Milwaukee, in competition with the products of American industry."

Vandenberg Defends Treaty.

Senator Vandenberg spoke briefly in response to Senator Lewis. He said that "by no further stretch of the imagination could the case for the opposition be more strongly presented."

"I say that," declared Senator Vandenberg, "because it seems to me that my eloquent friend from Illinois already has stretched imagination to a point where there is no resiliency left."

The Michigan senator placed in the record petitions asking for ratification of the treaty signed by the governors of twenty states, mostly midwestern.

Senator Vandenberg challenged estimates of cost presented by Senator Lewis.

"And let it be remembered," he said, "we are not talking about digging any new canal. We are talking solely about removing the last 40 impassible miles of 1,500 miles of waterway already open."

As to the question of the United States surrendering any sovereignty to Canada, the Michigan senator declared:

"In the first place, I do not think that when we are dealing with Canada we are dealing with a foreign foe by any stretch of the imagination, because anybody who can conceive a martial conflict involving Canada and the United States can conceive the very end of civilization."

Under the pending treaty, the senator explained, Canada would have no more rights in Lake Michigan than she now enjoys under the treaty of 1909; those rights, however, which may now be denounced on a year's notice, would become irrevocable.

Wagner Also Attacks Treaty.

Senator Wagner took up the opposition thesis.

"It will be found that a single unifying thesis runs through my entire argument," he said. "The St. Lawrence treaty is founded upon economic conditions and proposals for relief that have become outmoded with the passage of time. It is neither responsive to present day facts, nor in accord with the policies of the recovery program.

"Its advocates cite the approval of Presidents Wilson, Harding, and Coolidge, and the only effect of such citation is to remind us that sentiment for the treaty developed during an era quite dissimilar to our own.

"Viewed simply as an isolated economic undertaking, the St. Lawrence project entails costs that are unlikely to be regained. Surely this in itself should be a serious drawback at a time when public agencies are being strained to the limit by the demands of relief and reconstruction. But the defects of the treaty go even deeper. The treaty embodies a program for agricultural relief that has been found wanting and that has been superseded by a totally different course of action."

Norris Defends Treaty.

Senator Norris, speaking for the treaty, said: "We from the middle west have stood by and paid our share of the cost of great harbors and canals. Now we are asking you to give us as we gave to you. We ask it as a matter of right."

Mr. Norris added it would be ten years at the earliest before the seaway could be in operation.

Senator Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] took just the opposite view. He said the Panama canal had proved a calamity to the central states, as goods could be shipped from coast to coast more cheaply than the middle west could ship to either coast.

Bites Chunk from Friend's Ear After Row Over Cards

SAYS JOHNSON PLANS COUP ON PRICE OF DRUGS

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—A proposal imputed to Recovery Administrator Johnson to revise the retail drug code without public hearing, "so as to deprive the public of quantity discounts, thus making mandatory higher prices," was denounced today by Myron Melvin Cohen of Washington, counsel for R. H. Macy & Co., New York department store.

Protests against being compelled to raise prices have been filed by his clients, Mr. Cohen said, by the National Retail Dry Goods association, and others.

"Although the notice was headed 'Notice of Hearing,' it stated there would be no hearing," Cohen said, "but instead objections might be filed. In the event no substantial number of objections were received, the provision was to become effective on March 5."

Cohen charged the notice as of Feb. 20 did not come to light until last Thursday and at that time the large retail associations, other than the drug association itself, never had been notified. Gen. Johnson is now said to be about to sign the order making the new provision effective within about ten days.

U. S. HUNTS LEAK ON TAX STORY OF MOE ROSENBERG

Officials Deny Statement of Large Donations.

Democratic politicians in Chicago were stirred yesterday by the publication of a sworn statement reported to have been made by the late Moe Rosenberg, 24th ward leader, to federal officials in Washington in an effort to compromise a charge of income tax evasion.

Rosenberg told the federal authorities, according to the statement, that not all of his huge income remained in his possession; that he gave $500,000 to politicians and officeholders for campaign purposes in 1929 and 1930 alone, and that for this reason he did not believe he owed taxes on it.

The reaction of the federal authorities, both in Chicago and Washington left little doubt that Rosenberg actually made the statement credited to him, but there was a rush of denials from the officeholders and politicians named as recipients of the money.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings announced in Washington that he would order an immediate investigation to ascertain who gave out the information in violation of a federal statute making it a crime to divulge the confidential statements made by a taxpayer.

An Explanation Is Given.

An explanation that became current soon after the Rosenberg statement was published was that the officeholders and politicians mentioned merely agreed that Rosenberg, as their political associate and friend, might use their names in an effort to make a settlement with the government. It is possible, some of the politicians said, that Rosenberg used some names without being authorized to do so.

Some of the officials admitted frankly that Rosenberg contributed to their campaign funds, but not in the amounts said to have been mentioned in the Rosenberg statement.

Rosenberg was indicted for income tax fraud on April 19, 1933. The government charged that he had failed to pay a total tax of $65,000 for the years 1929 and 1930. His income for the two years was estimated by the government at $345,932.

Last December Rosenberg went to Washington accompanied by Attorneys John F. McInerney and Albert Fink. There he was reported to have offered the government a large cash settlement. The amounts mentioned ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

District Attorney Dwight H. Green opposed the settlement effort and it failed. Rosenberg was ordered to trial last Jan. 2. On the train returning from Washington, however, he became ill and a continuance of the trial was allowed when he was taken to a hospital for an appendicitis operation. He died on Jan. 12 of an embolism—a blood clot that reached the heart.

Cermak Named in Statement.

Among those mentioned in the Rosenberg statement as recipients of his cash was the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak. Rosenberg is reported to have said he gave a total of $95,000 to Cermak.

Other persons said to have been named in the Rosenberg statement and the amounts given them are set down in the following list, which is reported to have come from a stenographer's transcript of the Washington conference:

FRANK RYAN, state representative, $2,500.

JOHN BOLTON, state representative, $2,500.

ANTHONY PINTOZZI, state representative, $1,000.

JOHN E. McSWEENEY, state representative, $2,500.

JOHN R. HRUBY, state representative, $2,500.

JOHN J. O'BRIEN, state representative, $2,500.

ROY O'KEEFE, state representative, $2,500.

RICHEY GRAHAM, state senator, son-in-law of Cermak, $2,500.

Under the heading of "Aldermanic, 1929" Rosenberg is said to have listed the following men as receiving $5,000 each from him just before the election in February, 1929:

Income from Junk Business.

Rosenberg is reported to have told the federal authorities that almost all of his income came from his junk business, the Rosenberg Iron and Metal company. Through this concern, Rosenberg stated, he obtained more than 90 per cent of all the utility companies' junk business in Cook county and all the junk business of the Insull utility companies in Illinois.

He said, it was reported, that he was able to buy this junk on his own terms and to sell it at an enormous profit. Then he would distribute the proceeds from his junk business among candidates for office, particularly when legislation affecting the elevated and surface lines and the Illinois Bell Telephone company was pending.

He told the government, it was said, that he kept his money in two loop strong boxes, one in the Hotel Sherman, and paid it out in bills of $500 and $1,000 denominations. He never gave checks and never took receipts.

Donation to Cermak Discussed.

Rosenberg is reported to have told the federal officials that the purpose of his contributions to the late Mayor Cermak was to pay off the deficit of the Cook county Democratic party and to man the polls during the 1929 judicial election.

"After George Brennan died," Rosenberg is reported to have said, "there was not much left of the Democratic party, so we got together and reorganized it, Cermak and myself. And when we reorganized it there was a deficit of $200,000 in bills payable."

Members of the party said yesterday that in addition to Mr. Cermak four of the aldermen mentioned by Rosenberg as recipients of $5,000 each now are dead—Van Norman, Cepak, Petlak, and Adamowski.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, who represents Rosenberg's ward, the 24th, in the city council, declared he could not believe that Rosenberg made the statements attributed to him.

"I know he did not influence the passage of the traction ordinance of 1930 nor the telephone ordinance in 1931," said Ald. Arvey.

[The traction ordinance referred to by Arvey provides for unification of the surface and elevated lines. It was approved at a referendum in 1930 after its passage by the city council. The telephone ordinance granted the phone company a new franchise.]

McDonough Out of City.

Joseph B. McDonough, former alderman of the old 12th ward, who is now county treasurer, was said to be driving to Chicago from Florida yesterday and could not be reached for comment on the Rosenberg statement.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson of the 46th ward declared:

"Perhaps he did not mean me, for there is another Oscar Nelson, the former state auditor. However, these are the facts: In 1928 Edward Moore and I were running for the sanitary district. Moore was running for the vacancy left by the death of Moe's brother, Mike Rosenberg. Moe met us on the street and said he believed we'd win. Then he handed each of us a $500 bill. At the time he was not friendly with the Democrats on the sanitary district. Moe never gave me a nickel in connection with my aldermanic candidacy. The record shows that I led the fight on the telephone ordinance, and I was also against the traction ordinance of 1925."

Comment of Ald. Toman.

Ald. John Toman [23d] said: "I never handled a nickel in any of my campaigns. My campaign funds were always handled by a finance committee in the ward, and whatever Rosenberg gave was given by check, indorsed by the committee and cashed at the Lawndale National bank. Show me any man in politics who doesn't accept contributions! Why, the President of the United States does."

Ald. Berthold A. Cronson [4th] said: "In 1929 I was a candidate for reelection and was indorsed by both the Republicans and Democrats of the 4th ward. The late Julius Rosenwald was spending so much money on my opponent's candidacy that Moe gave me either $1,000 or $1,200. Rosenwald kept spending money and I had to raise more from Moe and my other friends. Moe gave me another $1,000 or $1,200. I don't remember just which it was, but he never gave me $5,000. This was in 1929, two years before the telephone ordinance came up."

Albert J. Horan, former alderman of the 29th ward, now bailiff of the Municipal court, declared that he had never received a penny from Rosenberg.

Louis B. Anderson, former alderman of the 2d ward, said Rosenberg had been "very liberal" with him, but could not recall the amounts.

Judge Jay Schiller of the Municipal court, an unsuccessful candidate for alderman of the 40th ward in 1929, said: "There wasn't more than $2,000 spent in my entire aldermanic campaign. It's silly."

Asked whether he ever received any money from Rosenberg, the judge replied: "Not that I remember. When I ran for judge he was definitly opposed to me."

State Representative John C. Hruby said Rosenberg gave him $2,500 to finance his campaign for the legislature.

State Representative John R. McSweeney said the first he ever heard of receiving $2,500 from Rosenberg was what he read in the newspapers. "He never gave me anything," said McSweeney.

State Representative Frank Ryan also denied that he ever received a nickel from Rosenberg.

Statement from Fallon.

Bernard J. Fallon, vice president of the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines], said:

"The Chicago Rapid Transit company has sold scrap materials to the Rosenberg Iron and Metal company for approximately 18 years, this company receiving only a portion of the business. The average amount of business per year for the last seven years has been approximately $12,500."

Guy A. Richardson, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, said:

"News articles reporting the alleged statement of Moe Rosenberg seem to imply that the Chicago Surface Lines, among others, had some kind of agreement with Mr. Rosenberg for the sale of junk to him on a very profitable basis. I have examined the records of the company for ten years and in all of that time no junk or scrap was sold to Mr. Rosenberg or his concern with one exception. That was in 1930, when he bought a total amount of $990.56 worth on a high bid in a field of nine bidders."

Publication of Liquor License Requests Sought

Publication of all liquor license applications, to afford opportunity for the filing of public objections before their issuance, is proposed in an ordinance submitted by Mayor Kelly and recommended to the city council yesterday by the council license committee. Notice of applications is to be published for three days in a newspaper of general circulation, after which any person may file written objections within five days to the mayor, who is the local license commissioner. Cost is to be borne by the applicant, according to Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], chairman of the committee.

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITS HOMES OF NEEDLE WORKERS

Off on Inspection Tour in 12 Coastal Towns.

ARECIBO, Porto Rico, March 12.—(AP)—Hatless, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, traveling this time by automobile, dashed over narrow country roads today on an inspection tour of 12 coastal towns.

Visits Women's Prison.

Here she visited the women's prison, where fine lace is made, the prisoners getting 50 per cent of the proceeds.

On a knolltop near Arecibo a picnic luncheon was eaten by the party, which included women officials, newspaperwomen and photographers.

In passing a truck outside of Vega Baja the automobile in which the President's wife was traveling apparently narrowly missed colliding with a passing truck.

A winding road led the Americans through grapefruit and pineapple developments and the towns of Aguadilla and Aguada, which are forever arguing about in which Columbus landed on his second voyage to America. A marking fountain apparently gives Aguadilla the edge.

Schoolgirl Reads Poem.

As the party had its picnic, a 10 year old Porto Rican schoolgirl, Antonia Galarza, read from her schoolbook a poem about Coqui, a small green native frog, calling children out to play. Ten children, shy but curious, ventured up from their remote hilltop school to see Mrs. Roosevelt and ate native fruits and sandwiches with her.

In answer to a query from one of the party, the children said they did not know the name "Roosevelt" and had never seen a picture of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Why should they, the poor lambs?" said Mrs. Roosevelt.

One little seamstress told the first lady she got 60 cents a dozen for nightgowns and can do only one a day. For applique handkerchiefs, with hand rolled hems, she said she got 10 cents a dozen and they sell in the United States for 50 cents each.

Shakes Head Ruefully.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited several of the thatched homes of needle workers in the country.

J. K. DERING SUED OVER ILL FATED YACHTING CRUISE

Member of Party Says He Was Misled.

The tribulations of a group of society adventurers aboard a yacht bound for Central American and Mexican ports were described in a suit for a receiver and for an accounting filed yesterday in the superior court by Mansfield Schmidt, son of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, 60 Bellevue place.

Named as defendants in the suit were Jackson K. Dering, 900 North Michigan avenue; his mother, Mrs. Edith Dering, and his wife, Mildred, all well known in Chicago society; Sanders A. Davis, co-promoter with Dering of the yachting expedition; Alfred Sobler, John A. Verhoeven, stockholders in the enterprise, and Edward Eriksen, the skipper.

Says Luxury Was Promised.

Schmidt was induced to invest $2,500 in the expedition, which was incorporated as Jackson K. Dering Expeditions, according to the suit. He was told, he said, that the trip would be of the luxuory type; that the auxiliary schooner yacht the Uvira was a modern, comfortable ship with commodious staterooms; that a steward would be in attendance. He was also informed, he charged, that a large motion picture company had agreed to furnish cameramen and apparatus, and that there would be a profit from the sale of motion pictures over and above the expenses of the cruise.

The sad reality, Schmidt declared, was that the vessel was unsuited for navigation in the tropics; that it was run down and dirty. The living quarters were "small, crowded, dirty, and uncomfortable," the bill asserted, and the steward refused to serve because the commissary and galley facilities were inadequate. There were no arrangements with a motion picture company, according to the bill.

Hunt for Lost Temples.

Last Feb. 8, the bill narrated, the yacht set out from the port of Brooklyn amidst much publicity in the society columns concerning the daring and bravery of the society crew, which, according to announcements, was to explore Mexico and Central America in search of lost Aztec temples. The vessel immediately grounded in Ambrose channel and remained stranded for sixteen hours until the tide released it.

On Feb. 12, the boat embarked again, only to encounter a severe gale off Cape Hatteras on the following day, Hubert Kuechenmeister, 21 years old, 4838 Cullom avenue, was washed overboard and drowned. A coast guard cutter finally towed the vessel to Norfolk, Va., where damage of $20,000 to the yacht was discovered to have been caused by the storm. Most of the band thereupon went back to their homes.

The complainant demanded the appointment of a receiver and an accounting of funds on the ground that he feared further dissipation of money in the corporation's treasury. He also asked the court to return his $2,500 investment.

FIRE FOLLOWS STILL EXPLOSION.

Fire which followed the explosion of a moonshine still in an untenanted four story brick building at 3603 Indiana avenue caused damage estimated at $1,000 early yesterday.

FIRE DAMAGING TWO BUILDINGS DRIVES OUT 50

Fifty occupants of two apartment buildings at 1300 and 1306 South Lawndale avenue were forced to the street yesterday by flames which swept the rear porches of the structures and caused damage estimated at $2,000. It was one of forty fires which kept the fire department busy yesterday.

A 2-11 alarm was sounded for the fire which attacked the apartment buildings. It had started in a pile of rubbish under a rear stairway of the building at No. 1300 and quickly swept to the upper porches and then leaped to the stairways of the adjacent building.

The fire had gained considerable headway before it was noticed. It burned into a number of kitchens and destroyed furnishings and damaged the porches and the roofs of the buildings.

MERCHANT SHIP SUBSIDY PLANS GAIN APPROVAL

Roosevelt Would Put End to Mail Payments.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt approved today a new program for subsidizing the American merchant marine which he will submit to congress at an early date.

The program which the President sanctioned was outlined to him today by Secretary of Commerce Roper. It provides for discontinuing the present 28 million dollar subsidy, camouflaged as compensation for transportation of ocean mail, and the substitution of the following scheme of government aid:

1. A subsidy to cover the differences in shipbuilding costs so long as government policy provides for compensation for this differential.

2. A subsidy to offset the difference in operating costs with competing foreign companies.

3. An optional subsidy to promote development of foreign trade.

Would Quit Masquerading.

Moreover, the President proposes to call this subsidy a subsidy instead of seeking to conceal it under a payment, for example, of 1 million dollars of government money to a ship line for carrying one pound of mail overseas.

At the time the present ocean mail act was passed a few years ago the word subsidy could not be mentioned above a whisper in congress. But with the change of times and the President's control of congress it looks as if an unblushing subsidy would have clear sailing.

Vincent Astor, Archie Roosevelt, and others prominently identified with shipping interests hold an influential place in the Roosevelt administration and are understood to have made numerous practical contributions to the formulation of the new program.

Secretary Roper, explaining the proposals as he left the White House, criticized the present setup as destructive of its purpose in many respects.

Purpose of Policy.

"When the government," he said "supports one line of ships on an essential trade route through subsidy payments it is very foolish and destructive to make loans to enable other lines to build ships and engage in commerce in competition with the very lines which the government is already supporting, and through which it is trying to build a merchant marine. Such a policy is like the man who would defend himself with one hand and commit suicide with the other hand.

"Inasmuch as government aids to shipping have as their objective the establishment of an efficient and ultimately self-sustaining merchant marine, the essential trade routes to be served should be determined by analyzing the flow and volume of traffic with due consideration to such other factors as defense requirements, trade policies, and industrial and agricultural needs.

"When these requirements are determined, government aid should be given to ship lines necessary to fulfil these requirements and aid should be withheld from any other domestic operators seeking to enter into direct competition with the line already receiving government aid.

Advises Flexible Provisions.

"It seems to me that the present system of aid in the form of compensation for the carrying of ocean mails might properly be replaced by specific subsidies granted for the maintenance of essential services.

"The subsidies granted should be based on differentials in building and operating costs, but should be flexible enough to permit adjustments as changes in conditions and circumstances may warant.

"Some operators would have the major requirement of a construction subsidy, others an operating subsidy, and another, perhaps, under certain conditions, a trade development subsidy.

"The application of this subsidy policy must take into consideration present conditions in the merchant marine industry and a proper audit and checkup on merchant marine as a safeguard to government expenditures.

"In respect to the latter requirement the government should have authority to examine books at frequent intervals of the creditor companies, establish uniform accounting, and scrutinize carefully all items of cost. On such data readjustments of the direct subsidies or cost differentials can and should be made at annual intervals."

MAYOR OPPOSES TRACTION DELAY ON UNIFICATION

In a conference yesterday with members of the council's local transportation committee Mayor Edward J. Kelly said he was opposed to giving the street car and elevated company interests any time after May 3 in which to accept the pending 1930 ordinance, which authorizes them to unify the two systems. The mayor declared that if the companies show no action within thirty days after the present April 3 deadline he is in favor of letting the consolidation franchise lapse.

"It looks like they are stalling, and it seems that the longer time you give them, the more time they want," said Mayor Kelly. "Personally, I am in favor of only one more thirty day extension."

This morning the local transportation committee, of which Ald. James B. Bowler is chairman, will hold another public hearing, at which arguments of civic and improvement associations, for and against extending the acceptance time on the ordinance to July 31, will be heard. The traction interests have requested an extension to that date in order to complete details in the reorganization plan recently agreed to.

WIFE OF OAK PARK PRESIDENT'S SON SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Pearl McFeely filed a suit for divorce in Circuit court yesterday against Risley McFeely, son of President Willis McFeely of the Oak Park village board. She charges cruelty. According to the petition, Mrs. McFeely was compelled to summon the police to her Oak Park home when her husband became drunkenly abusive last Saturday. The first separation occurred in 1929. In January of 1930 Mrs. McFeely sued for separate maintenance and then withdrew her suit. In December of 1932 she filed a suit for divorce and then withdrew it. Reconciliations were effected in the three separations.

Caruso and Miss Packhiser dropped from view immediately after they had obtained the license.

DOLLFUSS TURNS ARMY OVER TO MONARCHIST AID

Then Austrian Chancellor Leaves for Rome.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 12.—Maj. Emil Fey, vice chancellor and director of Austria's public safety, tomorrow will again be in charge of the country for three days.

Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss left at 10 o'clock tonight for Rome for a three-cornered conference with Premier Mussolini and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary over the economic situation in the Danube valley.

Austria Bars Political Talk.

The premiers may talk about the problem of keeping Austria from going Nazi and losing its independence to Chancellor Hitler's Germany, but this is not certain for the latest advices are that Austria at least wants to keep the talk with the Italians strictly confined to economic subjects.

When tiny Dollfuss left the country the last time to visit Goemboes in Budapest, Maj. Fey, leader of the Fascist heimwehr, set machinery in motion which resulted in the ousting of the Socialists from power in Vienna and elsewhere in Austria. A civil war followed.

It was perhaps significant today that just before leaving for Rome, Dollfuss turned the national defense portfolio over to Prince Schoenburg-Hartenstein, prominent monarchist and former undersecretary of defense. This portfolio was formerly held by Dollfuss himself. The move gave the prince full control of the army while the chancellor is away.

Mussolini Greets Goemboes.

ROME, March 12.—(AP)—Five minutes after Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary arrived here tonight he and Premier Mussolini started, informally, a Danubian conference which Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria will join later.

The Hungarian leader alighted on a red plush carpet spread out over the station platform; the first hand extended to greet him was that of his official host, and, before other statesmen hardly had opportunity to welcome the visitor, Goemboes and Mussolini were speeding away in the latter's limousine.

Premier Mussolini, wearing a high silk hat and talking affably, guided the guest to the automobile personally. En route to the Hungarian legation, where Goemboes will stay, the two had a chance to break the ice for the first formal discussions Wednesday.

What Parley Is Based On.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative government spokesman, said in the newspaper Giornale d'Italia tonight that the forthcoming parley will be based on three cardinal principles of Italian policy:

FIRST—The full right of Austria and Hungary to independence.

SECOND—The necessity of helping the conservation of independence by economic coöperation.

THIRD—The necessity that this collaboration be offered first by Italy in view of the "abundant proof of hostile activity by other countries."

He said the conference would seek to establish a series of bilateral trade accords designed to relieve economic stress in Austria and Hungary.

Chancellor Dollfuss was expected to arrive tomorrow from Vienna for the first formal three party talks the following day. Mussolini and Goemboes were scheduled to have another informal discussion at the Palazzo Venezia tomorrow noon.

Il Popolo D'Italia, Mussolini's paper published in Milan, said the coming talks would only lay the groundwork for an agreement in which other governments later would be invited to participate for the economic restoration of the Danubian states—Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovaki, Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia.

The newspaper said governments of Germany, France, Czechoslovakia and other nations now supported the three premier parley.

Jugo-Slavia Sounds Warning.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 12.—(AP)—A sharp warning that Jugo-Slavia will not countenance any attempt to restore the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria was made by Bogoljub Jevtic, foreign minister, to parliament today.

"History has already pronounced judgment on the Hapsburg dynasty," said Jevtic. "Attempts to restore it can bring neither consolidation nor the pacification of central Europe."

He declared Jugo-Slavia's feelings toward Austria are most friendly and his nation entertains the hope that the Austrian problem may be solved by international agreement.

3 Salt Lake Shocks; Close Schools.

(Picture on back page.)

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 12.—(AP)—The heaviest earth shocks ever recorded here rocked cities in north Utah and southern Idaho today, caused large buildings to sway, cracked the walls of some structures, and also jolted communities in southwestern Wyoming, Nevada, and California.

The Home Economics building of the Utah State Agricultural college at Logan, Utah, was damaged so badly it was stated it would be abandoned.

Schools here and at Logan and Pocatello, Idaho, were closed pending an examination of all buildings for possible weaknesses. The city and county building here also was vacated.

Report Walls Cracked.

Reports here said the Preston, Idaho, high school building was cracked, the west wall being forced nearly six inches away from the side walls. School officials expressed the belief the building would have to be abandoned.

Large office buildings here shook and trembled in the shocks, beginning at 3:05 a. m. and continuing until 11:21 a. m. [mountain standard time].

Windows and plaster were cracked, chandeliers swung several inches and furniture and dishes rattled. Some plaster fell from ceilings and a few chimneys toppled.

Girl, Ill in Bed, Dies.

At Ogden Ida Atkinson, 21, ill for two weeks, asked the reason for the shaking of her bed. Told it was an earthquake, she died soon afterward.

Charles Bithel, 55, an employé of the city waterworks department here, was buried in the cavein of a six foot trench. Foremen of the construction work blamed the quake, although the cavein occurred some time after the first shock. Bithell was taken from the debris to a hospital. His condition was said to be serious.

Seismologists said the quake, centering in the western mountains or desert, was heavier than that which caused great destruction at Long Beach last March. They thought it was caused by the slipping of a fault in the Wasatch mountains running north and south through eastern Utah, or of one of the basin range faults between the Wasatch and the Sierra Nevada mountains.

The shocks were reported from Boise, Idaho, Rock Springs, Wyo., Elko, Nev., and Santa Rose, Cal.

Run Into Streets.

At Pocatello residents scurried into the streets. Fear was expressed that many of the older buildings there had been rendered unsafe.

Cracked chimneys were reported at three school houses and walls in several schools and other buildings were cracked. The balcony at Reed hall gymnasium of the campus of the University of Idaho, southern branch, was condemned as unsafe.

At the Salt Lake City and county building, an ornate gray stone structure, plaster fell in several rooms. The capstone of a chimney crashed to the pavement. The statue atop the spire was thrown out of plumb.

Plaster Falls in Lobby.

Plaster fell in the lobby and the president's suite of the Newhouse hotel, and cracks were reported in downtown buildings.

Ten persons were under surgeons' knives in Salt Lake hospitals during the quake excitement and four babies were born.

Chandeliers swayed during a Lenten service in the Catholic church at Kemmerer, Wyo., and candles in the Episcopal church there were extinguished by the swaying of the building.

The study of the German language, banned during the world war, will be resumed at the Waukegan Township High school next September. Thalman, sixty students already have signed for the course.

STATE CLOSES ITS EVIDENCE IN BANGHART TRIAL

Kidnaping Case May Go to Jury Tonight.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The prosecution closed its case yesterday against Basil Banghart, a Touhy gangster, who is on trial before a jury in Judge Walter P. Steffen's court on charges of kidnaping John Factor. Roger Touhy and two of his lieutenants have already been convicted and are now in prison under 99 year sentences.

Indications last evening were that Banghart's case might go to the jury tonight. Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart, who quickly began presenting evidence after the state rested, refused to say definitly whether he would put Banghart on the witness stand to repeat the fantastic story he told during the last trial of Touhy, Albert Kator, and Gus Schafer. In that trial Banghart admitted trying to collect money from Factor, but said he was carrying out a Factor plan to provide additional proof of the kidnaping.

Prosecution Closes Case.

The prosecution closed its case against Banghart by dumping on a table before Judge Steffen an arsenal such as is seldom seen even in the Criminal court.

The weapons—two submachine guns, a shotgun, a rifle, and six revolvers—were found in Banghart's Baltimore apartment where he was arrested with Isaac Costner, another Touhy gangster, who has turned state's evidence. Capt. M. Joseph Wallace of the Baltimore police took the witness stand, identified the weapons, and told of arresting Banghart and Costner.

Capt. Wallace testified that Banghart had said he only used the machine guns "for moral effect."

Factor on Stand Again.

The state's principal witness of the day was Factor himself. He took the stand at the morning session and again told his oft repeated story of his kidnaping, which occurred early last July 1 after he and a party of relatives and friends had left The Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove. He was held prisoner until $70,000 ransom was paid for his release 12 days later.

Factor's testimony, which took a whole day at the first trial of Touhy, Kator, and Schafer, was completed in 20 minutes yesterday. Banghart, from his seat at the counsel table, tried to stare down the witness, but Factor did not falter in pointing to the defendant as one of the men who had kidnaped him.

Defense Motions Denied.

After the prosecution had closed, Defense Attorney Stewart made a series of motions to suppress certain evidence and to direct the jury to find Banghart not guilty. Judge Steffen overruled the motions as fast as they were made.

The defense then opened its evidence by calling some of the prosecution witnesses, including Jerome Factor, son of Factor. They all testified that although they saw the kidnaping they could not identify Banghart as one of the abduction gang. Among this group of witnesses were Factor's friend, A. L. Epstein, and Epstein's wife, who were members of the Factor party at the Dells.

Refuses Priest's Testimony.

Attorney Stewart asked that he be permitted to read to the jury the testimony given at the first trial of the Touhy gang by the Rev. Joseph Weber, Catholic priest of Indianapolis. Father Weber, who since has been refused permission to leave his diocese, testified at that time that he had talked with Roger Touhy and that Touhy had denied the kidnaping of Factor. Stewart's request to read the priest's testimony was promptly denied by Judge Steffen.

Vanilla Extract Drenches 4 Robbers and They Flee

Four bandits were thwarted by vanilla extract yesterday when they raided the plant of Theonett & Co., Inc., extract and wine manufacturers at 2113-21 Elston avenue. As the men came up the stairs to the second floor of the plant, Arthur Ford, a chemist, flung six gallon bottles of the vanilla extract at them. One of the robbers' shots punctured a bottle in midair and it drenched them. They turned and fled.

PARROT FEVER STORY STIRS UP PITTSBURGH; MANY BIRDS KILLED

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 12.—[Special.]—There are persistent rumors of eleven deaths and of thirty-six ill with "parrot fever" in this city during the last two weeks.

Dr. Ray P. Moyer, city health director, said:

"Reports coming to the department of public health led the director today to request physicians to look closely for typical pneumonia in cases where the patient has been in contact with parrots, parrakeets, and other birds of the psittacine family.

"During the week eighty-five birds that were ill or had been in contact with sick birds were destroyed by their owners on advice of the department of health."

One ailing bird was sent to the National Institute of Health at Washington for pathological examination.

Meanwhile dealers are urged to refrain from selling and to isolate parrots, parrakeets, and other birds of that family.

Dr. Moyer added: "In none of the deaths or in the cases being treated or under observation has the report been psittacosis."

The Allegheny County Medical society's bulletin says of "parrot fever":

"The symptoms may strongly suggest pneumonia, with delayed consolidation in the lungs. The onset is usually characterized with only unusual tiredness and weakness, followed in a day or two by high temperature."

TWO LOST JURORS DELAY INQUIRY OF DILLINGER BREAK

Absence of Outlaw and Pair Spoils Perfect Trial

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

John Dillinger, desperado who went away from the Crown Point jail eleven days ago and failed to leave a forwarding address, did not appear in the Lake county Criminal court yesterday although the day had been definitly scheduled for his trial on charges of murdering an East Chicago policeman in a bank holdup.

Hoosier officials, who have suffered much by reason of Dillinger's leave taking, had not entertained much hope for the outlaw's appearance. But they were further crushed when two of the six special grand jurors who were to have investigated Dillinger's departure also failed to show up. There were mutterings. Enough, the officials complained bitterly, was enough.

Swear In Faithful Four.

Judge William J. Murray was forced to postpone until today the planned inquiry into the circumstances of the prison break which has placed Crown Point in the national eye. He swore in the four faithful jurors who were present and ordered two more to be recruited. It was announced late in the day that two citizens had been chosen to serve on the jury and that the investigation would proceed this morning without fail.

Twenty-five witnesses have been summoned to testify before the grand jury. These include Sheriff Lillian Holley, Warden Lew Baker, and a number of deputy wardens and guards in the jail. Some of these witnesses ha e asserted that Ernest Blunk, fingerprint expert in the jail, assisted Dillinger in his escape, and others have named Sam Cahoon, 64 year old trusty, as a willing assistant of the convict in his break.

Won't Reënact Escape.

Plans to reënact the escape were abandoned. One official was said to have pointed out that more prisoners might walk out if Dillinger's feat with his wooden pistol was duplicated for the benefit of the grand jury. A cold negative was given to moving picture men who wanted to film the reënactment with a person taking the part of Dillinger singing "Git along, little dogy, git along," as he romped away with the sheriff's car.

The jury will hear the story of James Posey, colored cellmate of Herbert Youngblood, who escaped with Dillinger. Posey says that Dillinger walked down the jail corridor with his arm around Blunk. Charles Schrieber, a guard, has asserted that Dillinger laid his gun down and turned his back to Blunk, but that the latter made no effort to overcome the bandit.

A Blow to Business!

There was gloom in the streets of Crown Point yesterday. The trial of Dillinger, the country's most publicized criminal, would have marked a great moment in local history and would have boomed business.

The ordinarily sunny visage of Harvey Keiser, the leading restaurateur, was glum. Mr. Keiser, who does a heavy business in sea food when tourists are in town, estimated that the inopportune absence of Dillinger from his trial would cost him the profits on hundreds of frog legs and dozens of lobsters daily.

Brad Woodward, proprietor of the Woodward hotel, surveyed woefully a long list of canceled reservations.

There was a vacant press room where telegraph companies had planned to install their instruments for the transmission of the thousands of words of copy which were to have been dictated by a horde of reporters. Near by was the bar which would have furnished intellectual stimulation for those reporters. A pensive bartender played solitaire there yesterday.

Saddest of all, perhaps, was Bailif Eli Keserich, who would have been one of Crown Point's most important citizens yesterday if the trial had been opened and the anticipated swarms had been besieging the courthouse.

The many reports about Dillinger's whereabouts were dwindling, but enough came in to keep the police in the middle west on edge.

SEIZE THIRD MAN IN FOILED PLOT TO KIDNAP EDITOR

Report a Confession After Arrest.

George Wolf, 26 years old, who was arrested yesterday in Racine and charged with participation in the attempted kidnaping of E. P. Adler, wealthy Davenport, Ia., banker, editor, and publisher, from his room in the Morrison hotel on Feb. 21, made a full confession last night at the office of State's Attorney Courtney. The kidnap plot was frustrated when Adler fought off his assailants.

The Iowa editor, cornered in a corridor of the hotel, battled with two of the would-be abductors and effected the capture of one, Charles W. Mayo, who committed suicide the next day in a cell in the Marquette police station. A second accomplice in the plot, James Lacy, an ex-convict, was arrested in his room in a south side hotel.

Waives Extradition.

Wolf was arrested yesterday in a federal relief transient barracks directly across the street from the Racine police station. He offered no resistance. He made a partial confession at Racine. When he waived extradition he was brought back to Chicago in the custody of Daniel Moriarty, Edward Griffin, and Daniel Kenney of the state's attorney's office, who had come to Racine earlier in the day and cooperated with the Racine police.

According to the state's attorney's police, Wolf told them he met Mayo in a poolroom on South State street in January. Mayo asked Wolf if he wanted to "get some part of $100,000 easy money," the police said, and when Wolf replied that he did, he and Lacy and Mayo motored to Davenport where they originally planned to kidnap a young girl. This plan fell through, the police said, when the plotters discovered she was too well guarded. They then conceived the plot to kidnap Adler, according to the story to police. Wolf was not present when Lacy and Mayo attacked Adler in the hotel.

Confessed Buying Trunk.

Wolf, police said, confessed that he purchased the trunk in which the kidnapers planned to imprison Adler after trapping him in the hotel. Wolf bored holes in the trunk to allow Adler to breathe during the planned imprisonment, police said, and was to have posed as an express company employé to remove the trunk and the victim from the hotel to a south side address.

Acting on information given by Lacy, who is held in the county jail awaiting trial, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, had been waiting for Wolf to communicate with relatives or friends in Chicago. Yesterday morning a letter to his mother was intercepted. In the letter Wolf wrote that he had been working in a factory at Racine since Feb. 25.

Hunt Fourth Man in Plot.

When the investigators arrived in Racine, Chief of Police Grover C. Lutter said he recognized the description of Wolf as fitting that of a man he had seen in the barracks across the street. Wolf was singled out from the 284 residents of the barracks by the investigators. He gave 2349 Cleveland avenue as his Chicago address.

The part of a third person in the kidnap plot had not been disclosed until yesterday. It was reported that the police are looking for a fourth man, a Negro, who has been implicated by Lacy.

Plan Reception

A book shower and authors' reception on Saturday will launch a campaign by the Chicago public library for a public donation of 50,000 books for the library shelves. The reception will be held in the G. A. R. Memorial hall at the main library, under the supervision of the Illinois Woman's Press association. Carl B. Roden, librarian, reported that the preliminary campaign is meeting with good response and that numerous organizations have offered their cooperation.

MICHIGAN YOUTH IS ARRESTED HERE IN STOLEN AUTO

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 59; recovered, 43; stripped, 5 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

Clarence Merryfield, 20 years old, was arrested by Lake Forest police last night as he was driving an automobile stolen early yesterday in Benton Harbor, Mich. Merryfield admitted he had stolen the car, but said that he would fight extradition to Michigan. Benton Harbor authorities were notified. Merryfield was carrying a .22 caliber revolver. He was recently placed on two years probation in Benton Harbor after pleading guilty to a charge of larceny of an automobile. Merryfield said he was driving to Knowlton, Wis., to visit his mother, Mrs. W. H. Lambert.

HANGS SELF IN BASEMENT.

Informing members of his family that he was going downstairs to look at the furnace, Wilhelm Green, 56 years old, 5818 Byron street, hanged himself last night to a beam in the basement of his home. He had been unemployed for some time.

TROOPS GUARD GOV. WHITE IN DILLINGER SCARE

Desperado Seen in Ohio; Kidnaping Feared.

BULLETIN.

Findlay, O., March 12.—(AP)—The State Sheriffs' association radio station, WPGG, tonight broadcast an alarm to police in northwestern Ohio to look out for an automobile containing three men, "all heavily armed."

Columbus, O., March 13.—[Special.]—Two squads of National Guardsmen were assigned to guard the mansion of Gov. White here today after threats of abduction had trickled into the roops' headquarters.

The 24 hour patrol was ordered by Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson following receipt of rumors that members of the Dillinger gang might attempt to kidnap Gov. White and members of his family in an effort to free Harry Pierpont and the other members of his gang now being held in the Lima jail. Pierpont has been sentenced to death for the killing of Sherif Jess Sarber.

Seen in Northern Ohio.

Belief was expressed that the gangsters, reported seen in northwestern Ohio, would stop at nothing to gain release of their confederates.

Gov. White personally scoffed at the idea that guarding of the mansion or even a personal body guard was necessary, but acquiesced upon the insistence of Henderson. The guardsmen will remain on duty until the Dillinger case is ended, according to the report.

Neither the governor's personal secretary nor Henderson would comment on the rumors, except to say that "the threats had been received" and that the "action was deemed necessary."

Bare Prison Bomb Plot.

Meanwhile authorities at Ohio penitentiary were looking into a code letter sent from Howard Bowman, brother of Neil Bowman, Ohio's bad man convict fugitive, directing the holding up of a state arsenal and obtaining hand grenades and machine guns as well as dynamite in an effort to carry out a wholesale break from the penitentiary. The letter was intercepted and decoded through efforts of Warden P. E. Thomas and department of justice officers.

Bowman has been hunted for weeks in the hills of southern Ohio, where he is reported to be in hiding.

Plan Pierpont's Removal.

At the same time the state officials have started precautions to assure Pierpont's safe arrival and incarceration in the penitentiary to await electrocution.

Warden Thomas said Pierpont and any other members of the Dillinger group, convicted and sentenced, will be placed in "death row."

Assurance that the present facilities at the Ohio penitentiary are adequate to guard against any attempts to release Pierpont was given today by John McSweeney, state welfare director.

A misunderstanding on the part of local officials caused the hasty dispatch of four local police cruisers to the penitentiary, in the belief that Lima officers were en route to Columbus with Pierpont.

It was later revealed that Pierpont would not be taken to the penitentiary until the close of the trial of Charles Makley, second Dillinger gangster, accused of the murder of the Lima sherif.

Machine Guns Guard Makley.

Lima, O., March 12.—(AP)—Another of slippery John Dillinger's henchmen went on trial for murder here today in a nest of machine guns.

Common Pleas Judge E. E. Everett announced tersely from the bench he had received word Dillinger is en route to Lima with a jail wrecking crew. National Guardsmen were on duty about the streets and at the courthouse.

On trial was Charles Makley, charged with the murder of former Sherif Jess Sarber last October when the desperate Dillinger was "sprung" from the jail here to a medley of pistol shots.

The brief announcement from the bench regarding the imminence of a raid by Dillinger to release Makley, Harry Pierpont—convicted early Sunday and sentenced to die—and Russell Clark fell on a tempestuous court scene.

Overrules Change of Venue.

Judge Everett made the statement as he overruled a defense motion for a change of venue, based on the charge that military preparations here are prejudicial.

Makley, a pleasant faced man, walked into court today with his hands in iron cuffs. His legs were chained as soon as he was seated.

The afternoon court session had hardly started when Judge Everett cited for contempt Clarence C. Miller, defense attorney, and two members of the grand jury which indicted Makley. The two testified they had talked over proceedings of the grand jury with Miller in his office.

Judge Everett fined each of the three $25 and costs, but suspended the fines with a severe warning.

WHEELER OFFERS COMPROMISE ON SILVER MEASURE

Would Have U. S. Buy a Billion Ounces.

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—With little chance of getting a bill through this session for free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] introduced today what he called a "compromise" measure.

Directing government purchase of up to one billion ounces of the white metal, at least 50,000,000 ounces a month on terms to be fixed by the secretary of the treasury, the bill would terminate purchases the moment the 16 to 1 ratio with gold was attained.

Certificates Sought.

Silver certificates would be issued against the bullion and would be considered full legal tender in the discharge of all debts.

A similar bill, offered as an amendment to the gold revaluation measure, was defeated by the senate about a month ago.

While Wheeler conceded it could muster little if any more votes now, he said he offered it to "test the sincerity" of those who look upon bimetalism as "synonymous with Bryanism and who contend that we would be flooded with silver."

He said he hoped congress ultimately would "see the light and favor" his original bill.

Goes to Committee.

The "compromise" bill was sent to the agriculture committee, where Wheeler believes it will have more support than in the banking committee to which such measures usually are referred.

The Montanan said the measure offered the only means of raising farm commodity prices, for as long as the gold and silver standard countries used different yardsticks for measuring the exchangeable value of commodities the American standard of living and wages would be lowered.

GRANT EXECUTION STAY IN PRINCESS' RASPUTIN AWARD

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—The Court of Appeals granted today the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film company's application for a stay of execution in the portion of £25,000 [about $125,000] damages awarded Princess Irina Youssoupoff in her libel suit based on the film, "Rasputin and the Empress." The court granted the princess only £5,000 at present.

The entire £25,000 will be paid into the court, £20,000 being held in custody pending disposition of the appeal.

ARMY EXPECTED TO RESUME MAIL FLYING TODAY

MacArthur Denies He Was Ever Consulted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—While the army prepared to launch tomorrow its second attempt at flying the mails, congressional committees digging into the fatal record disclosed that the army's high command had been given only a few hours' notice and no chance to confer before President Roosevelt ordered them to take over the mails.

At the same time Senator William G. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.] introduced in the senate a bill under which private air lines, including those whose former contracts were canceled, could be reemployed to carry the air mail. The McAdoo bill would authorize the postoffice department to negotiate new contracts with private air companies on a 90 day basis.

In a day marked by carefully guarded clashes between the postoffice and war departments, army and postal officials strove to resume air mail service on nine routes some time tomorrow or the next day. Meanwhile congress was endeavoring to patch together legislation for a permanent or temporary return of the mails to private aviation companies.

Denies Being Consulted.

Summoned before a subcommittee of the senate appropriation committee, Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, chief of staff, furnished one of the high spots of the day by denying that he had been consulted before the private mail contracts were scrapped and the army ordered into the breach. Maj. Gen. B. D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, told the same committee he had had only a few hours' warning and no chance to confer with MacArthur.

While Gen. Foulois was testifying at the capitol, his assistants were sending out orders redistributing the army's flyers and planes in preparation to resuming flights on nine routes tomorrow. The routes constitute about 25 per cent of the old air mail network and are the "fair weather" route which the army, in accordance with President Roosevelt's latest order, believes it can fly with a minimum of risk.

List of Routes.

The routes are:

New York to San Francisco via Chicago and Salt Lake; Chicago to Dallas via St. Louis and Kansas City; Chicago to St. Paul; New York to Boston; New York to Jacksonville; Washington to Atlanta; Salt Lake to Seattle; Salt Lake to San Diego via Los Angeles, and Cheyenne to Denver.

Although the army had not definitely told the postoffice department it was ready to fly any of these lines, S. A. Cisler, chief of air mail in the postoffice, said he expected to be informed late tonight that the army would fly at least some of these lines tomorrow. The rest will be put in operation the following day, he predicted.

Army officials were busily carrying out a redistribution of their planes and pilots, concentrating their best men and equipment on these lines so that they may meet the new requirement of maximum safety set up by President Roosevelt. Although Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, chief of operations, had not been informed late this afternoon that any line was in complete readiness, he expected such word from many points later on.

Story of Haste Leaks Out.

The revelation of how hastily President Roosevelt had acted in ordering the army into the air leaked out from a closed hearing held by the army subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee. Chief of Staff MacArthur was quoted as having told the committee that he had had no warning whatsoever, and his assistant, Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, told the same story.

Gen. Foulois related to the committee how he had been called to the postoffice department on the morning of Feb. 9 by Assistant Postmaster General Branch and told that the air mail contracts might be canceled.

Mr. Branch asked him, Gen. Foulois admitted, whether the army could fly the mails. He also admitted that he had declared the army could carry out the task if ordered to do so. Hastening back to the war department to break the news to Gen. MacArthur, he was waiting in the latter's outer office when newspaper men informed him that President Roosevelt had ordered the army to take over the mail routes, Gen. Foulois said.

Later in the day Mr. Branch, in the presence of Postmaster General Farley, related virtually the same story of the Feb. 9 conference, but characterized Gen. Foulois' response to the suggestion of army mail operations as "enthusiastic."

Gen. Foulois, according to Mr. Branch, was pleased over the prospect of additional practice for army pilots. Mr. Branch also pointed out that Gen. Foulois had broadcast an address in which he extolled the army's ability to carry the mail.

When Branch and Postmaster General Farley went to the White House later that day, according to Branch's story, they told President Roosevelt of Gen. Foulois' assurances.

From the first, according to Mr. Branch, the postoffice department has insisted to the war department that it would suffer any delay in the mails necessary to safeguard lives of army pilots. Mr. Branch said that he knew of four occasions on which Gen. Foulois had ordered all army flyers to undertake no flights except under the most favorable weather, personnel, and equipment conditions.

Blames Over-Enthusiasm.

Mr. Branch advanced as his own explanation of the ten fatal crashes an over-enthusiasm on the part of army flyers to display their mettle. He said he believed some flyers had taken off when commercial pilots would have postponed their flights.

Refusing to predict how long before private companies would again carry the mails, Postmaster General Farley said that depended entirely upon congress. A bill is now pending to allow private companies to bid again. Meanwhile the senate and its committees were trying to put through some sort of program. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], chairman of the postoffice committee, sought vainly this afternoon to bring before the senate his emergency bill giving the army additional funds.

Debate Any Bidding.

At hearings before the postoffice committee itself differences broke out over the advisability of awarding the air mail business to bidders at all. Senators James Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], Joseph C. O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.], both stalwart administration backers, suggested instead that air mail be distributed among all operating companies just as regular mail is distributed among railroads.

This suggestion was combated by W. W. Howes, first assistant postmaster general, and Mr. Branch. Howes admitted, however, that the bidding system might allow the air mail to become concentrated in the hands of a few companies, constituting a monopoly.

Air Express Booms as Army Mail Planes Stay Grounded

The United States was without air mail service yesterday for the first time since May, 1918, but, according to reports obtained during the day, the airways of the nation were not deserted. In Chicago officials of two express companies which recently inaugurated air deliveries through commercial air lines, declared business has substantially increased since postoffice deliveries by air were canceled.

The two air express companies are the Railway Express agency, which has an air division affiliated with United Air Lines, Northwest Airways, and Western Air Express; and General Air Express, which is associated with American Airways, Transcontinental and Western Air, Eastern Air Transport, Pennsylvania Airlines, etc.

Heavy Increases Noted.

Officials of both companies yesterday said shipments from Chicago and from the other major air terminals within the country have increased since the army took over the air mails.

Officers of the air division of Railway Express reported shipments from Chicago during the last seven days have amounted to more than 650 separate items weighing a total of 4,000 pounds. This is an increase of almost 40 per cent over the previous week. It also amounts to a 150 per cent increase over the same week of 1933.

General Air Express also reported a jump in poundage carried. While no daily totals were available the company has carried half a ton more of express during the last two weeks than during the preceding similar period. During the last 30 days General Air Express carried 37,897 pounds of express, an increase of 174.63 per cent over the same 30 days in 1933.

Shippers were informed in a statement issued by officials of both express companies yesterday that articles of every sort and weight can be transported to 46 of the 48 states by air. They reiterated that the shipments are speeded still further by a special "pickup and delivery" service for air express packages.

Army Planes Idle.

All mail flying activities at the army air mail headquarters on Municipal airport were at a standstill yesterday as a result of the war department's suspension order. This is the first day no flights were scheduled from Chicago since air mail service was extended here in 1919. The first air mail service in the country was inaugurated on May 15, 1918, connecting Washington, Philadelphia, and New York.

Only a few mechanics were in the army hangars here yesterday and a few army pilots lounged in their quarters. The office force of the army mail department, however, was humming as Col. Horace Hickam, commandant of the central zone mail operations, was completing arrangements for resumption of the mail schedules.

Col. Hickam said his men are ready to pick up any schedule which is set for the central zone. He said his readiness has been reported to Washington in accordance with orders dispatched on Sunday, but added that he has been given no inkling of what routes or upon what schedules the air mail service will operate in the future. Postoffice authorities here said that announcement of the future schedules would come from Washington.

YOUTH RIDING TOP OF TRUCK KILLED UNDER VIADUCT

John Kalchbrenner, 18 years old, 148 West 46th place, was killed yesterday when he was crushed between the top of a truck on which he was riding and the roof of the Rock Island railroad viaduct at 49th street and Union avenue. The youth was aiding in the transportation of his family's furniture to a new home.

Mrs. William H. Joost, 2208 Highland avenue, wife of a division superintendent in the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident at Hopkinsville, Ky. The Joost car collided with one driven by the manager of a Hopkinsville A. and P. store. Mrs. Joost was only slightly injured.

There was one other death in Cook county yesterday, increasing the total of motor fatalities for 1934 to 239. The victim:

William G. Remes, 32 years old, 1419 South Scoville avenue, Berwyn. Killed when the car in which he was riding to work crashed into a light pole in front of 2623 South Kostner avenue yesterday morning. Police said Remes may have been forced off the street by another motorist's reckless driving.

EDITORS CALLED TO TESTIFY ON GRAFT CHARGES

Wayne T. Stupey and Lloyd McNerney, co-editors and owners of the Waukegan Times, a weekly newspaper, were served yesterday with subpenas ordering them to appear today before County Judge Perry L. Parsons at Waukegan for questioning concerning an editorial they published last Friday.

The editorial stated that, according to information of a reliable nature, six bootleggers were being allowed to operate in the city of Waukegan in violation of the law because of payments of money made to an employe of the county. The editorial further stated that State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county should take action in the matter.

Mr. Mason returned to his duties yesterday after an absence on account of illness. The subpenas were issued immediately upon his return. They stated that the editors would be asked to testify against "John Doe and Richard Roe."

D. C. GRAND JURY FAILS TO INDICT IN ARMY INQUIRY

Votes 15-8 to Drop Quiz on Contracts.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(AP)—A District of Columbia grand jury today refused to return indictments in its investigation of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the government on war department contracts.

By a vote of 15 to 8, it dropped the proceedings, but a transcript of its nearly five weeks of hearings immediately was made available to the house military affairs committee which already has begun investigating all war department expenditures since 1925.

Word of the grand jury's vote was transmitted immediately to the department where Secretary Dern said: "The action of the grand jury is a complete vindication of the war department. This is what I expected."

The grand jury inquiry was instituted by order of the justice department after a series of conferences between war department and justice officials. Among those heard as witnesses were the assistant secretary of war, Harry H. Woodring, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff.

Presents "All Evidence."

Leslie C. Garnett, district attorney, told reporters after the jury had acted:

"I presented all the evidence in the case before the jury. I did not ask for any specific indictments. The case is now closed so far as this office is concerned."

A report in authoritative circles was that the jury was willing to indict two or three of the six or more principals alleged to have figured in the conspiracy, but was advised that legal experts were of the opinion that all or none of them should be indicted.

Coincident with announcement that the jury would delve into army contracts, Secretary Dern said Joseph Silverman Jr. a New York dealer in surplus war supplies, had been barred from his office and that of Woodring.

The grand jury inquiry was recorded officially at the courthouse as the case of the United States versus "Silverman and others."

The sale and purchase of underclothing and motor vehicles were understood to have been the specific objects of the jury's investigation.

Committee to Continue Hearings.

When informed no indictments would be returned, Chairman McSwain [Dem., S. C.] of the house military affairs committee said, "our work now is more important than ever," while Chairman Rogers [Dem., N. H.] of the subcommittee, studying procurement of army supplies, observed:

"It was our primary purpose to determine if there had been any irregularities in procedure, and if there were any, to find out how we might prevent them in the future by changes in the law. That is still our purpose, and we intend to continue on that course.

"Naturally, though, we are interested in anything we find."

Rogers announced Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, assistant chief of the air corps, and Woodring would be heard by the committee tomorrow on the proposed purchase of $7,500,000 worth of airplanes with an advance from the Public Works administration.

During the course of the grand jury's investigation there were reports that inquiry was being made into stories that high government officials and lobbyists played poker, with the lobbyists invariably losing, and that numerous parties were held on expensive yachts sailing down the Potomac.

U. S. ORDERS MELLON CASE SUBMITTED TO GRAND JURY INQUIRY

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 13.—[Special.]—United States Attorney H. S. Dumbauld revealed today he had received instructions from the attorney general's office at Washington to proceed with a grand jury investigation of the income tax returns of Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and particularly Mellon's tax return for the year 1931.

While the federal grand jury is to convene next week at Erie, there appeared little likelihood that an inquiry into Mellon's affairs would be begun by that body. The November grand jury has not been discharged and is subject to recall any time before the regular May term of court.

Dumbauld is known to have been in Washington in January, presumably for conference with the attorney general's office on income tax matters, but he has never confirmed the purpose of his visit.

Papers in the tax probe of the former secretary are understood to have been forwarded here from Washington.

INSULL BECOMES SURLY AS HOUR OF LEAVING NEARS

Plan for Quitting Greece Still a Mystery.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 13.—After weeks of stays, appeals, extensions, and fresh ultimatums, it was definitely established tonight that Samuel Insull is leaving Greece within the next 72 hours.

The American government was emphatically reassured today that the machinery of the Greek government will enforce its decision. Every fact is settled except what scheme the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter has contrived for his departure.

Insull is up against it. No country wants him. Greece will send him away before Friday or deport him to the United States.

His Plans Still Mystery.

What he will decide between now and Thursday night and where his new travels will take him are riddles many legations in Athens tonight would like to solve.

The staf of every legation is talking about Insull tonight. His laissez passer [permit to leave] has been sent around for days in a futile effort to obtain visas. Against this background official activity is evident in preparation for Insull's reluctant departure. It began early today when Foreign Minister Maximos again assured Lincoln MacVeagh, American minister, over the telephone that this time the expulsion order is final. The same statement was repeated by John Moundjouridas, minister of interior. Just to nail the whole thing down, Premier Tsaldaris announced the case is now finished.

Get Cable from U. S.

This action came simultaneously with a long cable from the Greek minister at Washington in which he urged immediate action. He reported the case is scheduled to come up for debate before the American senate.

The ministry of interior today took up the task of finding some place to send the 74 year old fugitive. Officials telephoned the foreign office and sought the use of Greek offices in persuading some country to allow Insull inside its borders.

The Chicagoan received the news that he must get out, not in bed as heretofore, but sitting in a chair. He was sharp and blunt with the policeman and refused to sign a receipt. He quickly seat the policeman on his way. The officer complained he had been treated "rudely."

Insull will not sail for the United States on the Acquitania, which leaves March 20, because the Greek government said that a permit to stay will not be granted on any grounds. The fugitive's only alternatives are a train journey, flight by plane or passage on the de luxe cruise steamer, Statendam, which sails from Piraeus Thursday. The Statendam is due in New York on Sunday, April 8.

BOARD CONSIDERS TWO NEW MEN TO HEAD ILLINOIS U.

Penn State, Northwestern Educators on List.

Two new candidates for the presidency of the University of Illinois outside of the faculty of the institution were revealed yesterday. They are Edward Franklin Albertsworth, professor of constitutional law at Northwestern university, and Ralph Dorn Hetzel, president of Pennsylvania State college.

The trustees of the university will hold their annual meeting in the Blackstone hotel today, and it had been expected that they would elect a president of the university. Several of the trustees were of the opinion last night, however, that the election will not take place because a majority of the board has not so far been mustered for any one educator.

The rumor that partisan politics is a factor in the selection of the new president still persists despite the vehement denials of Edward E. Barrett president of the board of trustees; Gov. Horner, an ex-officio member, and the other trustees. There are five Democrats and four Republicans on the board.

Williams May Head Board.

Although the students and faculty of the university were much in the dark over who the new university president is to be, a definite report was living about the campus at Urbana that Walter W. Williams of Benton, an attorney and Democrat, will be named as the new president of the board of trustees. Williams received his law degree from the University of Illinois in 1903.

For several months the leading contenders for the presidency of the university have been four members of the faculty. They are Dean Charles Manfred Thompson of the college of commerce, a Republican; Prof. Sveinbjorn Johnson, the university's legal counsel, a Democrat; Dean Albert J. Harno of the college of law, and Prof. Arthur Cutts Willard, acting dean of the college of engineering.

Members of the university senate, which includes all the full professors, were asked by the trustees recently to express their opinions regarding the four "home talent" candidates. The results of this ballot have been kept a closely guarded secret.

Sixty Educators Considered.

Outside of the university the trustees began with a list of 60 educators from all parts of the country. This field, it is said, has been narrowed down to two, Prof. Albertsworth and President Hetzel.

Prof. Albertsworth has been on the faculty of the Northwestern university law school for the last ten years. He was born at Cleveland, O., in 1890, was graduated from George Washington university in 1916 and received his doctor's degree there in 1918. After studying further at Columbia and Harvard universities he taught at Washington college, Tacoma Park, D. C., and was dean of the law school of Wyoming in 1921 and 1922.

President Hetzel was born at Merrill, Wis., in 1882. He was graduated from Wisconsin university in 1906 and received his doctor's degree from Dartmouth college in 1918. He taught English and political science at Oregon State college from 1908 to 1917. He served as president of the New Hampshire college of agriculture and mechanic arts from 1917 to 1923, as president of the University of New Hampshire from 1923 to 1926, and has been president of Penn State since January of 1927.

BOY NOW IN JAIL SUED BY ANOTHER VICTIM OF AUTO

William Weber, 17 years old, a high school boy, who is now serving a six months term in the county jail for his failure to pay a $2,500 judgment obtained against him by Mrs. Lucille Saliba of Berwyn after an automobile accident, was named defendant in a similar suit filed yesterday in the Superior court. The suit, which asks $50,000, was filed on behalf of Doris Meyer, 17 years old, 924 Cicero avenue.

The Meyer girl was injured Feb. 4 when an automobile in which she was riding, driven by Weber, overturned. Her eyesight is impaired, according to the bill. The suit contains a malice count under which Weber can be imprisoned for another six months if a jury finds him guilty and includes the count in the judgment.

Mrs. Saliba was injured in 1932 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Weber. A jury included the malice count in her judgment against the boy. After unsuccessful efforts in the Illinois Supreme court and the federal court to avoid serving the sentence he was returned to jail several weeks ago.

BAR FLOSSMOOR SCHOOL FROM A SPEECH CONTEST

Trustees Hit Politics in Chosen Oration.

Because trustees of school district No. 161 in Flossmoor protested against having their pupils engage in political oratory, the school has been barred from competing in the annual county school declamatory contest. The bar was put in effect yesterday by County Superintendent of Schools Otto F. Aken.

The contest opens today with every county grade school except that at Flossmoor competing and is open to pupils in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. It is estimated that perhaps 10,000 children, some as young as 8 years, will compete. About 100 are affected at Flossmoor.

Cause of the Trouble.

The trouble arose several days ago when the trustees at Flossmoor received a copy of the prepared essay which all the competing youngsters will declaim. It is titled "What Makes a Leader?" and was prepared by David J. Heffernan, son-in-law of Edward J. Tobin, late county superintendent of schools, whom Mr. Aken succeeded.

Several paragraphs of the essay the trustees approved, but the last paragraph they objected to on the ground that it is of political texture. This paragraph reads:

"So yesterday when the nation was on the verge of crumbling and the pulse of our people was at its lowest ebb, America brought forth a New Leader. He came with the vision of a New Deal, and promises to stand out in the pages of history. He is fighting poverty with the weapon of a more equal distribution of the great wealth of America. His personality like that of our other leaders has won him the love of the American people. Like our other leaders, it is the same vision, the same loyalty, the same courage and patriotism that brings him to the front leading us gallantly forward to a greater, finer, and more prosperous America."

Trustees Turn It Down.

The Flossmoor trustees, regardless of party faith, agreed unanimously that the paragraph contained political statements, that it would be unwise to permit children to indulge in such, and that it might establish a dangerous precedent. They declared that politics was not a proper subject for discussion in grade school classrooms.

"Such a tribute is a political oration for President Roosevelt," said Trustee K. M. Shankland. "I am a Republican, but I would object as strongly if the remarks hailed a Republican president. Politics and political sentiments have no place in the class room."

A. K. Loomis, a trustee who is also principal of the University High school, echoed Mr. Shankland's opinion. The other trustees are Richard O. Wells, D. W. Hamilton, Mrs. Harry Murfey, Mrs. Clarence Mead, and Douglas Hall.

Aken Charges "Politics."

Superintendent Aken, discussing the matter, charged that the action of the Flossmoor board was rooted in "politics outside the class room."

"Although I had nothing to do with the preparation of the piece to be declaimed, I cannot see that the complaint is a just one," he said. "I am against, and have been against, politics in the schools."

Aken is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county school superintendent against the regular organization candidate.

ITALY'S "RFC" TAKES OVER ALL INDUSTRY LOANS

ROME, March 12.—(AP)—Strings of the gold bags that have poured money into Italian industrial enterprises were snatched by the government from the hands of bankers today and placed in those of a state institute for industrial reconstruction.

Henceforth Italian banks will engage in commercial banking only, and industrial financing will be conducted by the government institute and the industries themselves through stock issues approved by the government.

Because Italian investors generally prefer state securities to industrial stock, it was considered likely that a large share of the financing will devolve upon the government.

An official communique today announcing the change was said by bankers to be the first step in the further reorganization of banks whereby short term industrial loans, such as those for financing the purchase of raw materials, will be concentrated in the hands of Italy's three largest banks, the Banca Commerciale Italiana, the Credito Italiano, and the Banco di Roma.

The communique said the institute had taken over industrial loans of the three banks, comprising 75 per cent of the kingdom's banking wealth.

2 N. Y. LAWYERS TAKE STAND FOR GRAHAM IN SUIT

Two New York lawyers, William O. Thompson and Messmore Kendall, testified yesterday in behalf of Ernest R. Graham, Chicago architect, in a hearing before Master in Chancery Harry Smitz, 145 North Clark street.

The hearing is on Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson's suit to restrain Graham, his attorney, Daniel J. Schuyler and the Canada Life Assurance company from changing the terms of a life annuity bond under which Graham arranged to pay Mrs. Anderson $300 a month beginning next May. A clause in the bond stipulates that the beneficiary may be changed if Mrs. Anderson gives any publicity to a previous romance with the architect. It is one of many suites she has filed involving Graham.

Thompson, questioned by Attorney Charles S. Graves, counsel for Graham, said that he had advised Graham several years ago not to pay Mrs. Anderson anything because in his opinion she did not have a claim against him.

Kendall testified that in 1926 he had paid Mrs. Anderson $30,000 for Graham as a full settlement of any claim.

CHICAGO ENJOYS ADVANCE TOUCH OF SPRINGTIME

Temperature Reaches 51; Colder Tonight.

Sunny skies and balmy temperatures gave Chicago and suburbs an advance touch of spring yesterday. Ending a steady rise, the mercury reached a maximum of 51 degrees at 5 p. m., 10 points above the normal minimum. The mildness is expected to continue during the greater part of today, with a predicted maximum of about 60.

By tonight, however, or tomorrow at the latest, the premature spring-like weather will give way to cooler temperatures from the Canadian northwest. The cold will not be severe, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. It will bring near seasonable temperature, he said.

Half of Nation Is Warm.

Yesterday's mild weather, which Mr. Donnel described as unusual for so early in March, covered the western half of the country. Iowa, North Dakota, and Nevada, he said, registered readings in the high 60's and lower 70's.

Thousands of Chicagoans took advantage of the fine day by sauntering along the lake front, in boulevards and in parks. Hiking paths in the forest preserves and bridle paths in the parks were well used until darkness.

"Spring Fever" Warning.

Warnings to those possibly infected with "spring fever" were given by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, and Paul Battey, horticulturist. Dr. Bundesen advised the public not to be too quick to change from warm clothing to light clothing. Mr. Battey warned amateur gardeners not to plant too early. Both cited the same reason—that cool weather may still be expected.

A survey of the government weather records showed that Chicago thus far has not had an unusually hard winter, especially in comparison with the east, where blizzards and near zero temperatures have been common. Chicago also escaped its normal share of snow. The normal total would be 28.3 inches, Mr. Donnel said, but all Chicago has had thus far is 16.1 inches. Sunshine has remained at normal.

Germany Forbids Jews to Serve in Army and Navy

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 12.—Jews, or men with Jewish wives or one Jewish grandparent, will not be allowed to serve in the German army and navy. This was announced today by Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, after a conference with President Paul von Hindenburg at which he induced the president to approve the measure.

Previously Von Hindenburg had opposed ousting Jewish, or partly Jewish, officers, soldiers, and sailors. He feared such action would be detrimental to the discipline of the army. Many of the old time aristocratic officers have a Jewish strain. They are the sons and grandsons of the aristocrats who married rich Jewesses to be able to afford to remain in the army and navy.

Only Veterans Are Exempt.

Officials close to the executive palace surmised that the new regulation is not directed at the men who are in service now, but will be applied to new enlistments. Nazi quarters, however, assert that the ambiguously worded message means that the president has abandoned his objections and that all Jews will be ousted from the military ranks.

Only a Jew who fought in the trenches during the world war, or whose father was killed in action, will be permitted to become a soldier or sailor.

The new measure is part of a new general anti-Jewish campaign. The Deutsche Zeitung today, in reporting the number of physicians in Berlin, said in its headlines: "Still too many Jewish doctors in Berlin."

Must Practice Abroad.

Jewish students are only allowed to receive a doctor's degree if they guarantee to practice abroad.

Jewish circles are slightly encouraged by a provision in the laws for reorganization of German labor and industry. It stipulates that Jews may "be leaders in their own plants."

Meanwhile Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller of the Protestant church appointed a "chief of staf." He plans to rule autocratically in drawing up an almost military sounding organization. The chief of staf, Bishop Heinrich Oberheid, will direct church administration.

Regular ministries will help Mueller weld together the United German church. Besides theological ministries he will be assisted by a church foreign office, chancellery, and general secretariat, which might be termed his ministry of interior.

Bishop Wilhelm Beye, 30 year old Nazi bishop of Braunschweig, was acquitted today on charges he had pilfered collections in his church in the village of Wenzen and compelled the church to pay his plumbers' bill. Witnesses stressed his "unselfish devotion to the Nazi creed and his tremendous struggle to insure a Nazi victory." The Pastors' Emergency league, which opposes the Nazi church dictatorship, had published accusations against Beye.

In Braunsberg, East Prussia, Dr. Guddas, a pastor, was arrested for telling Sunday school pupils that "the storm troopers and Hitler enthusiasts should not imagine they saved Germany from decline."

Priest Defies Nazis.

Baldur von Schirach, leader of the German youth movement, is struggling to get control of the Catholic youth, whose independence is guaranteed in the concordat.

In the Saar, Father Johann Mueller, deacon secretary, writing for the Saarbrueckener Landes Zeitung, today said the Saar is willing to coöperate with the Nazis for its return to Germany, but that the Catholic Youth associations will not merge with the Hitler youth.

Schirach's answer to this and similar objections is an appeal to youth to "tear down the barricades of reaction, tear down religious obstinacy, and create out of the revolutionary working youth of Germany the true followers of Hitler."

$90 MILLION LOOP PROPERTY ON TAX EXEMPTION LIST

$7,000,000 Levies Avoided on 46 Parcels.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $1,655,404, making a total of $112,000,092 collected since enforcement of the Kenner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

| | 1928. | 1929. |
|---|---|---|
| March 12 ..... | $ 42,083 | $ 47,778 |
| Uncollected .... | 14,970,203 | 40,206,670 |
| | 1930. | 1931. |
| March 12..... | $ 56,913 | $ 203,787 |
| Uncollected .... | 63,769,084 | 60,171,180 |

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $701,957. The day's collection of 1932 personal property taxes totaled $1,088,010. The day's collection of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $9,884.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday made public a list of 46 parcels of loop district real estate which are exempt from taxation because they are used for educational, charitable, or religious purposes or because they have special exemption charters.

According to Robert Wilson, deputy assessor in charge of exemptions, these properties carry an approximate assessed value of $90,000,000. That sum would produce almost $7,000,000 in taxes, were it not for the exemptions, based on the south town 1932 tax rate of $7.73 for every $100 of assessed valuation.

List of Properties.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY, F. C. Austin building at 301-303 South La Salle street; Continental Illinois bank building at 114-122 West Jackson boulevard; parking lot at 23-29 West Lake street.

CATHOLIC BISHOP OF CHICAGO, St. Mary's church at 901-911 South Wabash avenue; St. Mary Paulist house at 1118-22 South Wabash avenue; St. Peter's church at 800-818 South Clark street.

Y. M. C. A., Central Association building at 17-21 South La Salle street.

PACIFIC GARDEN MISSION, 650 South State street.

LOYOLA LAW SCHOOL, 20-28 North Franklin street.

KENT COLLEGE OF LAW, 10 North Franklin street.

ILLINOIS HUMANE SOCIETY, 1145 South Wabash avenue.

Governmental Exemptions.

In addition to the above properties the assessor's exemption list includes 22 parcels of loop property owned by the city, county, board of education, the south park board, and the United States government. Most of these properties are public buildings used wholly for public service as the city hall, county and federal buildings. But the private leaseholds and improvements erected by private interests on publicly owned properties are subject to taxation.

In three cases parts of privately owned parcels are taxed for the portions used for commercial purposes. These are the Crerar library, 150-156 North Michigan avenue; the Orchestral association, 212-220 South Michigan avenue, and the First Methodist Episcopal church and office building property at 75-81 West Washington street.

SEIZE EX-CONVICT AS LEADER OF SWINDLERS' RING

Sam Dodson, 58 years old, an ex-convict from the Michigan state prison, was arrested in Detroit yesterday as a suspected leader in the swindling operations of a gang of paroled convicts. Another alleged member of the ring is already in custody here. He is William A. Porter, 28 years old, who was paroled from the Jackson prison three months ago.

According to Lieut. Edward Kelly of the detective bureau, the gang operated on a two-fold plan. They would first steal credentials of victims. Then, posing as the persons they had robbed, they would visit loan offices and put up spurious stocks and obtain loans. Dodson, Lieut. Kelly said, is believed to have been the man who printed the bogus stocks. He has waived extradition to Chicago.

Porter's alleged rôle in the swindling racket was different, Lieut. Kelly said. Porter was paroled from the Jackson prison three months ago after serving 7 years of a 25 year robbery sentence. He soon became manager of the Lancaster hotel at 944 Leland avenue, and there harbored his old pals while they looted the rooms of hotel guests. Porter's case came up in the Felony court yesterday and was continued to March 30.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Harry Gardner, 27 years old, 1129 East 55th street, as he nursed an aching head, yesterday was questioned by police regarding recent burglaries in the Hyde Park district. While allegedly trying to pry a telephone box from the wall in a corridor of the building at 5309 Harper avenue he was interrupted by Mrs. Wilma Sanburn, 25 years old. He pointed a small crowbar at her, but she, refusing to believe it was a gun, snatched it from his hands and beat him unconscious with the tool.

ALDERMEN URGED TO INCREASE '34 CITY BUDGET FUND

Ask Added Services; Action Today.

In a public hearing yesterday on the city council finance committee's $43,984,685 corporate budget, a number of labor union representatives and private citizens pleaded with the aldermen to increase the appropriations for 1934. Their requests and other proposals will be considered by the committee at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The council will meet tomorrow to pass the budget.

The hearing was enlivened by a vigorous discussion between Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] concerning the part played by citizens' committees in scaling down the budget nearly $4,000,000 from the $47,883,195 appropriated for 1933. Clark denied that reductions effected by the committee were the result of any outside dictation. Nelson argued that appropriations should be increased to provide essential services, even if a deficit results.

Asks New Health Bureau.

The creation of a new health department bureau of 25 inspectors to license and supervise food handlers was suggested by Alfred Kristensen, president of the Pure Food league of Illinois. He said that there are more than 350,000 food handlers in Chicago, and that if each were licensed at $1 a year the city would increase its revenues materially.

"The spread of amebic dysentary," said Kristensen, "was caused by inadequate inspection. The health board has some food inspectors, but they often are doing other work. A semi-annual inspection of all food handlers should be compelled by city ordinance."

Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th] said such an ordinance has been approved by the health committee, of which he is chairman, for vote by the council.

More Officers Sought.

Michael Ryan, attorney for a number of police lieutenants who gained their promotions through the courts, asked for an increase in the number of lieutenants from 127 to 151 and in the number of sergeants from 497 to 551. The appropriation for only 127 lieutenants, he pointed out, does not include the salaries of 24 recently promoted lieutenants.

Thomas E. Maloy, head of the Moving Picture Operators' union, asked for the inclusion of a licensing examiner for movie operators, at a salary of $4,000 a year. He was followed by Irwin [Bosco] Knott and Michael Boyle of electrical workers' unions, who claimed that street lighting will suffer as a result of cuts made in the appropriations in the department of streets and electricity.

THOUSANDS PAY INCOME TAX AS DEADLINE NEARS

Tribune Public Service Offices Give Aid.

With the deadline for filing income tax returns—midnight Thursday—drawing near, thousands of taxpayers are flocking to the United States courthouse, jamming the corridors and elevators each day. Hundreds of others are being assisted with their returns and filing them at THE TRIBUNE public service offices. These offices are on the first floor of Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street.

Almost 1,000 persons were assisted with their returns in the two offices yesterday and the total aided so far is approximately 5,500. A deputy collecter and two internal revenue agents are stationed in the Dearborn street office and another deputy is in the Tower office.

Many Taxpayers Confused.

The conditions for the paying of individual income tax this year are the same as they were a year ago, but many taxpayers are still confused by certain details. This is particularly true of the stock and bond provisions, according to the deputies.

An individual may deduct losses resulting from the sale of stocks only after they have been held for more than two years. Then they are considered as capital assets and the deduction is allowed as a capital loss. Losses in stocks and bonds held less than two years are deductible only to the extent that gains are shown in similar transactions during the same period. The losses may be set off against the gains.

Individual Rates the Same.

The tax rates for individuals are the same, with a flat normal tax of 4 per cent and surtaxes graduated from 1 per cent at $4,000 to 55 per cent at $1,000,000. A single person is allowed an exemption of $1,000, a married man or head of a household $2,500, and $400 is allowed for each dependent. There is no credit for earned income, the 10 per cent credit recently voted by congress not applying this year.

Three changes have been made in the corporation income tax and are now in effect. The rate has been increased to 13¾ per cent; there are no statutory exemptions, and there are no provisions for carrying over losses. If there is a net loss in one year the deficit cannot be deducted in calculating the tax for the next year.

Penalty for Late Filing.

The bureau of internal revenue yesterday issued a warning against failure to file income tax returns on time. It called attention to section 291 of the revenue act of 1932 which provides a penalty of 25 per cent of the tax for late filing.

Hayes in the Boys' court yesterday. Paul Laverne Darnell, 20 years old, 6247 Blackstone avenue, a companion of the boys, was shot and fatally wounded by Patrolman John Henry when the three held up a tavern at 6404 South State street several days ago.

WIRE TAPPING LINKS HOODLUMS IN RACKET CASE

Federal Agent Presents New Evidence.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Wire tapping testimony purporting to link Murray Humphreys and other members of the Capone gang with the operations in 1932 of the Carbonated Beverage Institute of Chicago was given yesterday in the racket conspiracy trial by Clarence L. Converse, federal investigator.

It was Converse's second appearance on the witness stand. Several weeks ago he told the jury hearing the case before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court of other conversations which he heard in the summer and fall of 1932 over the tapped telephone wires of Humphreys and Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, a defendant in the case. He was engaged at the time in an investigation of Humphreys' income tax affairs. Humphreys is now a fugitive in the racket case as well as from a federal indictment charging income tax evasion.

Tells of Conversations.

Agent Converse's previous testimony covered affairs of the laundry and cleaning and dyeing industries. The majority of the 18 defendants on trial, including trade association heads and their attorneys and labor union officials, are charged with illegal activities under plans for the "stabilization" of those industries prepared by two principal defendants—Attorney Aaron Sapiro in the laundry business and Dr. B. M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, in the cleaning and dyeing trade.

Attorney Kaplan, A. J. Canfield, who was president of the Carbonated Beverage institute, and Jerry Donovan, secretary-treasurer of the Carbonated Beverage Drivers' union, are the only defendants involved in the beverage phase of the alleged conspiracy. Converse testified that he heard Humphreys Charles Fischetti, cousin of Al Capone, and Dave Ostran, field agent of the industry, who is a fugitive in the present case, discussing institute affairs with Kaplan. The name of State Senator Dan Serritella, a Capone ally, was also mentioned in the conversations.

Among the conversations described by Converse were two dealing with the affairs of Philip Gradle, president of the Silverbrook Beverage company, who testified last week. Gradle was fined $200 by the institute for an alleged violation of its rules in taking on three jobbers who had previously dealt with another company. He objected to paying the fine, and employed an attorney who, according to the prosecutors in the case, sought the aid of Serritella in getting a rehearing of the matter by the institute grievance committee. That was in October, 1932.

Must Pay His Fine.

Questioned by Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd Healy, Converse described a conversation over Humphreys' telephone wire out of the Seneca hotel in which Humphreys and Fischetti spoke to a man identified as "Dave"—by implication, Dave Ostran. Fischetti, he said, asked if Gradle was coming up for a hearing that afternoon, and when "Dave" said that he was, replied, according to the witness:

"Well, a good friend of ours called up and said to lay off him for a couple of days."

Humphreys, Converse said, then took the telephone and instructed "Dave" that Gradle would have to pay his fine, but was to be given a rehearing. Five minutes later, the federal agent said, Humphreys called Kaplan, and the following conversation ensued:

Humphreys—"You have a fellow named Gradle coming in to you. He was fined $100. Dan Serritella talked to him. When you see him tell him you don't know me or Charley [Fischetti]."

Kaplan—"Oh, he has already phoned me."

Attempt to Discredit Witness.

Gradle testified that when he asked Kaplan if he [Kaplan] had heard from Charley, a question his attorney, Harold Marks, had told him to ask, Kaplan replied, "Who is Charley?" Gradle also testified that he was given a rehearing on the case and that his fine eventually was remitted.

Defense attorneys, led by Benedict J. Short, counsel for Kaplan, made the same strenuous effort which they had on his previous appearance, to discredit Converse's testimony. In particular they attacked his contention that he had been able to take down in long hand the full text of the conversation he heard.

Earlier testimony yesterday was given by Louis Williams, one of the owners of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, and Marvin J. Bass, attorney for Williams and his partner, Louis Hollman. They described the strikes, acid throwings and other incidents of violence which centered about the Michigan plant at 63d street and Loomis boulevard in 1931, after Hollman and Williams had refused to join the Cleaners and Dyers institute.

Four patrol cutters powered with Diesel engines and carrying radio equipment will be transferred from the Atlantic coast to the Chicago division of the coast guard within a few months to increase the protection for great lakes shipping, it was announced yesterday by Capt. H. H. Searles, head of the division.

Each of the ships is manned by three warrant officers and 20 men of other ranks. This addition to the strength of the coast guard in the lakes will greatly aid shipping interests, he said. Heretofore the coast guard has had only one cutter in Lake Michigan.

The ships and their future stations are: The Rush, 125 feet long, Chicago; Perry, 100 footer, Green Bay, Wis.; Wolcott, 100 footer, Milwaukee, and Dallas, 100 footer, Sault Sainte Marie, Mich.

Dr. Andrew C. Garvey, 6000 Sheridan road, a member of the staf of the John B. Murphy hospital, testified yesterday before Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy that his wife, Frances, left their home after she had complained that one of her stepchildren tittered at her. Dr. Garvey is suing for divorce, charging desertion. Mrs. Garvey has a cross bill for separate maintenance in which she alleges cruelty.

After the tittering incident Mrs. Garvey went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Philip Spies, at 1943 Farwell avenue, the doctor said, and did not ask to return home until last Feb. 14.

Dr. Garvey denied he had ever struck his wife and said that since their marriage in 1924 she had forced him "to lead a life of suppression." He has ten children by his first wife, who is dead. The hearing will continue today.

1 KILLED, 6 SHOT IN DOCK STRIKE CLASH IN CUBA

Regime Claims Situation Under Control.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 12.—The government of President Carlos Mendieta tonight claimed that the threatening epidemic of strikes which spread through Cuba recently is under control.

Disorders, said to be inspired by communists to bring about the overthrow of the government, continued sporadically, but generally activities appeared to be regaining normalcy and workers were trickling back to their jobs.

Clash at Docks.

One dock worker was killed and six others were shot this morning in an outbreak of shooting along the water front. The clash was presumably between strikers and strikebreakers.

There were several versions of the firing. One declared the workers started the shooting. Other stories were that police and sailors guarding the docks fired at strikers.

A report that Mendes Penate, secretary of labor, had resigned met with a denial tonight from the presidential palace. It was announced Penate has been given a 48 hour leave because of illness.

Reveal Plot on Batista.

SANTA CLARA, Cuba, March 12.—(AP)—The arrest of four former army officers tonight uncovered what authorities believed was a far-reaching conspiracy within the army to overthrow Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuban chief of staff.

They were taken into custody at a hotel where authorities alleged they had planned to meet a number of enlisted and noncommissioned officers of the Santa Clara garrison. Local military authorities said the alleged plot may have extended to other provinces and that they expected further arrests.

MOB IN MADRID FIRES CATHOLIC KINDERGARTEN

Extremists Launch Series of Strike Disorders.

MADRID, Spain, March 12.—(AP)—Radical laborers set fire to a Catholic kindergarten full of children today, but civil guards arrived in time to save the children and arrest two of the mob.

The children were thrown into a panic. The furnishings of the school in the Concepcion district were considerably damaged.

Guards went into action several times when extremists stoned and tried to overturn street cars. Several strikers were arrested.

NEWSPAPER STRIKE ON

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 12.—Defying the government as well as publishers, 12,000 Socialist press workers went on strike today and deprived Madrid of newspapers. The action increased the tension and added to the fear of revolt.

Agapito Garcia Artadell, secretary of the Graphic Arts federation, explained that the walkout followed an attempt by the A. B. C., Madrid's biggest newspaper, which is controled by monarchists, to introduce Fascist workers.

"We have decided to stop that and show that the Socialists control the Madrid press," he said.

Policemen Become Newsboys.

The strike turned policemen into newsboys. Squads in rubberneck buses were given the job of distributing the official gazette to subscribers. The gazette was printed by soldiers drafted into the government shop.

With a showdown between conservatives and radicals drawing near, many Socialist deputies departed for the provinces tonight. Considerable significance is attached to their leaving since it may mean they have gone to their districts to lead their supporters in case of an outbreak.

Another cloud was added to the dark mass on the horizon when the revolutionary committee of the communistic workers' alliance in Barcelona called a 24 hour general strike for tomorrow. This will be a further demonstration against Fascism.

Strike Epidemic Spreads.

The strike epidemic also spread to 30,000 construction workers and 15,000 metal workers in Madrid, to several textile mills in Barcelona and to all workers in the town of Segovia. Some of those in Barcelona are folded arm strikes in which the workers report but do nothing and some are "tired arm" strikes in which they work just a little.

After presiding for several hours last night over a futile discussion between representatives of workers and employers in the construction strike, Minister of Interior Salazar Alonso suddenly arrested every one at the meeting. They were freed under bail tonight, however, to continue their talks.

Sixteen Madrid communists and anarchists were selected today as the first guests at the new concentration camp in the Canary islands and are reported to have started their trip.

It was reported tonight that the coast guard ship Larache caught a fishing boat smuggling arms into Spain near Cadiz, destined for Fascists.

JAS. ROOSEVELT'S WIFE IS TO NAME NEW DESTROYER

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the President, will perform the naming ceremony when the U. S. S. Farragut, one of the first group of destroyers built for the United States navy since the completion of the war-time program in 1920, is launched Wednesday at the Fore river yards of the Bethlehem Steel corporation at Quincy, Mass.

The Farragut is of 1,500 tons displacement. Her geared turbines and water tube boilers represent considerable advance over the power plants of previous destroyers dsigned to give a longer cruising radius. Sister ships of the Farragut are building at Bath, Me., and at various navy yards.

DOC BRINKLEY MAY PUT OUT TO SEA TO BROADCAST 'CURES'

Wichita, Kas., March 12.—(AP)—The Wichita Beacon says it has received a report that Dr. John R. Brinkley, operator of the now silenced radio station XER at Villa Acuna, Mexico, has purchased a yacht and may take his broadcasting activities to the high seas.

Dr. Brinkley is said to have purchased the yacht Shadow K, formerly owned by Carl G. Fisher, now in drydock at Miami, Fla., undergoing repairs.

9 Employes Used as Bandits' Shield.

Atchison, Kas., March 12.—(AP)—Willard Linville, chief of police, was wounded by machine gun fire, two bank employes were slugged and nine were kidnaped here today by four men who took $21,000 from the Exchange National and Exchange State banks.

The kidnaped employes, used as a shield, were released after the robbers made their getaway.

Police Chief Shot.

Chief Linville was shot down near the banks, located in the same building. He started to draw his pistol as the employes, three of them women, were being herded into the robbers' car. Linville fell with six bullets in his body.

The robbers dashed away with some of their hostages in the car and others standing on the running boards.

Patrolman Pete Gearhart was fired at, but was missed and he did not return the fire, fearing to shoot a bank employe.

Ed Iverson, cashier of the Exchange State, suffered a skull fracture. He had been pounded on the head with the butt of a pistol because he was unable to unlock the bank safe. He fell from a running board on the mad ride out of town. George Wolf, assistant cashier, also was slugged, and taken away in the auto.

Seated on Bandit's Lap.

Miss Addie Mattock, a secretary, was forced to sit on the lap of one of the masked bandits. Miss Mary Low also was placed in the car, and Miss Gertrude Weinmann was compelled to stand on a running board. Miss Mattock said the robbers "pulled us around and swore continually."

The others taken as hostages were Hugh Cavanaugh, Ed Mattock, John Baker, and Pat Hansen.

The thieves' car was found about five miles from Atchison and there were unverified rumors that a woman had been seen in a hotel here this morning puffing a cigar. That led to a police theory that the leader of the holdup may have been Clyde Barrow, notorious bank robber and killer, whose compaion is Bonnie Parker, cigar smoking gunwoman.

KENTUCKY WILL VOTE ON STATE DRY ACT IN 1935

Frankfort, Ky., March 12.—(AP)—Submission of the state prohibition amendment to the voters in the November, 1935, election was authorized by the Kentucky general assembly today. The senate passed, 33 to 4, the house bill which does not have to be signed by the governor.

During debate Senator S. C. Ray, Republican of Litchfield, who, with two other Republicans and one Democrat, voted against the resolution, displayed a newspaper picture portraying a daughter of United States Senator Alben W. Barkley taking a legal drink in Washington and criticized Barkley, saying he had campaigned as a dry.

We hope a lot of brides and brides-to-be will see this advertisement. And read it carefully. For it will strengthen their morale when facing that great crisis, the first dinner party.
Of course, it's just got to be a success. And, of course, it will be, if one simple precaution is taken. Get a bottle of Maggi's Seasoning and use as directed.
If you are serving a soup, which after tasting you find to be weak or flat, stir in a few dashes of Maggi's Seasoning just before it is ready to serve. In the same way it will improve your vegetables and gravy. Add it to your salad dressing too. Do this and guests will go away envying your husband more than ever.
Maggi's Seasoning has the unique property of multiplying the natural taste of food and making it more pronounced and appetizing. If a dish is flat or tasteless it quickly restores the deficiency. It is not a sauce or a spicy condiment. Does not substitute its flavor for that of the dish itself. When you use Maggi's Seasoning you are not making a hold experiment. It is popular with millions of European and American housewives, not to speak of the world's leading chefs who constantly keep it on hand. They have used it for many years. MAGGI'S SEASONING, in a keyed-coupon test, found the Herald Tribune's cost-per-inquiry the lowest in New York. Naturally the Herald Tribune is one of the favored papers on Maggi's concentrated list.

On this page are other grocery product advertisers who are also making successful use of small space units in the Herald Tribune. Sakura Crabmeat, White Rock, Blue Goose Grapefruit, Castle Health Bread, Burnett's Vanilla, all give the Herald Tribune more advertising than any other newspaper in New York.

Reader response is the determining factor. An advertisement in the Herald Tribune reaches the housewife at the time when food buying is being planned. The proof of this influence in the home is reflected in grocery chain store advertising. In the past three years chain grocery advertising in this newspaper has increased 138%.

Such steady increases, through depression times, reflect just one thing—results! The Herald Tribune provides a huge concentration of able-to-buy families, both city and suburban. It can produce outstanding returns for those advertisers who would enter the New York market in the most effective way.

DOUG AND MARY MAKE UP OVER ATLANTIC PHONE

Movie Couple Expected to Renew Romance.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

LONDON, March 12.—Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and his wife, Mary Pickford, have practically patched up all their differences and are near a reconciliation, it was learned from indisputable sources today.

Fairbanks and Miss Pickford have talked over trans-Atlantic telephone within the last few days with the result that their reunion on the old basis of married life is practically assured.

"It is just a matter of time now," the informant said. "The reconciliation will require several months."

Fairbanks is planning to return to the United States in two or three months—as soon as he has finished a picture making contract in Europe.

Hollywood's most famous couple may reunite as soon as he lands, but it seems more likely that it will be two months after that before they are rejoined.

The couple would be reunited today if the divorce action of Lord Ashley against his wife—naming Fairbanks as co-respondent—had not intervened.

Will Stay in Movies.

While the terms of the settlement were not stated, Doug apparently has given up his plans that he and Mary should quit working.

Doug is reported doing his work on suburban London movie lots with old-time pep, laughing and joking.

Douglas Sr. is not the only happy member of his family. Douglas Jr., whose matrimonial venture with Joan Crawford ran aground, is preparing to leave Friday for the Mediterranean, where he will rejoin Gertrude Lawrence, English actress, whom he is expected to wed.

First he will go to north Africa, later meeting Miss Lawrence on the island of Mallorca. Young Doug denied any plans to wed secretly there—but his denial was a half-hearted one.

Lady Ashley is Informed.

Lady Ashley, when told tonight a reconciliation between Fairbanks and Miss Pickford was virtually assured, said she knew he was going to return to the United States, but "I do not expect that will be for some time."

"I know he is going back for the opening of his picture, which he is just starting to make here," she said at her Mayfair flat. "As for my own plans, they are rather indefinite for the moment."

Lady Ashley, the former Sylvia Hawkes, a London actress, refused to discuss reports that she and Doug, in whose company she was seen frequently in recent months, were ever considering marriage.

"Nothing to Say," Miss Pickford.

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Mary Pickford gave a thumb nail interview today at the Sherry Netherlands hotel on the subject of dispatches from London indicating that she had agreed, by trans-Atlantic telephone, to a reconciliation with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks.

Reporter: "Is it true?"

Mary: "I'm very sorry; I have nothing to say."

Reporter: "Are you going to London?"

Mary: "No, I'm going to Hollywood shortly."

Reporter: "Is it true that you have telephoned to Mr. Fairbanks in London?"

Mary smiled. Then she walked outside to her car.

"I'll telephone when I have something to say," she remarked.

Rockford Gets 18 Pct. Cut in Electric Rates

Rockford, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—A slash of approximately 18 per cent in Rockford home electric bills was announced today by the Central Illinois Electric and Gas company. The reduction, amounting to $150,549, is the result of an agreement reached by an arbitration committee appointed by Mayor C. Henry Bloom and Donald C. # ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR 'PAID RELIEF' REPLACING CWA

Col. Blair Is to Direct State Program.

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that Col. Edward J. Blair, commission engineer, will have complete charge of work relief in the state when the new program supplants the Civil Works administration on April 1.

The announcement was made as Dunham addressed a gathering of 200 representatives of county relief committees gathered in Hotel La Salle. The group was then informed of plans for the new relief program and ordered to prepare to employ 115,000 persons in the state and probably 60,000 of that number within Cook county.

Cash Wages to Be Paid.

Only those on the emergency relief rolls at the time the CWA was instituted or those who are now eligible for relief will be allowed jobs, the committeemen were told. The relief will be in the form of cash paid to the individual workers, but the cash is to be paid on the same basis as the subsistence relief of food, coal, clothing, etc., was supplied.

This means that the wages of the workers will be regulated to balance with private resources and to supply only actual needs. No more than one individual in any family will be given a job and the maximum hours of work will be limited to 24 a week.

The minimum wages will be 30 cents an hour. Higher wages will be paid to skilled laborers, but none may be given more hours of work than will produce pay for actual needs.

The wages will be paid from federal funds from the $950,000,000 grant by congress in its present session. Howard O. Hunter, federal regional field representative of the CWA and federal relief administration, will "keep an eye on every federal dollar spent," said Mr. Dunham.

Must Be Desirable Project.

The projects which will be continued under the state program from CWA beginnings, must be "those that the city or county involved would not undertake upon its own initiative and must be socially and economically desirable." The federal money may be used only to pay salaries. Materials must be purchased by the municipality in which the work is being done.

Wilfred F. Reynolds, secretary of the state commission, addressing the meeting, explained that the CWA was an employment program, while the new work plan will amount to "paid relief." He explained that it will put into a community only as much money as the old state relief activities prior to intervention of the federal government.

He explained that at its peak the CWA had employed 226,000 persons in Illinois. About half of these who qualified as unemployed are to be dropped from the pay rolls before March 31.

Under the new plan those on the relief rolls who are unable to work will be given aid in the manner in which they received it in the past. Reynolds said food and coal orders would be issued by the commission to no others on the rolls.

POPULATION GAIN DECREASES FOR ENGLAND, WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—During the last three months of 1933 the population of England and Wales showed the smallest increase in a final quarter for many years. The natural increase in population by excess of births over deaths was 7,828, as against a natural increase of 38,893, 29,532, and 23,801 in the corresponding quarters of 1930, 1931, and 1932.

The registrar general's returns show that in England and Wales there were 129,925 births during the 1933 period, which is 10,342 fewer than in the corresponding quarter of 1932.

There were 580,850 births and 496,550 deaths in England and Wales during the year, and 634,748 marriages.

AAA OPENS FIRST HEARING ON MILK PACT VIOLATIONS

Farmers Won't Say They Sold to Defendants.

The first hearing of alleged violations of the new Chicago milk marketing license was held yesterday at the United States Customs building, 610 South Canal street. Thirteen of the 52 witnesses who appeared in response to subpenas issued by the agricultural adjustment administration testified on a dozen charges that have been lodged against two defendants.

Elmer D. Hays, chief attorney for the license enforcing division of the AAA, had charge of the hearing, which lasted all day and will be resumed today. Frank Baker, administrator for the Chicago milk shed, was present but took no part in the proceedings. The questioning of witnesses was conducted by two AAA attorneys from Washington, W. Carroll Hunter and Julian de Bruyun Kops Jr.

Summary of Charges.

The defendants are Lloyd V. Shissler of Lombard, who is charged as an individual, and the People's Dairy company of Cicero, of which Shissler is president. The accusations against both defendants are the same. A summary of the formal charges follows:

1. That the licensee has violated the terms of the license at divers times since it became effective on Feb. 5.
2. The licensee has distributed, manufactured and handled for consumption in the Chicago area milk purchased in violation of the federal license issued for this milk shed.
3. In violation of the license the licensee engaged in interstate commerce in purchasing milk from producers in Wisconsin.
4. Purchases were made by the licensee from producers who did not authorize the licensee to comply with provisions of the license.
5. The licensee failed to pay the price set by the federal license.
6. The licensee purchased milk from producers not in the Chicago market and failed to obtain a permit to do so from the market administrator. [Two counts.]
7. The licensee failed to submit reports to the AAA. [Two counts.]
8. The licensee purchased milk from producers who did not have a base. [Two counts.]
9. The licensee agreed to pay farmers a flat price of $1.40 per hundredweight, and has openly and notoriously announced his intention of not abiding by the license.

Eleven Farmers Testify.

Eleven Wisconsin farmers were questioned concerning their sale of milk in an effort to show that they sold their products to the defendants. But all the witnesses denied they knew to whom their milk was sold. They asserted it was sold through their marketing organization, the Farmers Milk association, and that it was the association's business and not theirs to know who was buying the milk.

However, they were connected with the defendants' activities in the communities near Sharon and Walworth, Wis., where the farmers reside, when they admitted that they took their milk to a place called Six Corners near Walworth and that a truck with Shissler's name on it appeared and picked up the milk.

Don Geyer Questioned.

The farmers said they were not told how much money they were to receive for their milk and had never known how much they would get except that it would be greater than the amount they obtained by delivering it to the condensery at Walworth.

Don Geyer, secretary-manager of the Pure Milk association, marketing agency of 18,000 organized producers, was questioned on his knowledge of the Chicago market. He said that in a measure the base and surplus plan of paying farmers sets the price for all producers in this milk shed, including independents.

L. V. Schissler Jr., son of the defendant, who had been subpenaed in the belief that he was the driver of the truck that picked up the Wisconsin farmers' milk, asserted that his brother, Harry, drove the truck. A subpena was consequently issued for his brother.

Three men used a brick to shatter the window of the Publix Dairy store, 11048 Wentworth avenue, early yesterday. The owner of the depot, Benjamin Stevich, attributed the attack to the fact that he was buying from an independent dairy and selling milk at cut rate prices.

SPRINGFIELD BOY FIREBUG WILL GO TO DAD'S RANCH

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—(AP)—His father's New Mexico farm is to be the new home of Cecil Kiper, the 10 year old boy who admitted to state officials that he started the $900,000 fire that destroyed the Illinois state arsenal.

The boy will be taken tomorrow to the tenant farm near Hayden, N. M., County Judge Oramel B. Irwin announced this afternoon.

In new surroundings, away from undesirable influences, young Cecil will be given an opportunity to lead a normal life and develop a useful citizenship.

The father, Gilbert Kiper, arrived unexpectedly today with the boy's stepmother. Mrs. Cal Nicholson of Springfield, the mother, told Judge Irwin that she is willing to give Cecil to his father for the boy's good.

Cecil admitted that he started the arsenal fire a month ago by throwing a flaming paper bag, weighted with a wire, against a stage curtain. Psychologists said he had started several small rubbish fires elsewhere.

THESE FRACTIONS MOUNT UP!

Statisticians view with alarm the growing tendency towards smaller families, but Philadelphia points with pride to an average family of 4.13 persons. One-quarter of a person more than New York City or Chicago.

These fractions mount up! For example: If a food manufacturer's advertising were reaching half a million families in New York City, half a million families in Chicago, and half a million in Philadelphia . . . . that extra quarter of a person per family in Philadelphia would total 125,000 additional people, consuming food, helping to make advertising pay.

Census figures reveal the reason for Philadelphia's larger average. Philadelphia is the greatest City of Private Homes in America. 91.6% of all the dwellings are single-family homes.

There are no tenants across the hall to protest youngsters' romping; no landlord to frown a "no children wanted" sign.

Generations have bred a love of home into this people. Home ties are strong. Home interests dominate. Home needs and home conveniences have first call on family budgets.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is edited for and by Philadelphia homes. Their interests have dictated its method of handling news. Their cooperation has shaped its editorial program. Their confidence and reading interest have brought The Bulletin from a small daily to the third largest circulation in America in a brief span of thirty-eight years.

CONVICTS MAKE GUNS; TRY BREAK AT SAN QUENTIN

One Pistol Good Enough to Kill Fellow.

San Quentin prison, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Three makeshift pistols failed to open the gates of San Quentin prison for four desperate convicts today, but the freedom bent quartet accidentally killed another prisoner before they were overpowered by guards in a hand to hand struggle.

Guards said the attempted break apparently was led by Ethan A. McNab, 36. He was assisted by William Bagley, 42; Lewis H. Downs, 20, and George Fredericks, 33.

Shot Through Chest.

The convict slain was John Hubert Arbuckle, 20, who was shot through the chest apparently by accident when McNab's crude weapon exploded a shell.

Working in secret, the convicts had fashioned three weapons and some cartridges. One weapon had a two foot barrel, another a foot long barrel, and the third was a rebuilt automatic pistol.

With these the quartet suddenly confronted Guard Fred H. Miller, who was in an alley near the prison electric shop. Miller was knocked down and the convicts then tied up three other prisoners. McNab donned Miller's uniform.

Gun Fires Accidentally.

As he was helping tie the other men up McNab's gun went off and fatally wounded Arbuckle.

The convicts then approached Guard E. L. Williamson on the wall.

"Ernie, give me and these electricians a hand in getting this wire over the wall," McNab called out, pointing to the convicts carrying a ladder and wire.

Not recognizing McNab as a guard, Williamson fired.

Fredericks, who was not armed, immediately fled and hid, while the three other prisoners returned the shots. Guard Robert Posthumus, Fred Hoggeboom, captain of the jute mill, and Guard Neils Peterson, seized the armed convicts after a struggle.

Dillinger Plan Fails.

Jackson, Miss., March 12.—(AP)—Escape plans, apparently inspired by John Dillinger's break from an Indiana jail, were thwarted today when officers removed miscellaneous weapons, including a dummy pistol, from the cells of three Negroes under sentence to hang Friday at Hernando, Miss., for criminally attacking a young white girl.

An improvised "revolver" fashioned out of a tobacco tin, two sharp edged dirks, and a rough edged piece of metal resembling a saw, were discovered by Jailor Porter Wells and Sheriff Warren Ferguson, secreted in the bedding of Isaac Howard, Ernest McGehee, and Johnnie Jones.

The three are scheduled to be removed to Hernando Thursday night under military guard, where they will be hanged.

FOUND HANGED IN ATTIC.

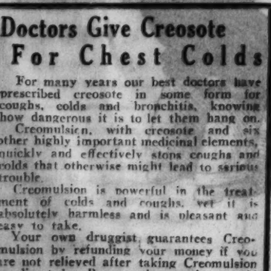
Frank Kotas, 74 years old, 3003 South Tripp avenue, was found hanged early yesterday in the attic of his son's home at 4020 West 31st street. He had been despondent over ill health, the police were told.



Stop that laxative habit

Medicine-laxatives often churn about in the stomach for hours—just because they can't get by that pylorus valve.

Not only that, most medicine laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes of the digestive tract—lose their force when taken regularly—compel you to keep increasing the dose.

That' why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine-laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water — is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish—get results within an hour—and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c—large bottles (3 times the quantity), 50c. At all druggists.

Doctors Give Creosote For Chest Colds

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion, with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

Kentucky Editor Gets Hearing in Assembly Contempt Case

BULLETIN.

Frankfort, Ky., March 13 (Tuesday).—(AP)—The house committee that tried Vance Armentrout, acting editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, for alleged contempt, went into executive session shortly after midnight to consider what report to make to the house. The committee adjourned after a brief session and will meet again this afternoon.

Frankfort, Ky., March 12.—(AP)—Vance Armentrout's contention that he was "honor bound" to go to jail rather than reveal the writer of a letter to his paper criticizing the Kentucky general assembly was countered tonight. At his hearing on contempt charges, Hugh K. Bullitt, chairman of the house lobby investigating committee, asserted that under the Kentucky statutes such information could not be regarded as confidential.

The trial of Armentrout, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, began before a special house committee of five, after Ferd D. Gnau, chairman, had said the letter in question was written by a member of the house "cowardly enough not to come forward at a time when another man was placed in jeopardy."

Cary Tabb, counsel for Armentrout, asked Bullitt why the lobby committee had not subpenaed the members of the house to learn the name of the author of "The Psalm of Politics," and Bullitt replied it had seemed easier to ask Armentrout, rather than summon all 100 members of the house. Bullitt added a request had been made in open session that the writer stand up, but that no one had responded.

Charges Lawyer Assailant Too.

Once when Tabb persisted in questions, Bullitt turned to the committee chairman and said that Tabb "is attempting to attack the administration just as the Courier-Journal does."

Rodes K. Myers, a member of the lobby investigating committee, testified he had admonished Armentrout that, legally, communications such as the "Psalm of Politics" could not be regarded as confidential. He said the statutes exempted lawyers and priests but not newspapers.

Myers added, however, that if the speaker of the house had filed a lawsuit against the Louisville Courier Journal, the paper would not have regarded the confidence "so much."

Discharge Recommended.

After the prosecution had completed its testimony, Tabb moved the committee discharge Armentrout "on the record now standing," but Chairman Gnau said the committee had no authority to do this, but must recommend to the house action in the matter.

Bullitt testified the committee sought the name of the writer because it wanted to investigate the charges.

"We wanted to find out whether any officers of the house were being controled," said Bullitt. "If the charges were true, then the speaker should be in jail. If they were true, the floor leader and a majority of the house had committed high crimes."

Bullitt charged Armentrout had admitted he threw away the letter before being summoned and contended that was equivalent to destroying it.

Still "In Contempt."

"Mr. Bullitt, has Mr. Armentrout yet purged himself of contempt?" asked the assistant attorney general.

"No, sir, he has not," replied Bullitt. "The contempt has gone on."

After Bullitt testified he had practiced law for eleven years, Tabb asked, "Do you consider the arrest of Mr. Armentrout by your committee legal?"

"Yes, sir, I do," Bullitt replied.

"Hasn't he already been put in jeopardy?"

"No, sir."

"Why?"

"Because he got out of jail," Bullitt replied amid chuckles of the spectators who occupied all available seating and standing space in the large courtroom, and included a number of legislators, despite the fact that the general assembly had a night session.

Not Same Offense.

Bullitt insisted Armentrout was not being tried now for the same offense. He said Armentrout now was being tried on a misdemeanor under the statutes.

Bullitt remarked, "If the Courier-Journal cooked this letter up we are not interested in it," and Tabb asked, "Have you a scintilla of evidence to think this letter was cooked up?" Bullitt replied that the committee had no evidence at all as to who wrote the letter.

"Do you think it was cooked up?"

"What I think or don't think has nothing to do with the matter," Bullitt said.

SUPREME COURT OF ARKANSAS FREES EDITORS

Lifts Contempt Judgment for Comment on Case.

Little Rock, Ark., March 12.—(AP)—Contempt judgments against the publisher and the editor of the Pine Bluff Commercial were quashed today by the State Supreme court which said "It is undoubtedly a tradition of the press of this country that it has uniformly upheld and maintained respect for the judiciary."

E. W. Freeman, publisher, and Walter B. Sorrells, editor of the Pine Bluff newspaper, were fined $100 each by Circuit Judge T. G. Parham for publication of an editorial written by Sorrells relating to the seizure of slot and marble machines in Pine Bluff.

Ambiguous Language Used.

The editorial pointed out a seeming inconsistency of the city and state licensing devices and officers "then seizing them and arresting the operators."

The Supreme court, in an opinion written by Justice Turner Butler, said the editorial was susceptible to two interpretations but added that "a denial under oath of want of intent will purge a contempt arising from language used in publishing articles which are susceptible to two interpretations."

Tribute to Press.

"It is undoubtedly a tradition of the press of this country that it has uniformly upheld and maintained respect for the judiciary," the opinion said.

Nazi Minister Is Reported Wed with Hitler a Witness

MUENCHEBERG, Germany, March 12.—(AP)—Mystery surrounded reports today that Dr. Wilhelm Frick, minister of the interior, married Fräulein Schulze-Naumburg, with Chancellor Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels as witnesses, at a civil ceremony. No record could be found to show whether the minister, who observed his 57th birthday anniversary today, had been married before. Official circles were silent on the point, but the semi-official news agency said he had been married for years.

Lawyer Goes Mad, Girl Tries Suicide in Stavisky Case

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12.—A new epidemic of that strange mental disease called Staviskyitis broke out today. Two more persons who had lain awake too many nights worrying about the Serge Stavisky $60,000,000 bond scandal went berserk.

The first victim was Sutheliet de la Mothe, 27 year old lawyer, who suddenly went mad in a law court building. Rushing through the corridors, La Mothe dashed into the private office where Magistrate Ordonneau was questioning Gilbert Romagnino, Stavisky's confidential secretary.

Tries to Rip Off Ribbon.

Screaming insults at the magistrate, La Mothe attempted to rip off his Legion of Honor ribbon. Guards no sooner succeeded in hustling the lawyer out of the building than he spotted a captain of the Moroccan sharpshooters standing in the street. La Mothe broke away from his escort, ran up to the captain, boxed his ears and spat in his face.

He was finally mastered and led away to receive the same gentle treatment as his two colleagues who came down with Staviskyitis last week. These are Henri Hurlaux, assistant prosecutor who tried to swallow poison when the magistrate questioned him about his relations with Stavisky, and Raymond Hubert, lawyer for two persons accused in the pawnshop swindle, who jumped into the Seine river, but was fished out.

Woman Is Second Victim.

La Mothe made a miniature sensation after the bloody Tuesday riots here by instigating a curious ceremony in which former Minister of Interior Eugene Frot's lawyer cap and robe were burned in a court building while a group of lawyers sang the Marseillaise.

The second victim of Staviskyitis today was Yvonne Taris, formerly assistant to a dentist, who, after creating a stormy scene on the quays of the St. Martin canal, tried to drown herself. Mlle. Taris had her day of fame two weeks ago when she told investigators that she had seen a man shadowing Albert Prince, counselor of the Court of Appeals and key witness in the Stavisky case, at a Paris station a few hours before his murder.

Her story later proved to be a fake and the parents of the man she was going to marry broke off the engagement. Her troubles apparently affected her mind. A letter found in her pocket today declared her intention to commit suicide.

LOST PASSENGER PLANE IS SIGHTED BY RESCUE FLYERS

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 12.—(AP)—Army and commercial flyers were reported tonight to have sighted in an inaccessible spot a passenger airplane unheard from since Saturday on a flight in western Colombia.

The lost craft, Von Krohne, of the Scadta airline, was piloted by Capt. Walter Geck and carried two passengers, including Newton C. Marshall, 47, an American mining engineer and a native of Milwaukee, who has spent the last 18 years in Colombia.

Marshall is manager of the Choco-Pacific Mining company, a large platinum operator. He is married and the father of three children.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—Following the example of the United States, the British admiralty has decided to abandon salvage as a means of rescuing occupants of sunken submarines. It will depend in the future on the Davis escape apparatus now fitted on all submersibles.

The announcement was made in the house of commons tonight by Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, on introducing navy estimates for 1934, calling for expenditures of $282,750,000, an increase of $15,009,000 over last year. The naval bill was passed.

The admiralty had to face the facts, Sir Bolton declared. He added that "we fortified our decision by the fact that United States naval authorities reached the same conclusions."

A GOVERNMENTAL EXAMPLE.

The war department under orders undertook to fly the air mail after Postmaster General Farley had canceled the commercial contracts. From Feb. 16 to March 9 ten army flyers were killed, and March 11 carrying of the mail was suspended and all planes grounded until the government could make rearrangements offering security and dependability. In about three weeks the government operation, in substitution for private carrying of the air mail, has resulted in ten deaths and the suspension of the effort.

The army is as well conducted as any governmental business, but in undertaking the work in which private enterprise had been successful it immediately failed because of improper equipment and insufficient training in unfamiliar work. The experience was dramatic, tragic and brief, but it was the experience which has attended all government undertakings, in and out of its own sphere. Governmental administration is inefficient administration. It isn't often so vividly illustrated as it was in the air mail carrying, but it is often even worse in the failures which attend it, without, however, the costly loss of life.

Governments are incapable of producing efficiency, not being constituted for that purpose, and not having an incentive for it. The primary incentives in government are political, which are heedless and thoughtless, and the secondary incentives are burocratic, which are stubborn, fixed and frozen. Private enterprise survives by results. Governmental enterprise survives by taxation. Success enables private enterprise to live and failure kills it. Governments survive failures and the losses in the enterprise, and the damage done is charged to the taxpayer. Both in purpose and in personnel the government is made incapable of surviving without taxation. It is not dependent upon the success of what it undertakes except in the case of war, in which case two governments are in competition, and not being responsible in all its other enterprises it is incapable of conducting them without a maximum of waste and a minimum of efficiency.

THE MOON WAS SHINING SULKILY.

J. Lawrence Dobell of the soil erosion service, department of the interior, solicits support for the work of this government bureau, which is of recent formation in the department. Mr. Dobell in an earnest enthusiasm for his labor recites that already thirty-five million acres, once fine productive land, has been made essentially worthless by erosion and that four hundred million dollars' worth of soil is being swept annually to the sea by the rivers. The statistics of this damage would be startling, shocking and calamitous in any other times but these.

It is not to be expected that the department of the interior has any knowledge of what is going on in the department of agriculture. It is more true now than ever that sufficient unto the department are the virtues thereof. If Mr. Ickes keeps informed of what he himself is doing he has no time to ascertain what Mr. Wallace is doing. The enthusiasms and activities of no one department can take any account of the enthusiasms and activities in any other.

If Mr. Wallace should note in Mr. Dobell's recitation the fact that already thirty-five million acres of productive land have been withdrawn from cultivation by the unsubsidized efforts of nature he might recognize unfair competition and be jealous, or in a broader spirit he might welcome assistance from so inexpensive an ally. Mr. Wallace, unbeknownst to the soil erosion service, is paying handsomely to get millions of acres of once fine productive land made essentially worthless by withdrawing it from production.

In the old fashioned ideas of agriculture Mr. Dobell would find sympathy and support for his protest against such destruction of the arable wealth of the country. But how can we be sympathetic towards his preventive efforts and then give Mr. Wallace the encouragement for which he looks? The natural process which the soil erosion service would stop does not require payments from the federal treasury upon which Mr. Wallace, competing with soil erosion, draws heavily every day.

Mr. Ickes of the interior department has sent his young men of the soil erosion prevention into selected areas [he has $10,000,000 for it] and work has been begun "in the cotton producing Piedmont plateau of South Carolina, the cotton belt of the blackland region of central Texas, the Palouse wheat belt of Washington and Idaho, the corn-small grain section of central Illinois" and other cotton, corn, and wheat lands where the growers are now getting Mr. Wallace's checks for plowing up their cotton and signing up to keep their grain land out of cultivation.

The new economy supports Mr. Wallace. Mr. Ickes' soil erosion service is a chiseler. One secretary pays to take the land out of cultivation. The other pays to put it back. The best man will win.

The Walrus and the Carpenter
Were walking close at hand:
They wept like anything to see
Such quantities of sand:
"If this were only cleared away,"
They said, "it would be grand!"
"If seven maids with seven mops
Swept it for half a year,
Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
"That they could get it clear?"
"I doubt it," said the Carpenter,
And shed a bitter tear.

Of sweepers there now are twenty million, but still the bitter tear to explain why the moon was shining sulkily—"Because she thought the sun had got no business to be there after the day was done. 'It's very rude of him,' she said, 'to come and spoil the fun.'"

POLITICS AND THE UNIVERSITY.

Report is persistent that party politics is at work in the selection of a new president of the state university. This must cause the gravest concern to every friend of the institution and that ought to mean every citizen of Illinois. There is not the slightest shadow of excuse for the intervention of partisan considerations in the choice of a head for an educational institution. There is every reason for keeping the affairs of the university free from politics. We have believed the board of trustees is ruled by a disinterested devotion to the welfare of the university, but if party politics has appeared in its counsels or is working, as rumored, subterraneously in them, our belief is sadly mistaken. We are confident at any rate that if party affiliation has anything to do with the selection made the university has been dealt a deadly blow and the people of Illinois will call to account those who are responsible for it. The people of the state are and have reason to be proud of the university and wish to remain so. They are taxed for its maintenance and they will not tolerate its being thrown upon the bargain counter of spoils politics.

THE DIRECTORS LIVE IN NEW YORK.

One argument of the railways opposing the Black six hour bill now before congress is that such a law would not operate to increase employment, but would merely increase the pay of present employés because of the overtime that it would necessitate. We might have more sympathy were it not for the fact that we are so frequently forced to figure schedules to Florida—New York to Miami, twenty-eight hours; Chicago to Miami, forty-one hours twenty minutes, difference in distance one hundred and four miles.

The railways probably have been able to impose such schedules on the public for years because of the popular misconception that Jacksonville, as the gateway to Florida, is southeast of Chicago while it is directly south of New York. As a matter of fact, the geographical advantage lies with Chicago, as Jacksonville is almost directly south of Cleveland and considerably farther west of New York than east of Chicago. The mileage disparity rests with railway circuity—the highway difference is only forty-five miles.

Terminal delays of one to three hours, train speeds of only thirty-seven to forty miles per hour even where conditions are best, average speeds of thirty-six miles per hour and casual handling of Chicago cars on local trains advertised to make every stop—these are the explanations divulged by the time tables for the atrocious service offered Chicago. The railway argument would be more forceful if backed by schedules which did not leave the impression that a substantial amount of time is being wasted in slow running and stalling around stations.

TO THE PURE.

Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong" has been barred from the screen in Vienna as a picture of "uncouth and clumsy coticism." Piet Van't Veer, TRIBUNE foreign news service correspondent in Holland, reports that, although the Dutch like American movies and want them, "She Done Him Wrong" was banned by the censor. Continental Europe has an earned reputation for the broad view of irregularities and America a reputation for puritanical priggishness and prudishness. America found nothing shocking in Miss West's various ladies, and even the British censor let them by.

Miss West has had her troubles in the United States, but they were on the stage. John Law stepped in several times when she produced plays, but there's been no trouble since Hollywood discovered that she was the way out of the depression. In making the transition from the restricted field of one theater to the unbounded field of the movies she left the police behind.

The last impression Miss West's ladies would make would be erotic. They concern the moralities about as much as the Three Little Pigs do. The more they are tagged as of the world where ladies aren't, the more they evade the description.

Diamond Lil bears the same resemblance to La Dame aux Camelias as the Singing Waiter does to Casanova. Foreign moralists miss something to find something else. The disinfectant of farce and humor may disappear in the sea voyage. If Miss West is no angel continental Europe is no innocent. That may be the trouble.

HIS FIRST VETO.

[Columbus Dispatch.]

Two things stand out in the first veto message President Roosevelt has sent to congress. Almost a year, through which congress was in session most of the time, passed before there was sent to the White House a measure that drew executive disapproval. The other is that the veto of March 1 is much like those of President Cleveland, which were quite a feature of his administration, for it was directed at what was no doubt a private pension measure.

President Cleveland felt that pension claims which were unable to find favor at the hands of the pension department under the general law probably were not well founded, and he gave all such his personal attention.

The measure which fell under Mr. Roosevelt's veto proposed an honorable discharge for a soldier of the American expeditionary forces in France during the world war who was dishonorably discharged from that service for cause. The President caused an investigation of the case to be made and was convinced that the dishonorable discharge by the war department at the time was fully warranted. Congress is apt to view such matters leniently, especially when they are to be followed by pension applications. Success in this case probably would mean many more measures to alter uncomplimentary records of soldiers who got in bad.

SOCIALITES (now just what is a socialite, anyway?) are all stirred up over the matter of serving wine. What is the exact wine to serve with the baked Michigan whitefish? Sauterne, Chablis, or Riesling? But suppose the stupid cook got a Lake Superior trout instead of a Lake Michigan whitefish? Quelle horreur! Fire the cook, fire the butler, throw the baked whitefish through the window, call out the fire department, send for the police! What, serve the wrong kind of wine. Jamais! Jamais! Jamais de la vie! Oh, hevvings! what a social error! My dear, we can never look people in the face again! We are social pariahs! We are Gold Coast outcasts! We committed the crime of crimes! We served the wrong wine with the fish course! Let us go out into the garden and eat worms! Quick, the sackcloth and ashes! Or, better yet, pour that awful wine down the kitchen sink. Stand by with the gin! Good old gin! It goes with everything.

LIFE MASK.

A SONNET SEQUENCE—SECOND PART.

V.

Great arching branches reach across a stream
In emulation of my empty hands,
And earth-bare roots feed on a sterile gleam
That lights the rock no atom understands.
Catholicism of the haloed sun
Looks through the blue humility of time,
And pale uncertainty departs to run
From such a high alternative as rime.

We were the planets. Very life were we
Upon this knoll a thousand treasons knew—
Though I am here . . . you of eternity
And not beside me where the myrtles grew.

Is there no hope when down the road I hear
The ominous thunderings of a Charioteer?

VI.

Instead of seeking islands to the west,
I walk through scentless asphodel, alone,
I set the lamp for you, my single guest—
And give to silence what I learned of stone.
After the golden shawms of ancient spring
A year turned bitter and a life turned gall,
The leaning bough may shelter a new wing
If I go searching for the Sangrael.

A broken lute shall not be whole again
Nor closed cathedrals open for a prayer,
For wisdom shuns sophisticated pain,
Although her crimson robe is everywhere.

Why do I feel when crossing two dead sticks

My love, insatiate, inquires of masks:
Wherefore shall Beauty laurel-wreathed lie hid?
Shall Aphrodite humble at her tasks
Obsess me still as once the Grecians did?
In temporal pause, antistrophe of pain—
He sings a brief commandment of the rain,
A sculptured image and a garden fawn.

After his song . . . his purple palinode . . .
I must believe the cold wind-flowers sense
That he is singing of the lonely road,
Eclectic love and its impermanence.

Shall I uproot the orchids? Shall I tear
Annunciation lilies . . . maidenhair?

VIII.

The carven arch of this triumphant day—
The crystal empire of this rockbound stream,
Adjure me that no perfect thing can stay
The competent ashes of a dying dream.
And now I say . . . it matters not at all
That love and recollection shall be lost;
For life has built a high retaining wall
To hold titanic utterances of the frost.

As solemn as the last leaf on a tree
Among the antlered branches, now I learn
Upon the road of lonely liberty . . .
Beauty is stark and even winds must turn.

Still . . . I walk softly . . . stop with cautious stealth
At the crossroad of my inner commonwealth.

"CALLS 'SHEBA RUINS' Some Other City." —Headline. But what other city could it be? Not Philadelphia certainly, because the Declaration of Independence was signed in Philadelphia and as that had a lot to do with the American Revolution then Philadelphia must be in America. It must be Sheba's capital the flyers found. Anyhow, it wouldn't be Philadelphia.

GERMANY ANNOUNCES with great delight that it has discovered a mathematical genius who is able to square the circle. Pshaw! Gen. And if he didn't do it at first try he'd say the circle was a chiseler and it shouldn't have a Blue Eagle.

NO!

When I meet him this I pray.
That I may conceal
Any symptoms of unrest
That I'm sure I'll feel.

Help me to be charming, gay,
So he'll want to go
Somewhere for a tête-à-tête—
Then make me say "No!"

AND, ANYHOW, the army points out that carrying the mail in peace times is very different from carrying bombs in war times. Which is quite true. People make an awful fuss if their letters don't arrive promptly, but the enemy doesn't complain a bit if the bombs aren't delivered. R. H. L.

CARING FOR THE EYES.

A few years ago we heard something of a pseudo-science that sometimes went by the name eye diagnosis. It was said to have originated in Austria. Its founder shot a hawk, wounding but not killing the bird. The discoverer of "eye diagnosis" captured the wounded bird and studied its eye expression in different moods. Thus he evolved what he called eye diagnosis. Practitioners of this vocation claimed they could look in a man's eyes and there read whether he had a scalp disease, corns, or other ills of the flesh located in between these poles. There was nothing to all this but pretense, and the practice has fallen on lean days.

However, inspection of the eyes may reveal some things to us. After fifty years of age most persons become presbyopic. In other words, their eyeballs become stiff. They cannot play tennis as well as formerly because the eye is not flexible and soft enough to catch the direction and force of the ball quick enough. We say of ageing baseball players that they have lost their "batting eye" or their "eye for the ball." Presbyopic eyes outrank bad legs as a reason for the retirement of ball players.

Dr. H. Steinhouse proposes that we use the presbyopic eye as a standard by which to predict longevity. He proposes that insurance companies use it as a gauge as to the number of annual premiums an applicant can be expected to pay. A man's eyeballs should be about so rigid at fifty years of age. If they are stiffer than they should be it is a sign that his tissues are ageing too fast.

In elderly people we can sometimes see a cloudy halo in the colored part of the eyeball. The old name for this was arcus senilis. It was thought to be due to a deposit of lime in the tissues of the iris and, as its name implies, it was an indication of advancing years. It is now thought to be due to the deposit in the iris of cholesterin, a near-fat present in the human body. But this substance is present in the walls of certain kinds of ageing arteries. The presence of arcus senilis may not be as sure a sign of premature ageing as it was once thought to be, but it is far from being without value.

Going still deeper into the field we find that the eye specialist, by the use of the opthalmoscope can learn much of disease in distant parts of the body. Many a time a diagnosis of Bright's disease has been made by examining the retina with this instrument. This examination throws much light on arteriosclerosis, aneurism, and apoplexy.

CROSSED EYES.

Mrs. S. L. S. writes:

My 14 year old daughter has been cross eyed for 3 years. The condition developed after an attack of measles. She wears glasses but they do not straighten her eyes.

Would an operation cure her?

REPLY.

There is a chance that operation will straighten the crossed eye, but probably she has lost vision in it. Nature will not put us with double vision for eight years, as a rule. Within a few years after double vision starts nature ends the confusion it causes by blinding one eye.

O, MR. TUGWELL.

Scared Stiff writes:

I have been reading the discussions of the Tugwell bill and am worried to death.

I bought yesterday in a grocery store a bottle of fluid, the label on which states, "Port Wine 7 years old." I put a hydrometer in it and the hydrometer does not indicate the presence of alcohol at all. Please advise if this is as it should be.

REPLY.

What are you scared about? Is it that the bill will or will not pass, or that your alcohol meter is wrong? Or is it the wine, or the label? Is any question of health involved, or do you fear you are being cheated? Port wine is supposed to contain 8 to 12 per cent alcohol.

PARKINSON'S DISEASE.

L. H. M. writes:

What are the cause, symptoms, and cure of Parkinson's disease? In a certain case the left arm started shaking five years ago. The disease was progressive, and the man is now confined to his bed.

REPLY.

Parkinson's disease is another name for paralysis agitans. It sometimes follows encephalitis and other forms of infection of the brain. Beyond that we do not know what causes it. Since it develops most frequently in elderly people, it is considered to be a result of the strains of life. The earliest symptom is trembling of the hand or head. Later come muscular rigidity and symptoms caused by that. There is no known cure.

MARRIAGE.

Chicago, March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In 1932 I was arrested as a bigamist. I was given a year probation. Since that time I have secured a divorce from my first wife and have served my year's probation. 1. I want to know whether my second marriage was automatically annulled when I got probation, or whether I have to go to court and pay for an annulment. 2. Am I a free man who can get married again at any time without being afraid of any more trouble? G. H.

If at the time of your second marriage your first wife was still living and undivorced, then your second marriage is a nullity so that no court order is technically necessary, but future property questions might be raised on which you would have difficulty in proving the facts recited in your present letter. In general, we would advise securing an annulment decree before contracting another marriage so as to remove all possible questions.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—Operations of American movie corporations in New Zealand are being scrutinized by the government here and Prime Minister Forbes has announced a plan to investigate the film industry.

Announcement of the government's determination to overhaul methods of operation of motion picture distributors follows a preliminary investigation by the committee of industries and commerce of the house of representatives. It represents the first effort to uncover all phases of the movie war which has been waging here at intervals for the last four years.

The chief concern in the dispute is the block-booking system. Under this system independent operators sign up with a producing corporation for a whole season's output in order to obtain two or three specially featured films which are held out as an inducement. In the days of prosperity large conventions of movie exhibitors were held in the cities. The exhibitors were guests at large parties at which the wine flowed freely. The guests were expected to sign a contract. But with the falling in earnings of the production chiefs there has come a new feature—ownership of chains of theaters by independent operators.

Chain theater booking is one of the most powerful weapons in bargaining in the entertainment field. The chain owners have been sitting pretty, and the distributing firms, faced with a buying opposition from the big owners, have been taking it out on the "small fry." That, at least, is what the industries and commerce committee declares.

The little exhibitors at first defied the corporations. The distributors countered with a threat to stop supplies of films. The exhibitors invited the corporations to cease bookings.

In the midst of the turmoil Sir Victor Wilson, $35,000 a year representative of Hollywood in Sydney, Australia, arrived here. He annoyed the theater men still more. W. G. Robinson, theater men's secretary, smoothed over the trouble for the time.

Movie corporations with famous names which operate here are really New Zealand companies. They are registered in this country—the share capital is held here—but members of the corporations' staff hold it. Exhibitors complained that the corporations were not only using the weapon of block booking but were threatening to charge them the footage tax which the government then levied on film—on a 7,000 foot film it amounted to about $150.

Corporations claimed that the tax was ruinous and asked its removal. Government officials charged that the corporations were making large profits but were concealing them by having their export departments in Hollywood invoice films to New Zealand at a price estimated to be the earning power of the movie here. That left little or nothing for profit to the New Zealand company but meant a handsome rakeoff for the principals back home.

After surveying the situation the government determined to charge the movie corporations a tax fixed on their turnover during the previous year. The corporations complained, but none quit. Now, it is charged by members of the house of representatives, the distributing firms are holding up the small independent theater owners in order to boost their incomes, which have dropped as the result of this taxation.

The corporations deny the charge. They argue that the country contains too many movie houses.

A SNEER AND A WARNING.

A sneer directed at your drivel concerning freedom of the press. Is there any difference between Hitler's government controled press and America's financier controled press? If so, what? You well know, the public well knows, that Morgan & Co. direct the editorial policy of the nation's press. Yet you have the nerve to speak of freedom of the press and expect your readers to become exorcised over something nonexistent.

A warning. If sixty years' progress had been extended over four hundred years, a philosophy would have developed concurrently and would have solved our problems as they arose. As it is, the economic world has reached a stage of complexity that we are trapped in a machine which no one thought out, which no one properly understands, and with which no one can do more than tinker.

Can civilization survive? Who can say? The past offers no parallel. Why don't you attempt some constructive thought? Remember, we must use only five or ten years to evolve something which should have taken half a thousand. BERNARD DOYLE.

A TOLERANT OPPONENT.

Evanston, Ill., March 8.—I have been, I presume, what you might call a Republican ever since I have been able to vote. I voted for Mr. Hoover at the last election, but I daily thank God that he was defeated by probably one of the greatest Presidents we have ever had the good fortune to have in the White House.

Why is your paper such a cry baby? I have traveled a great deal in my life so far, and have visited most of the large cities, both in America and Europe, and I never in all my life have seen such a contemptible attitude as your sheet is assuming with Mr. Roosevelt.

Your paper, along with all the rest of the newspapers in the United States, is always crying about the freedom of the press. Well, I for one would certainly like to see your childish efforts to discredit our President put out of existence once and for all. ROBERT E. ANDREWS.

THE FIRST HONEST MAN.

Chicago, March 7.—You brazenly defy the efforts of our President, the first honest man within mortal memory, with sufficient courage to champion the cause of humanity, and pugnaciously cling to your decadent theories of class favoritism. You are small and avaricious, and desecrate the noble symbol of the Blue Eagle which you hypocritically display. But you and what you stand for are doomed. And the excretions of your press are as impotent as those of a senile, lecherous old tyrant, sterile and stripped of all power. Thank God a million times for President Roosevelt. But to hell with you. MARTIN K. ASH.

THE ANTAGONISTS.

Chicago, March 8.—The political battle is now just taking shape. Soon it will emerge and be recognized as a struggle between the borrowers and the wasters on one side and the earners and savers on the other.

Unless the earners and savers start to speak up they will soon find the reformers in their homes and themselves out in the street. The wasters have made all the noise and sold the country on ballyhoo for over a year now. It is time to stop indulging in wishful dreaming. Wake up before you are left even without a country! EX-NEW DEALER.

THE COSTS OF RELIEF.

Chicago, March 6.—In today's TRIBUNE the Rev. John Evans speaks of the administration of relief in Chicago and cites certain figures which are now out of date. The last published figures are those for December, 1933, published in January, 1934. These indicate that in the unemployment relief service the average direct relief and work relief amounted to $35.40 per family; the Cook county bureau field service, $33.80; the central charity bureau of the Catholic Charities, which receives its funds from the Cook county bureau, $29.95; the United Charities, $47.27; the Jewish social service bureau of the Jewish Charities, $46.74; the Salvation Army, $32.50.

Without going into a full discussion of what these relief averages mean, it should be indicated to the public that in the case of at least the United Charities and the Jewish social service bureau the families that remain for treatment in those particular agencies remain so because of an intensive process of selection and because they require both larger expenditures than the public funds permit and more intensive treatment than is possible in the three organizations mentioned above spending tax funds.

I am relatively sure, knowing the humane tendencies of the Catholic people and their solicitude for the welfare of their poor, that a group of Catholic families, similar to those retained by the United Charities and the Jewish social service bureau, would show the necessity for just as high an expenditure of funds per family as do these more adequately organized and intensively operating private agencies.

Problems and, hence, expenditures, differ from family to family. The average expenditures, legally controled, and the tax funds available to the Cook county bureau and the Catholic Charities do not by any means indicate what the necessary expenditures on behalf of these families may be. The publication of these averages without sufficient delineation of what they mean is, therefore, of no public service and may at times prove to be of great disservice to many of the families who need the assistance of either the public or the private agencies. SAMUEL A. GOLDSMITH.

THE RUSH OF TAXPAYERS.

Chicago, March 8.—Yesterday's effort of THE TRIBUNE to assist in the collection of real estate taxes for 1932 provides a most amusing incident. The glaring headline states "10,000 property owners rush to pay 1932 taxes." The opening day is said to be the biggest in several years. Follows the statement that the total day's receipts were $155,000.

Apparently the ability of the average taxpayer to assist the county is limited to $15.56.

At this rate of collection no less than 1,039 days, or almost three years, will be required to accumulate the 161 million dollars which is due the county from the real estate assessment.

In a statement accompanying the article THE TRIBUNE shows uncollected taxes since 1928 amounting to more than 175 million dollars. Add to this the hypothetical figure which represents 1933 and 1934 taxes. Then attempt to discover how long it will take the county to catch up. Also land a little thought to the picture which must confront the average taxpayer who realizes what chance he has of retaining his home in the face of such conditions. EDWIN J. KUESTER.

TRIBUNE FARM TO GROW FIFTY CROP VARIETIES

New Feeds and Grasses Will Be Tried Out.

BY PAUL POTTER.

At least fifty varieties of field crops are to be grown this summer on THE TRIBUNE'S experimental farm, three miles west of Yorkville in Kendall county. Many of the crops, while not strictly new to crop experts, have not been seen or heard of by the majority of farmers. Others will be tried in the corn belt for the first time.

There are only five farm crops which occupy more than 10 million acres each in American agriculture—cotton, corn, wheat, oats, and hay—each of which covers more than 40 million acres annually. There are upwards of a thousand varieties of crops than can be grown commercially in the United States. Thus it can be seen that the field of selection for farmers is wide.

Plan to Try New Crops.

For the most part central west farmers have followed a generally uniform pattern of acreage utilization, except as they specialized in some crop for seed or for canning, or attempted to make fruit, poultry or dairy farming profitable on a small acreage.

On THE TRIBUNE farm the usual practice of growing corn and other feeds for live stock will be carried along while the new crops are tried out in small areas and under different conditions. As they show promise larger fields will be planted to these newer crops.

In the cornfields will be grown the widely recognized varieties of this region. But in addition there will be the newest and best varieties developed by state experiment stations and private corn growers. The best types from each state will be tried out side by side and visitors to the farm can see the comparisons.

Varieties in Other Crops.

This same course will be followed in growing many varieties of soy beans, clovers and hay crops. But in each of these crop experiments will be found new types, developed to meet certain conditions—such as rich and poor soils, excessive drouth, resistance to diseases or insects—or to hasten the period of maturing a crop.

Sweet clover, a type once considered a weed pest, is now rather widely grown for farm forage and soil improvement. A similar crop, called lespedeza, which came originally from Corea, is now quite widely grown in the south, and is extending its growing area into the corn belt. The annual sweet clover, called Hubam, will be grown alongside the perennial varieties, some of which are so rare as to yield seed worth several dollars a pound.

Tall Grass to Be Grown.

In the lowlands will be tried out the tall grass crop called phalaris, better known as reed canary grass. It is little known in the middle west, but already in Oregon, Wisconsin and parts of Iowa is showing promise as a cheap forage for cattle during the dry summer months. At the same time it checks soil erosion and crowds out weeds.

Sudan grass, proso [a type of millet], and many other crops also will be sown in strategic parts of the farm. In addition to adding income to the wasteful areas of the farm, they will provide emergency forage for live stock and furnish ample maintenance for bird life, such as quail and pheasant, which are valuable in eradicating insect pests on a farm.

A good sized field of flax is to be grown to demonstrate for the farmer offers an improvement for the farmer over oats, for which the demand is declining. Two kinds of barley, Wisconsin 38 and Oderbrucker, each selected as the best for malting purposes, will be grown on the farm.

Little Rye Is Planned.

Few corn belt farmers this year expect to grow barley, and very little rye will be grown, since chinch bugs would use such growing crops for feed and an egg laying place.

On THE TRIBUNE farm a small plot of barley is to be grown in a field of soy beans. Should the bugs find the beans a barrier, the barley can be matured, but should they infest the barley it will prove a trap where they and the destructive second brood may be annihilated to save the cornfields near by.

W. P. Flint, state expert on bugs at Urbana, is recommending that farmers "starve the chinch bugs with legumes." Such crops as soy beans, clover, alfalfa, vetch, lespedeza, field peas and cowpeas are immune to the bugs' devastating appetites. The insects also avoid such other crops as rape, buckwheat, flax, sunflowers or stock beets.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Map Crops for Year

March 12, 1934.

TODAY was planning day on the farm. Clarence Thurlow, manager of the experimental farm, and his brother Louis got together to map out what crops will be grown on the different fields. This is not anything unusual on a farm, because most farmers have planned ahead pretty well the crops they will grow in certain fields in order to avoid having the same crop in the same field more than two years in succession. The boys also were estimating how much of the various crops will be needed to feed the hogs, steers, sheep, etc., next fall and winter. In this case, however, some of the fields will be devoted to a variety of new crops which most farmers have never heard of. [Paul Potter, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE, is going to tell readers about these novelties in the midwest farming country.]

Clarence has the boys on the farm testing the seed [which was saved from last year's crops] to see if it will grow. This is, of course, good farming practice because there is no use in sticking seed in the ground that isn't any good. Among the seeds which are being tested are corn, soy beans, and timothy. They have placed orders for additional seed which is to be used on the farm this season.

I have been shopping around for black locust seedlings to plant in eroded places. In trying to find several thousand seedlings for this purpose I found that the supply was just about exhausted in the state. Every nursery visited had wild cherry tree seedlings and other species, but no locusts. [The locust is highly desirable for planting on the average farm in order to control erosion because mature trees furnish fine fence posts for the farmer's use.] After considerable scouting I have been able to obtain 2,000 locust seedlings ranging in size from 6 inches to 15 or 16 inches. These will be planted next month.

The job of feeding lambs from a bottle has developed into a real chore now. Yesterday Rawlings had eight of these noisy babies from the sheepfold running around after their bottle of milk. And are they smart! Just walk out into the sheepfold, flash the bottle of milk, and they fall all over themselves trying to get the first serving. Two of the lambs in this "bottle squad" were moved into the kitchen of Rawlings' house today for a little special attention. They stayed next to the stove all morning. While there each lamb received three generous meals of warm milk from a bottle. Although this was a great treat to the lambs and helped build their strength before they were taken back to the sheepfold, Ginger, the cocker spaniel belonging to the Rawlings family, was the one that got the big thrill out of this visit to the lambs. Ginger was all agog over the bleating little babies from the sheepfold. He sniffed and he licked them as if he knew that he ought to help these little brown fellows which never will grow up without special attention.

The score on the lambs born to date is rather interesting in the comparison it offers between singles and twins. So far there have been 29 pairs of twins and 20 single lambs born to 49 ewes.

OLD FAMILIES OWN FIRETRAPS, NEW YORKER SAYS

Stuyvesants, Goelets and Winthrops on List.

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Who are the owners of New York's lower East Side fire trap tenements?

Joseph Platzker, secretary of the East Side Chamber of Commerce, partly answered this question today. He listed the oldest and largest individual owners of tenement and commercial property on the lower East Side. The list was topped by the estates of Stuyvesants, Astors, Wendels, Goelets, Winthrops, and Chandlers.

Winthrop Estate's Holding.

The largest individual owner is the Benjamin F. Winthrop estate, whose holdings number approximately eighty taxable parcels. The Winthrops trace their ancestry back to the Stuyvesants, who go back to the days of New Amsterdam.

The Stuyvesant family is the next largest holder, Mr. Platzker says, crediting it with thirty-nine parcels.

Mr. Platzker's list included these others:

Wilhelmina B. C. Blatchford, fourteen parcels.

Estate of John White Chandler, twelve parcels.

Hamilton Fish Estate.

The Petersfield Realty company, according to Mr. Platzker, represents the holdings of the old Hamilton Fish estate, including the properties which once constituted Petersfield farm.

Mr. Platzker estimates the holdings of these old families approximate 650,000 square feet and house at least 2,000 families.

Mr. Platzker said that while a frequent argument is that tax and mortgage burdens make improvements impossible to tenement owners, that 90 per cent of the holdings of these old families are entirely free of indebtedness. He added: "On several occasions we have been able to persuade individual owners to make improvements, only to have the owner back down when he learned that the property adjoining his, owned by some large, wealthy family, would not be improved.

BOOTLEG LIQUOR SOLD AT BARS IN NEW YORK CITY

Only 14 of 55 Samples of High Quality.

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Bootleg liquor is still being sold freely in the city's better bars.

This was indicated today in the results of a survey by the department of health, which covered the city from Greenwich Village to the midtown section and included some of the exclusive hotels.

The department took 55 samples which were analyzed for deleterious substances such as methyl alcohol, acetone or other poisons.

It found that none of the whiskies was poisonous, but the analyses indicated that many of them masquerading under the names of well known brands were the same old synthetic "bathtub" concoctions that were widely sold during prohibition.

But 14 samples of the 55 proved to be of high quality, containing only natural coloring and measuring up to the United States pharmacopoeia regulations.

All the rest of the samples contained caramel coloring and flavoring substances indicating that they were of synthetic origins. Of these 22 were just suitable for beverage purposes, 16 of them were given a fair rating and only three were what might be termed good.

CLEANING COMPANY LOSES NRA EAGLE FOR VIOLATION OF CODE

The Eagle Cleaning and Dyeing company, which operates four plants on the north side, yesterday was ordered by telegram from Washington to turn in its National Recovery Administration Blue Eagle emblem for failing to comply with the price agreement in the cleaning and dyeing code. Fred Katz, secretary and treasurer of the company, which has been in business for 20 years, admitted that the concern had cut prices from 75 cents to clean a garment, as provided in the code, to 39 cents.

Katz said that the company had been forced to lower its prices because of competition with companies which did not display the blue eagle. He said that the company's insignia would be turned in immediately to the postmaster.

Robber Invades Theater, Takes $2,000 from Safe

A robber yesterday entered the office of the Rialto theater, 336 South State street, and forced the assistant manager, Theodore Wilmstad, to open the safe and give him the week-end receipts, totaling more than $2,000.

WOMAN GROCER ADMITS $12,000 RELIEF SWINDLE

A scheme by which the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was defrauded of an estimated $12,000 in the past year and a half was confessed yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin by Mrs. Mary Bartuska, owner of a grocery at 2258 South St. Louis avenue. Charges of forgery in connection with the swindle are pending against Hector Pena, head checker of the Lawndale relief station, and Matthew Mertz, the head relief clerk.

According to Prosecutor Sherwin, Mrs. Bartuska said she retained 25 per cent of the gains, turning the remainder back to Pana and Mertz. The relief employés, it is charged, would write out grocery orders under names of persons who were on the rolls to receive other forms of aid than food. These would be given to Mrs. Bartuska, and she would certify that the food had been delivered, Mr. Sherwin said.

The relief commission paid her on the fraudulent orders, sometimes as much as $300 a week, according to the prosecutor. In the last three months she is said to have received $6,000 in this manner. Frank Bartuska, her husband, was held for questioning yesterday.

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Mrs. Helen McDougall McNamara, 31 years old, granddaughter of the late Walter Miller, meat packer. She died Saturday of toxic poisoning at Palm Beach, Fla., where she, her husband, James McNamara, an automobile salesman, and their son, James Jr., were spending the winter.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. McDougall, 1448 Lake Shore drive, visited her for five weeks during her illness, returning to Chicago on March 3. They were informed only a short time before her death that Mrs. McNamara had improved and would be well enough to come north in a few days.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Thursday at the Rosehill cemetery chapel. Interment will also be at Rosehill.

JOEL WARREN, OUTLAW FIGHTER OF OLD WEST, DIES, BOOTS OFF, AT 74

Seattle, Wash., March 12.—(AP)—Joel E. [Eagle Eye] Warren, who survived the bullets of 14 bad men and became the terror of lawbreakers, died today with his boots off at the age of 74.

Warren, six feet four in his sock feet, once fought a duel with George Thomas in Spokane, who had wounded three men. Thomas had taken refuge in a tumble down powder house. Warren walked straight toward him, firing as he walked. Thomas' bullets clipped a brass button off Warren's Prince Albert and put a hole through one sleeve. The peace officer had to kill him.

Lain & SON
SINCE 1891—
A SIGN of SERVICE
Pioneers in protecting the public against high funeral costs, Lain & Son have always set the standard of service.
Today, Lain holds more services in a month than the average undertaker has in a year. No other Chapel in Chicago holds as many services as Lain's.
Because of this leadership, Lain includes these exclusive features with all services, even those as low as $110:
Conditioned Air
Protects the health of all who attend Lain Chapel services — provides an abundance of air washed and purified, and circulated at correct temperature.
Imperial Quartet
Lain was the first Chapel to include with all services — the Imperial Male Quartet, Organist and Organ.
Price Protection
Lain was the first to answer the price question by publishing the cost of 1000 funerals; showing that more than one-third of Lain services actually cost less than $200. Also, to price mark all merchandise.
Quality Merchandise
Lain's prices are lower because of volume. All merchandise is bought on a cash basis from reliable manufacturers only; we never offer "bargains" or "seconds" in merchandise.
Lain's personnel has few changes over the years, and with the most modern of facilities — render a service that cannot be equalled.
To secure this finer type of service, call Lain — no matter where you live in Chicago or Suburbs.

Ask Different Clothes? This Is Your Season

And the New Hats Are as Obligingly Fashioned.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shopping or "just looking" expeditions are lots of fun these days. You can start with a fashion show, dash out immediately afterward and see another one of hats, or just meander around on a discovery trip by yourself. Everything is new, there is an air of suppressed excitement wherever you poke your inquiring nose, and if this spring season isn't opening with a bang, every one has guessed wrong.

You may have wailed about many things in the past, especially the fact that all clothes look alike, but not this time. Superlatively good clothes, worth every cent you pay for them, are as different as anything you have ever gloated over. You can wear color, grand contrasts, bright, eye filling clothes that are warm, yet springlike, exhilarating tweeds that you can get into right away and still not flirt with pneumonia.

If you have yearned for individuality, this is your year. You can wear a daring black tailored suit under a cherry red topcoat, or you can buy a certain bright gold topcoat and wear it over a vivid shade of bright blue that will do your soul good to own. And don't sniff at checks and breezy plaids. Wear them as soon as you can. The smartest shoppers are dashing about in the wildest plaids or checks they can find, thankful that at last they can be different.

Hats are as obligingly fashioned. No matter what you want you can find it, whether it be a brimmed sailor that does grand things for your eyes, a coquettish beret with a spicy dash of sophistication, a desperate Desmond sort of an affair that sweeps handsomely off the right side of your face, a tucked and twisted bit of silk with a shallow brim and shallower brim that will tip neatly over your curls or the large flattering hats that every one has missed for seasons.

Try a spring buying binge for that in-between season dullness. You'll be surprised with the results.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Because her hair is such a glorious, lustrous halo, Ethelreda Leopold, who was a fashion model for THE TRIBUNE, is now in Hollywood with a ten weeks' contract tucked safely in her dresser drawer and an option by a film company on her services for the next seven years. We don't mean to imply that the lucky young Chicago girl owes her success to her crowning glory alone, but we're willing to bet that her gleaming tresses have a lot to do with it.

We're appalled, especially when we're sitting in on picture-taking sessions, at the proportions of pretty faces surmounted by hair that is anything but pretty—dry, broken, lusterless and badly arranged. Hair can make or mar a beauty score under any circumstances, but cameras, in particular, are merciless to it.

Not much can be done with texture but the surest way to make the most of your hair is to see that it is well lubricated. If the natural oil isn't there, no matter how young or how old you are, you need some energetic scalp stimulation, with some professional treatments supplementing home care. And you can get some of the best hair treatments in the world right here in Chicago. We're partial to one kind in particular which emphasizes brushings, and always recommend it gladly. A half hour or an hour's session makes the scalp tingle and the hair gleam like satin. It's the best way we know of to attain that sheen that is the delight of artists—and cameramen.

Her blonde hair is Ethelreda Leopold's best feature. With sage beauty wisdom she plays it up. She comes to mind not as a girl with the attractive figure, or the pretty face, but the girl with the utterly glorious hair. She grooms it exquisitely and she is consummately clever in its arrangement, wearing it in a manner that is simple to the point of being dramatic, leaving a vivid impression of its life and luster.

A word to the wise with ambitions to be beautiful: Get luster into your hair. If you've battled with it at home and didn't make much headway, treat yourself to some skilled professional help. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Leave Today for Vacation in Guatemala

Dr. and Mrs. Andrews Will Take Jungle Trip.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EASTER day in Antigua. This is the delightful experience in store for Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews, who leave this morning on a seven weeks' holiday that is to take them by plane, rail, mule, and canoe to the innermost stretches of Yucatan, Guatemala, and British Honduras.

Most of their itinerary is still a matter of conjecture, but they have decided very definitely that Easter will find them in the ancient Guatemalan city of Antigua.

After a few days in New Orleans with Mrs. Andrews' brother, Wyllys Dwen, they will go by plane to Progresso in Yucatan where they will be met by their son, E. Wyllys Andrews 4th, who went to Yucatan the beginning of January with archaeologists from the Carnegie Foundation to dig among the ruins of the Mayan civilization.

The three of them will then motor up to Chichen Itza to spend several days with Dr. Sylvenus Morley, who is the leader of the Carnegie expedition, and Mrs. Morley.

Then the Real Adventure Starts.

Then the real adventure will begin. With the Morleys and the Percy Jacksons of New York City, the three Andrewses are going to board an airplane for Belize, the capital of British Honduras. From there they will go to Quirigua. They will leave Quirigua by canoe to make their way up the Motagua river visiting en route several of the Carnegie excavations of the ancient Mayan temples.

The adventure is to wind up in Guatemala City.

Another Chicago traveler, John E. Hughes, who set out last fall on a round the world trip, will spend his Easter day on a tiger Safari in India. This was the news that reached Mrs. Hughes yesterday at her home in Lake Forest. On Saturday Mr. Hughes left Africa, where he brought down an elephant, three lions, a rhinoceros, and a buffalo. All of these trophies are to be shipped back to Chicago.

Mr. Hughes will be back home in June but more immediately Mrs. Hughes is anticipating the return next week of her two sons, John and Mansfield, from their studies at Groton. They are coming for their spring holiday.

Mrs. Browning to Be 97 Thursday.

One of the nicest parties of the year is to be held Thursday afternoon when Chicago's beloved resident, Mrs. Stephen Garretson Browning, celebrates her 97th birthday with an informal reception in the Lord Nelson room of the Drake hotel.

In keeping with Mrs. Browning's request, formal invitations have not been issued for the party, but yesterday her daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, was busy on the phone most of the day telling her mother's host of friends that she would be happy to see them between 4 and 6 on Thursday. And although Mrs. Loesch specified to all of these friends that "there are to be no presents," we know beforehand that Mrs. Browning will be receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Loesch in a veritable bower of flowers.

There will also be greetings coming Mrs. Browning's way Thursday from the faraway corners of the world, for she has traveled the globe over with her daughter and son-in-law, the Loesches. In fact, it is almost unusual for her to be celebrating a milestone here. She was in Pasadena on her 94th birthday, in Biloxi, Miss., on her 92d, cruising on the Caribbean sea when she was 91 years old and enjoying Jesusalem when she was 88.

Two Interesting Events Next Week at Arts Club.

Cards in yesterday's mail announced two interesting events the next week at the Arts club. At a tea and reception from 3 to 6 Friday afternoon three new exhibitions will be opened. . . . The paintings of Joan Miro, the sculpture of John B. Flannagan, and the water colors of Jane Berlandina.

Next Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock Dr. Erwin Panofsky of Hamburg, Germany, visiting professor of the history of art at New York university, is to be the guest of the club. Dr. Panofsky will give an illustrated lecture on "The Conception of Transience in Pussin and Watteau."

No member of the Council on Foreign Relations can plead ignorance of international affairs this winter with the council offering at least one brilliant authority every week or ten days. Yesterday invitations were issued for a program luncheon at 12:30 Saturday at the Palmer house with Frederick J. Libby, the executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, and Col. William R. Matheny, the executive vice chairman of the Illinois National Defense Council, as special guests. Mr. Libby and Col. Matheny are to discuss "Our Policy at the 1935 Naval Conference."

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are meeting for their annual luncheon at 12:30 Friday at the Casino. A directors' meeting at 11:30 and a members' meeting at 12 will precede the luncheon. It is likely that the committees for the Lighthouse ball, to be held Saturday, April 14, at the Bal Tabarin, will be decided at these meetings.

Alliance to See French Paintings.

Miss Alice Roullier will entertain the junior members of the Alliance with an exposition of ancient and modern French paintings and etchings at 3:30 p. m. on March 31 in the library of the Alliance in the Fine Arts building. Miss Jean Wilhelm is president of the junior and Miss Louise Dewey is the vice president.

The members of the Kaskaskia chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will spend today at the Chicago Historical society, where they

Good Time at Birthday Surprise Party

The brilliant smiles you see Miss Peggy Elmes and Howard Renn wearing in this picture were occasioned by the fun they were having at a surprise party for young Mr. Renn's 18th birthday. The party began at a theater and wound up with supper and dancing: an evening calculated to please all young people. Miss Elmes, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Elmes, attends the Girls' Latin school, and Mr. Renn, the Harry J. Renns' son, is a student at the Boys' Latin school. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

"BLOOD MONEY."
Produced by 20th Century.
Directed by Rowland Brown.
Presented at the Oriental theater.
THE CAST.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bill Bailey | George Bancroft |
| Elaine Talbert | Frances Dee |
| Drury Darling | Chick Chandler |
| Ruby Darling | Judith Anderson |
| Entertainer | Blossom Seeley |

Good Morning!

By Mae Tinee.

It's new nowadays when George Bancroft makes a picture!

"Blood Money" hands him an interesting rôle, though it is not one of the most compelling characterizations of his career. He plays Bill Bailey—bail bondsman.

Bill is a mighty man in the underworld. His hobby is billiards, and if he has a hankering for any one thing it is to paddle about in the society canoe.

Elaine Talbert will do anything for a sensation. She annexes Bill, luring him away from the arms of his consort of many years, Ruby, a dance hall proprietress.

Ruby has a brother who robs banks. Elaine meets and falls for this fascinating specimen of renegade. As you will conjecture, a pretty state of affairs develops. Much, O much! happens before all the folks get shaken back into their accustomed ruts. . . .

You'll like Mr. Bancroft. One always likes Mr. Bancroft. And, liking Mr. Bancroft as one DOES like Mr. Bancroft, and as one knows the rest of the world likes Mr. Bancroft, one feels resentful toward producers for being so stingy with him. However, they have their side, too, I guess, for Georgie has the reputation of being a bit hard to please.

As Bailey he is a powerful and personable chap, with fangs almost completely hidden by a long lip of kindliness. . . .

Frances Dee plays the society moron with wild-eyed enthusiasm. Judith Anderson, who, as Ruby, makes her screen debut, puts her strange personality over effectively after the first scenes in which she seems somewhat uncertain of herself. She has a great deal to give to the movies. May their makers realize that fact and not attempt to rubber stamp her individuality.

Other players are expert. Blossom Seeley sings a couple of songs in the fashion that made her famous.

National Polo Tourney Will Be Held Here

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

THE National Indoor Polo championships are returning to Chicago this spring for the second time in as many years. According to a wire received last night by Col. Charles C. Haffner Jr., vice president of the Indoor Polo Association of America, from association executives in the east, the championships are to be played April 21 to 28 in the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park.

With the finest players in the country, many of them members of prominent families, in the lineup of teams, it is expected that society will be at the armory the nights of the tourney, the 21st, 24th, 26th, and 28th. It is also expected that the visitors' calendars will be filled with as much entertainment as their training will allow.

The championships are to be run off under a new system this year. Instead of extending over two weeks as last year, they are to be concentrated in seven days.

Another change is that instead of five classes there are to be only three . . . senior championships for teams of 13 through 18 goals, junior championships for teams from 7 to 12 goals, and an open championship made up of teams composed of the three best players from the east and the three best players from the west. According to the east-west idea of the Onwentsia matches last summer, two out of three games will decide each one of the championships.

Of course Winston Guest, America's only ten goal player, just back from a big game hunt in Africa, will be here. Since his famous Optimists . . . the trio that teams him up with "Mike" Phipps and Stewart Iglehart . . . adds up too many goals for the senior championships [more than 18], we understand that he has replaced Iglehart with "H. G." Phipps, making the goal total just 18. In the open division, however, Iglehart will be back in the lineup.

Other well known players . . . also socially interesting visitors . . . whom the series will bring here include Bostonian William H. Nichols Jr., who will be in the western preliminaries, since his business has taken him to Muskegon, Mich., this winter; "Jimmy" Mills, Elbridge Gerry and his brother, "Bobby" Gerry, and Raymond Guest.

The eliminations in the east are to open in New York March 24, while the western preliminary games will be played at the 124th Field Artillery armory beginning March 31 and ending April 14. Favorites among the western competitors are Lieut. McDonald Jones of Fort Leavenworth, who captained the only team that ever beat Winston Guest; Capt. C. A. Wilkinson, Prentice Porter, and Herbert Lorber.

Mr. Lorber heads the committee on arrangements for the championships, with Frank Bering and Maj. Richard G. Hunter as committee members.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, returned yesterday from a week's visit in Staunton, Va., with her niece, Mrs. Paul Hays. She was the special guest today at the luncheon of the wives of the little cabinet, composed of the assistant secretaries in each department.

Mandel Expedition to Guatemala Gets Two Rare Specimens

A centurio bat and a species of flying squirrel which are two of the rarest mammals in America, have been obtained by the Leon Mandel Guatemalan expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History, according to word received yesterday from Karl P. Schmidt, the leader of the expedition.

The bat has a white spot on each shoulder, and gets its name from the fact that centurios, commanders in the legions of ancient Rome, indicated their rank by white epaulets. With a bald head, extraordinary concentric rows of leaflike projections in the skin of its face, and double-lobed ears, the bat has the facial appearance of some supernatural being. Less than a dozen specimens have been taken since the centurio bat was first discovered more than 100 years ago.

The flying squirrel is somewhat similar to the small flying squirrel found in the southern United States but not more than three others of its type have ever been collected before. There is no record of this animal ever being taken anywhere between Texas and Guatemala.

Painters Set New Standard in This Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Several painters have set a new high level of excellence in the water color exhibit which has just opened in the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street.

Fred T. Larson, for one, with his brilliantly colorful "The Underbrush," weeds, flowers and trees in a vivid tangle; Othmar Hoffler, for another, with his quaint and delightful "Point Aven," a corner in a Breton village where a huge pancake swings above an inn and over the pancake an iron cat stretches a playful paw; Oskar Gross, for a third, with his characterizations of the Ozark farmer people and his able studies of Cherokee Indians, and Arnold T. Turtle, for a fourth, with his splendid interpretations of Chicago in winter.

The exhibition is varied in subject and manner. It is a sparkling show, full of pleasant incidents that halt the visitor and hold him even against his will.

Besides the men of whom we have spoken there are others whose work adds to the importance of the exhibit. N. P. Steinberg offers a beautiful landscape of the southwest with an adobe house figuring prominently in the foreground. Anthony Buchta submits "The Grape Arbor," the leaves of which are particularly decorative.

J. Jeffery Grant shows paintings of boats along a wharf, a favorite subject and one that he treats in skilful fashion. James Topping gives three brilliant landscapes where clouds vie with the fertile fields in beauty.

Edward T. Grigware takes us into summer and offers a page from a country sketch book with his water color of a dock and skiff seen from the open doors of a rough board boathouse. It is a simple picture, but refreshing.

Holger W. Jensen is represented by a brilliant fall landscape, lovely in color, and by a church painted at night under a sky full of stars.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry P. Davison, who has kept her Peacock Point estate open throughout the winter months, will lend the use of her country home there for a fashion show on Friday afternoon, March 23, to be given by Miss Evelyn Toby and Miss Stella Clark. The show is to be a benefit for the Glen Cove chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. E. Marshall Field returned during the week from a cruise to the Mediterranean. Her new estate at Brookville, on the former Percy Hudson property, is progressing rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman H. Newberry returned from the Oaks, their winter home at Bellealr Heights, Fla., today and will be at the Plaza until they sail for California next Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, Mrs. Beverley Eyre and Miss Amey Aldrich returned from Bermuda.

Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould, who returned recently from Bermuda, will be at the St. Regis several weeks.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. David K. Tone of 4422 North Ashland avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Josephine, to Griffith Woodruff of Huntington, N. Y., which took place on March 3. Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff are at Sarasota, Fla., for the rest of the season.

SYNOPSIS.

Tommy Rostetter, Paris correspondent of the London Times, is persuaded by his friend, Helen Roderick, editor of L'Etoile, to take her place at a dinner party. Otherwise there'd be thirteen guests.

THE SHAMELESS DORINDA.

Still groping amidst elusive associations, Tommy Rostetter followed his guide up a fine sweep of interior stairs to a gorgeous bedroom, where in a carved four-poster he beheld Helen Roderick snugly ensconced, wearing smart black satin pyjamas. For a second it crossed his mind she was shamming illness. That scrupulously-waved gray hair, those lips pencilled a vivid magenta, looked remarkably spruce. Then he noticed that her prominent eyes, so exactly like the eyes of a friendly bulldog, held a lurking hint of perturbation.

"Well, well!" he began blithely. "And what's your complaint?"

"Migraine," she croaked in her rich, husky voice. "And—a touch of cold feet. You see, I've had about all I can stand of Dodo's parties. They knock me up. I had to yell for help."

"Dodo?" Tommy echoed pleasantly. "And who's she?"

"English girl I'm giving an eye to—for my sins. Dorinda Quarles. You know her, of course."

With a child-like smile Tommy replied, "By reputation. Who doesn't?" At the same time he experienced a mild astonishment.

Helen sighed. "Too bad, isn't it? So young, too, not yet twenty-one. . . . Her mother happened to be my closest friend. This was her apartment. Benedetto, who let you in, was her butler. Dodo stays here when she's in Paris, though the place actually belongs to—"

"Hold on!" cried Tommy, smiting his brow. "Lady Agatha Quarles! I knew I'd been here, but it was fifteen years ago, before her second marriage. Let's see: Whom did she marry?"

"Dinah Blake, who does those clever drawings for L'Etoile?"
"Um-m—yes. What about her?"

legend "Beyond Relativity." Tommy goggled at it while with a tinge of awe in her voice Helen continued. "An absolute saint, too, if ever there was one. Always patient, always devoted, although the whole three years of their life together poor Agatha was a chronic invalid. She worshipped him, naturally. Any woman would."

"Basil Jethro?" muttered her visitor, still unbelieving. "Chap who got the Sorbonne presentation this afternoon as ever was, big noise at Oxford, especial chair and all the rest of it? But—Dorinda Quarles' stepfather! Whew! It's like saying the Angel Gabriel and Moll Flanders!"

"S'sh! Don't talk so loud. . . . The child's not so black as she's painted. Headstrong, blatant, but she's big hearted, generous to a fault. What I chiefly hold against her is her brutal treatment of Basil. Till she's of age he's her guardian and trustee, but beyond minding her affairs he's long since given up trying to curb her. Hopeless, you know, and so mortifying for him. How can a man of his type, living in such a rarified atmosphere that he makes you think—well, of the stars—cope with a minx who flaunts his authority, rails against him, and constantly humiliates him?"

If one credited but half the gossip current about the shameless Dorinda the situation leaped to the eye! The girl was by all accounts coarse. Flamboyant, untrammeled by scruples or breeding. Indiscriminate in love, and with a capacity for drink which had led her to the open boast that, like a certain gentleman of Half-Moon street, she never breakfasted, but was sick at eleven.

"I lunched with Basil a month ago," explained Helen guardedly. "At his villa in Cap Ferrat, and fool that I was I promised him to take Dodo under my wing for a bit, just while my apartment is let. I said I'd do my best with her, but never did I dream Basil would arrive in Paris and turn up at this flat on the eve of one of her parties. Yes,"—with a nervous glance at the door, "He's on this floor now—not stopping, thank God, only collecting some of his books to take away—but if he hangs around much longer he'll run into some of her pals. Bannister Mowbray, for example. That would just finish me! But in God's name, what can I do?"

"Bannister Mowbray!" repeated Tommy, his flax-flower blue eyes very bland. "I heard he was in town. So she's annexed him, has she?"

"She annexes every shady person within reach. O, I know the sort of name he's got! That's why, feeling unequal to this myself, I got hold of you. I thought you'd exert a sane, steadying influence.

"Thanks," said Tommy dryly.

"No, I mean it. The man can't do anything, of course, but the general atmosphere surrounding him . . . some of the others, too, aren't exactly my choice. There's one, though, who doesn't belong to the regular crowd. It was about her I wanted to speak to you. Remember a rather charming little American, with red hair, whom I introduced to you one day in the Champs Elysées? Dinah Blake, who does those clever drawings for L'Etoile?"

"Um-m—yes. What about her?"

"Just look after her a bit, will you? Not that she'd ever make any kind of scene. O, no! But the truth of the matter is, I strongly suspect young Dodo of doing the dirty on her over a man she was going to marry. It's that good looking Christopher Loughton, in the American Embassy. Well, directly Dinah got back from her summer holiday, she broke off with him, and—O, it's a wretched business!"

The situation seemed to be as follows: Three weeks ago Helen returned one afternoon to find Miss Blake waiting to see her about forthcoming work, and going into the salon discovered her caller, the latter's fiancé, and—Dorinda Quarles.

"I saw at once that Dinah'd come on those two unexpectedly, and guessed what was going on between them. Yes, she and Dodo were acquaintances, fellow students at Colorossi's, and they're still friendly—on the surface. Dinah's got terrific pride. She'd die sooner than let anyone suspect her reason for breaking her engagement, and to be quite fair I'm positive Dodo never thinks of herself as the cause. Utterly casual as she is, Dodo couldn't understand attaching importance to these fleeting episodes. For her Loughton's a back number, wiped out. A gigolo's got the floor, and good luck to him! But Dinah's feelings go deeper. I can swear she hasn't forgotten. If she's coming here tonight, it's just a magnificent gesture, but all the same . . ."

Not greatly interested, Tommy had picked up the Jethro book and was glancing idly at the portrait frontispiece. The face which confronted him was nobly austere, cut like a cameo, and, almost ethereal in its refinement, suggested the recluse, far removed from worldly concerns. The eyes, slightly Mongoloid in cast, had the contemplative vision which penetrates through an object to abstract principles beyond. The owner of such eyes, thought Tommy, could readily enough be associated with the fine-spun, mathematical sequences contained in this treatise. But how hard it was to think of him as ministering to an ailing wife or shouldering the responsibility of an outrageous stepchild! Fate plays queer tricks. . . .

A door was heard to close. Helen started with nervous relief.

"There! Basil's just going." She mopped her brow with a handkerchief soaked in eau-de-cologne, and motioned him to depart. "Get along down, quick, so he can see Dodo has at least one respectable man friend. Don't hate me for dragging you here. The dinner'll be good, anyhow."

Doris Blake Answers

Have an Understanding.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I love acts very funny lately. He got angry at me for nothing at all. He doesn't come up to the house. Do you think he still loves me or is there another girl? LEA."

Ask him what's wrong. If you're the offender, ask to be forgiven. There may be nothing but a change of heart!

Heart on Sleeve?

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a man whom I can see but cannot marry. There is another who loves me, but I only like him half as much as the other. What shall I do? "UNDECIDED."

Were you to eliminate the man you "can't marry you would undoubtedly develop a keener interest in the other chap, Undecided.

Priscilla Dean Finds Cup That Won Her Start

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 12.—[Special.]—Priscilla Dean renewed acquaintance with an old friend at the party given in compliment to her by Mrs. Florence Lowe [Poncho] Barnes, well known woman flyer. The old friend was a tarnished silver cup.

When Priscilla and her mother first came to Hollywood in the early 1920s, it was hard sledding to gain movie recognition. When they were down to their last dime, Priscilla entered an automobile race for actresses at the old Ascot speedway, which was supposed to honor Dorothy Dalton, the Garbo of that day, with a silver cup bestowed on the basis of popular applause from the stands. Priscilla's mother spent the last dime at a 5 and 10 cent store for a picture hat that Priscilla could wear.

Midway of the race the hat blew off and Priscilla stopped her auto to run back and retrieve it, presenting a close-up of dust, grime, petticoats and activity which delighted the stands. All four actresses managed to finish the race in a dead heat, as instructed, and the time for the popular applause was at hand. But the stands clapped so loud and long for Priscilla instead of Dorothy that the flustered management had to give the former the cup.

"Dumb as I was, I tried to run over and give it to Dorothy, telling her she deserved it," Priscilla said.

Mrs. Barnes stumbled onto the cup last week when she went to a bungalow from which her tenants had moved to supervise cleaning it up. How Priscilla's cup got there nobody knows.

That auto race gave Priscilla Dean her start in movies. Her photo, besides the auto, was published in newspapers which mistakenly alluded to her as a "Universal star" and some mystified Universal executive wanted to see what this star, of whom his studio had never heard, looked like. When he saw her, he engaged her.

Paramount has renewed options on three good lookers—Gail Patrick, Grace Bradley, Frances Drake. Miss Patrick, tall Alabama brunette, is one of the tallest girls who has launched a successful career in years. Extreme gracefulness in her case overcame the handicap of height which ordinarily embarrasses medium sized leading men. For instance, George Raft had to wear high heels for his scene in "Bolero" with Carole Lombard.

Boys Well Rid of Girl Who's Double Crosser

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl he loved took his box of candy, told him she had to go somewhere with her mother, called up another boy instead, and they ate the candy. There wouldn't have been any second chapter if the girl had had the good taste to keep quiet about it. But she told her girl friend, who told her girl friend, who in turn told the candy-donator, and now he is off girls for life.

"Double crossers! Liars!" he cries out with seventeen year indignation.

But Seventeen, in love, has a vacillating state of mind and heart. As witness the p. s. query as to whether he should bother with the girl any more. He doesn't want the other fellow to have the last laugh on him.

Don't you think, Seventeen, that the last laugh might be on the co-partner in the candy incident? If he were stuck with the girl, that ought to give you something to smile over. Besides, if she'd play a trick like that on you, her perverted sense of humor will probably make her play him a diabolical one, too.

That's the way I'd figure her, Seventeen, a girl who doesn't know how to play fair, and that you were lucky that it was only at the expense of a box of candy that you found her out.

But this is your little lesson, girls, more than Seventeen's. You see what happens when you play a mean hand. There's always some one willing to carry the tale back. And when word gets around among two or three people that are not quite on the level, it isn't long before a great wide group is in on your unkindness. It is not a good way to start out working up a popularity place for yourselves. That's what you want, isn't it? To be liked, yes, and to be admired for a square shooter?

If it happens that a boy is trying to thrust his company on you with a box of candy, or any other "bribe," you can handle him without making an enemy of him for life.

The "Flanders Poppy" quilt was first made on Long Island, shortly after 1800. Home dyed greens and reds were used, with a tiny circle of yellow for the stamen, and black for the pistil. Twenty-eight applique and twenty-eight plain blocks comprise the quilt, and the result approximates perfection.

Adults Should Assist Child in Nature Study

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Perhaps you've heard me quote the mother who said, "There's one thing that's so satisfactory about city children—they adore the country so."

It is true—they do. Perhaps it is partly because their love of the country is sharpened by never quite enough of it. And partly perhaps because city children often know more about the country than country children do. And that makes them love it more.

I know so many children who summer in the country but live in the city in the winter who know more about wild life and trees and plants of all sorts than the children who live in the country all the year around. This is often true also of children who live in the suburbs. They frequently never get far from their own little plot of ground.

This is partly true because those in their family are not interested in what goes on in the world of nature—because their grownups are not alert to the lives that are lived by plants and the wild creatures just within reach. Sometimes, to be sure, the passion for outdoors will be so intense in a child that he finds it all out for himself.

But as a rule children need some one to open the book of nature for them—to see with them and to talk over with them what they notice, at least at the beginning. They need some one who will make time to go forth—to look, to explore, to wonder with them. Such a gently stimulating companionship will start them toward a knowledge of the outdoors which may be a deep pleasure to them all their lives. But even if it doesn't become that, it satisfies something that is a real need of childhood—a kinship with nature.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrews Will Take Jungle Trip.

are to have a conducted tour through the galleries.

Immediately after a 12 o'clock luncheon they will hear an address by Dr. Louis A. Warren, director of the Lincoln Historical Research foundation at Fort Wayne, Ind. Assisting Mrs. John Flint Dille, the regent, as hostess will be Mrs. Lawrence E. Norem, Mrs. John H. Noyes, Mrs. John L. Porter, Mrs. Gerald K. Smith, and Mrs. Ezra S. Taylor.

In several years' time a young lady will be hearing on all sides "What an unusual name!" She is Hardwick Moseley, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardwick Moseley of Lake Bluff, who was born last Friday evening at the Alice Home hospital. She is her father's namesake.

Donner Wedding to Be Simple One.

From Santa Barbara comes the news that the marriage of Mrs. Joseph W. Donner [Carroll Elting] and Lord Lionel Tennyson, to take place on April 14, will be characterized by simplicity. The service will be read in the Montecito home of the Charles Garfield Kings of Chicago, which is occupied this winter by Mrs. Donner and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting, in the presence of the bride's parents and children and a few intimate friends.

The bride will be unattended and Nion Tucker of Burlingame will be Lord Tennyson's best man. Following the ceremony the grandson of the noted English poet and his bride will leave for his home, also the home of the poet, on the Isle of Wight.

Miss Beatrice Borland, who has decided on April 28 as the day for her marriage to Barton F. Plimpton of Boston, is going east today to spend a few days settling up the last details of the wedding with her fiancé.

At 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon in the chapel of the Grace Episcopal church in Oak Park Mrs. Walter Lyons, the former Cornelia Heile, daughter of the Charles Dyer Heiles, will become the bride of Whitney Campbell. The Rev. Harold Holt, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. There will be no attendants.

Mrs. Lyons attended Smith college and the University of Chicago. Mr. Campbell graduated from Dartmouth and Harvard law school. At the end of a month's honeymoon they will be at home in Oak Park.

A month in Phoenix is in store for Frank McNair and his two attractive daughters, Mrs. Frank Sims [Betty McNair] and Miss Caroline McNair. They will leave on Friday.

Burford Porters Visiting in Florida.

The Burford L. Porters have gone to Belleair, Fla., to join Mr. Porter's father, Gilbert E. Porter, for a fortnight of fishing and bathing. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Porter III. returned recently from Belleair to their Lake Forest home. Mrs. Porter is going south this week to visit her mother, Mrs. Thomas H. Kilby, in Alabama, and then to Charleston, S. C. She will be away for ten days.

Mrs. Henry D. Sturtevant of Lake Shore drive is in Florida. She will not return until after Easter.

The John F. Jelkes have gone to Florida, but theirs will be a shorter vacation.

The junior Edward A. Cudahys returned recently from Florida.

The Lyle Harpers are having a southern holiday with their time divided almost equally between Palm Beach and Miami. They are planning to return by way of New Orleans.

Among the latest recruits to Bermuda are Mrs. Edward L. Hersey and Mrs. David W. Norton Jr., who will spend three weeks there; the Robert N. McCrearys and the Ewing T. Webbs, who will be at home in Lake Forest on the 24th, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. King, who will spend three weeks or a month there.

Mrs. Harry B. Clow and her children are enjoying life in their little house in Bermuda. Among her guests have been her brother and sister-in-law, the junior Robert J. Dunhams. She gave a cocktail party for them recently, including in her invitations Mrs. Milton M. Morse of Lake Forest, Clarence Williams of Chicago, and Percival Harry Baynes of Toronto, Canada. The Dunhams will be at home again in Lake Forest the end of this week, but Mrs. Clow will remain until May.

Bride

MRS. LEO M. LEDERER.
[Maurice Seymour Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. A. Shulman of 7011 Chappel avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Beatrice, to Leo M. Lederer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lederer of 6011 Sheridan road, which took place on March 5. Mr. Lederer and his bride are spending a month in California.

The Stage

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The current programs of vaudeville at the Chicago and Palace theaters, rival cinema amphitheaters, have one thing in common—a "screen star in person" number. In both cases said luminary of the films is a man—Ramon Novarro at the former, Edmund Lowe at the latter.

Mr. Novarro, who has that suggestion of old-world romance which makes the hearts of lady "picture" patrons go pitty-pat, appears in an elegant dress suit, with gardenia on the lapel, and sings a few songs, some of them in Spanish, in a light parlor voice that fades into a mere thread of tone in the vast hall. Recalled with applause of a volume worthy of the late Enrico Caruso, he chants the refrain of his trade-mark number, "Pagan Love Song."

Mr. Lowe, at the Palace, goes through the paces of a regular actor. He appears in a playlet called "The Great Jewel Robbery," impersonating a flip gentleman burglar who invades the boudoir of a pretty lady who is ready for bed. He baffles the pursuers, makes love to the girl, and when last seen, in noble pajamas, is ready to turn square and have a honeymoon. This piece seems like an old friend to me, and I suspect that it is a rewritten, wise-cracked version of a vaudeville sketch of long and honorable ancestry.

The girl in the sketch arouses interest, not only by her pictorial value as a lingerie model, but also by her acting, which is unusually good for a diversion of this type. She is Edith Atwater, seen at the Blackstone theater last season in "Springtime for Henry," and member of a well-known Chicago family.

"Padre Carillo," a new play by Charles Costello, director of the Loyola Community players, will be staged by that group in their theater next Sunday afternoon. It will be repeated on Monday and Tuesday nights, March 19 and 20.

The Pabst theater of Milwaukee will be the scene of a dramatic festival of five weeks' duration, beginning April 9, under the direction of Robert Henderson, who has conducted similar events in Ann Arbor, Mich., for the last five years. The first play will be "Peter Ibbetson," with Violet Kemble-Cooper and Rollo Peters in the central roles. "Autumn Crocus," with Sylvia Field and Mr. Peters, will be the second. The program will also include "And So to Bed," with Eugene Leontovich, and "The Brontës," by Alfred Sangster. The festival will be sponsored by a committee of Milwaukee citizens.

Beg your pardon! The role of the headmistress in "Girls in Uniform," at the Blackstone, is acted by Frances Gregg, not Francis, as stated yesterday. A typographical error in the program, and Miss Gregg's portrayal of the character with Prussian grimness, caused a mistake in gender for which apologies are offered. Miss Gregg, in private life, is Mrs. Stanley Andrews, wife of a radio performer.

Former Merry Fahrney Plays Handmaiden in Cleopatra Movie

Hollywood, Cal., March 13.—[Special.]—Merry Fahrney Pickering von Eiszner, 21 years old, Chicago heiress, today stepped into ancient Egyptian stepins as a handmaiden for the queen, playing a small part in the movie "Cleopatra," in production by Cecil De Mille here.

Mrs. Von Eiszner, who has taken a suite at a hotel here while awaiting the outcome of her annulment action, was one of fifty young beauties cast for the luxury scenes on the barge of Cleopatra. Claudette Colbert plays the part of the queen.

Gil Berry, the former University of Illinois football captain, is playing a Roman guard in the same movie.

Star's Beauty Care Is Simple and Accessible

Their Secret of Loveliness Is Daily Attention.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"What do the professional stars of stage and screen use to give them the complexions that are written about so often?" asks a correspondent.

My correspondent must believe that the professional stars have access to some magic formula or formulae denied the rest of mortals.

Well, I've talked to a great many of the outstanding members of the stage and movie craft, and the simplicity of the formulae they use in the care of their complexions is impressive. You and I have easy access to exactly the same soaps, creams, lotions, astringents, and other items of skin care. They are the commonly marketed products advertised openly for your acquaintance and mine. BUT, there is this difference between the professional and nonprofessional woman. The latter slips up more often on the daily care of the skin. With the professionals, recognizing that their success depends largely on such items of personal attention as skin and hair and teeth and figure, they do not trifle with their gods. They employ them daily.

As a general thing, the professional drifts into her vocation because she has an unusual endowment of looks. But she doesn't rest on her natural laurels. In other words, the lesson we can take from the professional beauty is that she works as hard as the person in nonprofessional walks to keep herself constantly and always in trim.

As for their complexion care, the screen stars have to be more exacting of themselves about their complexions than those of the stage. The lights are harder on the skin in cinema land, and the sunny climate of California, too, has to be tempered with skin emollients to prevent dryness, which, as you know, ages and withers skin. It's true that in our part of the country we may not get so much sun, but we have other drying conditions with which to contend. But the most important thing in skin care is to keep the skin soft with creams to prevent this early drying. This, of course, where there are no blemishes to be remedied first. If there are such blemishes as blackheads and pimples, the skin must be cleared of these, and information on skin clearing is readily obtainable from this department.

Brilliant Playing Features Concert by String Quartet

Music of a pleasantly intimate nature was heard again last evening when the Mischakoff String quartet appeared in the foyer of Orchestra hall. This was the third in the series of recitals given under the auspices of the Chicago Chamber Music committee. From the beginning the audiences have been comfortably large and in a high degree appreciative. The fourth and final item of the series will be played April 3, again by the Mischakoffs, but with the assistance of the pianist Rudolph Ganz.

Early Beethoven, the quartet in D, opus 18, No. 3, began last night's program. It was continued by Schubert's "Death and the Maiden" variations, and ended by Dohnanyi's work in A minor, opus 33, No. 3. This was a comprehensive selection, covering about as much territory in the string quartet field as one single program could be expected to do, and it was played in the customary brilliant and dashing fashion of the Mischakoff organization.

The groups in charge of these concerts have done a fine thing for the present Chicago musical season.

Bishop Abbott Sees Danger to Sincerity in Modern Competition

Bishop H. P. Almon Abbott of Lexington, Ky., former rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Chicago, told his noonday audience yesterday at the Grand Opera house that modern competition and the struggle for existence have driven men to insincerity. The address was the first of a series of five to be given by Bishop Abbott in Chicago.

"The increasing power of common standards and the pressure of a general opinion make it difficult for a man to be himself. He must, or feels he must, do as other men do," declared Bishop Abbott. "Insincerity takes all the dignity out of life and makes the world a mean place. We must return to a new found sincerity through proper reverence for ourselves and a profounder faith in God," he said.

Parisiennes Seize Tie Silks Abandoned by Men, Make Them Into Spring Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Men about Paris have for some time shown a tendency to neglect the necktie made of crisp silk in favor of four-in-hands ma. ) of all kinds of odd materials from wool to cotton. Women have seized the neglected tie silks of the smart man and are wearing frocks made of these materials under their spring coats. Foulard, crisp tie silks, failles, and tie satins are much worn here this early spring. The pattern that is most in favor in these silks is a check so tiny you can scarcely see it with the naked eye overlaid by polka dots.

The Worth frock shown herewith is made of gray silk in this pattern polka dotted with brown. This dress has a childish ruffle around the modest neckline, the ruffle coming down in a point at the front to meet a rising point in the skirt front. On the shoulders this ruffle flies upward in wing-like points. The sleeves are double caps of the silk which together do not reach the elbows.

The sides of the bodice at the front and back are shirred on to the rising V's of the skirt top, making a draped waistline. There is no belt. The skirt is straight in front and has flared gores at the back.

Here Are Some Dishes to Win Hubby's Praise

They Tempt the Pernickety Male Palates.

BY MARY MEADE.

Love 'em as we do [the old dears], there's no denying that males have an alarming way of barging home from work, open mouthed and brooking no delay. Food—platters of it, tubs of it, oceans of it—say their faces—is all that may now suffice to hold body and soul together. An', for Pete's sake, let's hustle!

But how is a girl going to know just what best tickles the tummy of the voracious male? We might be wrong, but as a tip we suggest a knowing watch of his face and his plate. For judging by verbal responses is just no good. One day a dish will bring forth beams of joy at the skill of the little woman. At the next appearance of said dish he may have on the mood of the man who retorted to his wife's query about the pie, "You don't hear me kicking, do you?"

As for rules, it seems that you just can't classify these men. But, from figures which folks have taken who watch daily in clubs and restaurants where men yodel for their food, certain dishes stand out as all time favorites.

One husky dish for which the gentlemen voted, and then came back with false whiskers and voted for again, was:

SPAGHETTI NEAPOLITANO.
1 package unbroken spaghetti
¼ cup cooking oil
1½ cups sliced onions
1 clove garlic
1 pound chopped raw beef
1 tablespoon salt
1 can tomato soup
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Have salted water boiling madly and duck into it the whole package of spaghetti, unbroken. [As one rooter remarked, "It's the impudent slap it gives you alongside the cheek, while you're inhaling it, that's half the fun."] Drain it out, when it's cooked, and add to it the following sauce:

Heat the oil in a good sized frying pan and fry in it the garlic, then the onions until they're brown and until the house has taken on just the correct amount of gloriously inviting odor. Add the beef, mixing it well about, and cook until tender. Now blend in the soup and salt and bubble gently for 5 minutes before mixing with the spaghetti, and crown with spoonsful of grated cheese. As for authenticity, maybe this isn't quite the original Italian dish, but we'll gladly send our seconds to any man who denies that it's both soul satisfying and filling!

And here comes a scramble the most dignified of husbands will do tricks for. So take my advice and let the dish itself be the trick. Then you can say when company arrives half an hour before dinner, "M' dear, why not make your famous scrambled tomatoes?" Husband will take the hint and perform his one and only, sending folks home with the conviction that he's really quite a clever fellow.

SCRAMBLED TOMATOES.
A la Husband.
8 strips bacon
2 medium sized onions, sliced
1 green pepper, minced
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
4 cold cooked potatoes
6 eggs, well beaten
Salt, pepper, paprika to taste.

Dice the bacon and fry it slightly, add the onions and green pepper, and continue simmering until all are tender, but only slightly browned. Add the tomatoes, cut up. When they're hot, stir in carefully the beaten eggs, continuing cooking and stirring until the eggs have set. Add potatoes, season well, and serve with hot baking powder biscuits.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

BY P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

OPENER'S PROCEDURE AFTER RESPONSE OF ONE NO TRUMP.

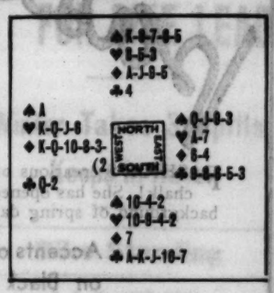
CONTINUING yesterday's discussion of this subject, I would like to advise that until your partner shows otherwise, it is best to consider the response of one no trump over your suit bid as an absolute warning to keep the bidding low. No matter how good a system is, partnership confidence is essential. Premature optimism will not be condoned by any player. One purpose of the no trump response is to give the opener a chance in the event that he has a big hand.

The reason I mention this is that the example hand I have furnished today was the cause of a lot of grief in a recent duplicate game.

If your original bid was made on an aggressive type of hand in which you held six of one suit and four of another, keep in mind the likelihood of your partner having a freak distribution as well. Generally, his response is based on a shortage of your first suit. Therefore, unless your six card suit is solid, show your four carder at two; that is, do not force in either suit. If there is a game in the hand, providing your partner holds specific cards, you will get there by conservative bidding, whereas if he does not hold those very cards you may incur a heavy penalty.

Even by the responder, a suit is not bid that is not playable. Occasionally you will have a five card suit headed by the nine spot that constitutes part of your response of one no trump. If this suit happens to be the suit that should be the ultimate trump, it is only because your partner has the top honors and will declare it.

If you study this hand you will readily see that West should not make a forcing bid over his partner's one no trump response, although all that is needed to produce a game in the hand is four hearts, ace high, and the jack of diamonds.



East and West vulnerable.
The bidding:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 Di. [1] | Pass | 1 N. T. [2] | Pass |
| 2 Ht. [3] | Pass | 2 N. T. [4] | Pass |
| 3 Di. [5] | Pass | Pass | Pass |

1. An aggressive hand with at least two rebid values. If partner can respond in any suit except spades, game is certain.

2. The clubs are too weak to bid. If the spades were headed by the king, queen, or if there were five of them, they should be bid, but we do not consider a four card suit headed by the queen and jack a biddable suit.

3. Showing a second suit of less length than the first suit bid.

4. Denying support for both suits bid, but indicating a stopper in both other suits. This is not a forcing response.

5. Confirming a two suited hand and distinct preference for diamonds. In the play of the hand West lost two club tricks and three diamond tricks for a set of 100 points.

At several tables the bidding was: West, one diamond; East, one no trump; West, three hearts; East, three no trump; South, double.

One West player passed the double and was set three tricks for a penalty of 1,000 points.

Two West players bid four diamonds over the double and were doubled and set two tricks for a penalty of 600 points.

One West player bid four diamonds and was doubled, and his partner foolishly bid four hearts, which was doubled and set 1,400 points.

SOVIETS TO SEND MISSION TO U. S. TO STIR UP TRADE

Expect Favorable Terms for New Business.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, March 12.—A soviet trade mission will be sent to the United States soon to investigate the possibilities for increased commerce between the two countries offered by the new American export-import bank, it was learned today.

Official circles made it plain, however, that trade revival between the soviets and America will be based on terms which communist leaders consider favorable to this country.

Russia will require, it was said, that purchases here keep pace with sales of United States products in the soviet union. One fair sized sale of $250,000 worth of linen goods has just been made here by a New York firm, but there has been little other major commercial activity.

Mission Will Leave Soon.

It was understood that Ivan Bolev, vice commissar for foreign trade, will head the mission to New York and Washington. Definite plans are yet to be made but the mission probably will depart at an early date.

Trade talks will be held, also, between William C. Bullitt, new American ambassador, and soviet leaders here. Bullitt himself is convinced that if the United States expects to get many orders from Russia in the future, American purchases of Russian products must be increased.

(The American export-import bank was chartered with $11,000,000 capital subscribed in Washington by the RFC and is believed capable of financing American trade with Russia up to about $100,000,000. George N. Peek, foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt, is head of the bank.)

State Department Study On.

A study of the question of greater American purchases of Russian goods is being made by the state department, Bullitt stated. He believed the plan can be arranged "without competing with home production."

Flushed with progressive increases in its own industrial production which is, more and more, reducing Russia's dependence on foreign machinery, the rulers in the Kremlin believe they are now in a strong bargaining position.

Outlining the new state foreign trade policy toward the capitalistic world, A. Rosengoltz, commissar for foreign commerce, said:

"We had to purchase heavily abroad to carry out our first five year plan, but our success in establishing our own industrial bases and the means of production now places us in a position to fulfill our second five year plan with considerably smaller imports.

Will Ask Better Terms.

"We don't say we shall give up imports entirely, but we no longer will have to agree to considerable purchases abroad on any terms. There must be radically improved conditions in the form of long term credits and normal interest rates before we again shall consider large scale buying in foreign markets."

G. Ordzhonokidzie, commissar for heavy industry, made a significant comparison of imports with domestic production of agricultural machinery, electro-technique equipment, and general machine building showing that in the last few years, imports have declined in direct ratio to increased production at home.

Russia, in dealing with other countries, has a powerful trade implement in the shape of a government monopoly on all foreign commerce. It is the sole purchasing and sales organization.

URUGUAY CLAIMS U. S. TURNED DOWN PLEA TO REDUCE TARIFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, March 12.—Replying to a notes of the chamber of commerce urging the Uruguayan government to negotiate with the United States government for a reduction of tariffs on wool and other live stock by-products, Foreign Minister Alberto Mane declared today that the government had sounded out Washington without success. This was, he said, "due to the protectionist character of the former American government."

He added that the Uruguayan delegation to the seventh Pan-American conference introduced a resolution to abolish tariff barriers which today "impede a regular flow of American commerce." The delegation urged "substituting the tariffs ruling of January, 1925, for the existing ones," he said.

This resolution, although not accepted in its entirety by the conference, nevertheless gave an impulse to conversations between President Dr. Gabriel Terra and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Mane pointed out.

NEW TARIFF DEAL HELD TRADE KEY TO LATIN AFRICA

Even Now U. S. Products Leap Customs Wall.

BY W. E. NASH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, March 12.—Latin Africa is in more of a state of flux than British Africa. Within the next decade political changes may take place that will automatically bring more trade with the United States.

Even now, despite attempts by European overlords to monopolize trade, the United States conducts a fair sized interchange of merchandise with Latin Africa and can perhaps increase the transactions. Shipping facilities are ample.

By clever tariff bargaining, especially with independent Egypt, Morocco, Tunis, and Mozambique, increased business is highly possible. Already oil has established American prestige.

French colonies bid fair to outstrip all others in Africa in agricultural wealth. Oil is the one American product which all buy in large quantities. If offered sufficient inducement, the colonies through the Paris Quai d'Orsay might buy even more American and less British oil for it is not produced by the French.

Like Tastes of Old Rome.

Culturally and ethnographically French North Africa is more Mediterranean than African. The tastes and needs of its Arab-Berber population resemble more those of ancient Rome, modern Greece or Turkey or the Balkans, than they do those of South and East African Negroes.

Algeria exports $50,000,000 worth of wine alone each year. Most of the wine goes to France, but it could be used to supplement direct imports of corks and olive oil into the United States in return for more equable treatment of American automotive exports.

France sold Algeria over $150,000,000 worth of textiles, hardware, and machinery in 1930. Tractors, automobiles, radios, and typewriters abound. Most of the automobiles are French, but not so the tires, gas, radios, and typewriters. Our $2,000,000 share therein might well be increased.

Tunis, though smaller and less wealthy than Algeria, opens up great possibilities for American exporters. Out of 160,000 white settlers, nearly 90,000 are Italians, who prefer to do anything rather than "buy French."

Morocco Not in Tariff Wall.

Morocco came under French rule only 22 years ago, and still retains a powerful individuality. It is not included within the Chinese wall of French custom duties. At least half the automobiles are American made, and the same should be true of radios, refrigerators, agricultural machinery and excavating machinery. Native as well as white landowners enjoy an advanced stage of economic well being.

In French West and equatorial Africa, Dakar, center of the group, leaps into prominence as a jumping off place for air traffic across the south Atlantic. Dakar sends out periodic shipments of peanuts, palm oil, mahogany, and cocoa to the United States. Thousands of Senegalese soldiers recruited for the French army return home with a taste for civilized merchandise.

Portugal in Europe produces only a small percentage of the articles demanded for consumption by her African colonists and consequently must open the door wider to foreign competition than do France and Italy.

Mozambique, or Portuguese East Africa, is already well known to American industrial magnates. Much American lumber, mining, and excavating machinery, destined for South Africa, passes through the port of Lourenco Marques, capital of Mozambique. Angola, or Portuguese West Africa, on the other hand, is almost neglected by American traders, even though it has a larger white population, richer natural resources, and more intrinsic opportunities.

Belgium Stirs Immigration.

To strengthen Belgian influence in her one enormous colony, the Congo, a special committee has just been formed and set to work to lure out Walloon and Flemish emigrants. Not only will passage money be advanced to these emigrants, but also loans for the acquisition of farms and agricultural equipment.

The Congo today is valuable for incalculable mineral resources connected with gold, copper, diamonds, cobalt, and radium. To solve transport problems and cover immense distances of jungle growth, aviation has been resorted to on a large scale. American aircraft and accessory manufacturers might find a good outlet here.

Italian African colonies have had attention recently from Mussolini. He has persuaded the government of British South Africa to help him subsidize a new all-around-Africa shipping service. He has encouraged sponge and tunny fishing in Libya, port and railroad construction in Eritrea and plantation culture in Somaliland. Unfortunately, however, Italy sponsors the open door principle even less than France.

Egypt is easily the most important of the independent countries. Restive under the few remaining traces of British control, Egypt is able and willing to negotiate new trade treaties. She is well served by shipping lines, among them American concerns. An American express company is said to be considering the establishment of limited American banking facilities in Cairo which already is the seat of a small American business community.

To increase our 5 per cent participation in the 1930 import figure of $250,000,000, we might demand more sympathetic consideration from the Egyptian government when it comes to a question of competition with British, French, and Italian industrial rivals. Egypt would certainly demand lower American tariff duties on her main export and main source of wealth, long staple cotton.

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR JANE A. DELANO

Chicago nurses held memorial services yesterday in the Chicago Woman's club for Jane A. Delano, who during the world war was instrumental in enlisting a corps of 20,000 nurses for overseas service. Nation-wide memorial services are held annually on the famous nurse's birthday, under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross.

NEW YORK PICKS CHAMPIONS TO FIGHT CHICAGO

19,200, Full House, See Golden Gloves.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—New York tonight crowned its Golden Glove champions before 19,201 paid customers who filled every seat of Madison Square Garden. Mulberry Bend met Park avenue, Hollywood said howdy to Broadway, Washington formally greeted New York, and the Bronx grinned at Brooklyn as the eastern half of boxing's greatest show unreeled itself before a gathering that paid $45,620 to see the goings on.

The western half of the show—Chicago's Golden Glove finals—drew 21,509 three nights ago. Thus twice in 72 hours amateur boxing has attracted larger crowds than turned out to see the world's heavyweight championship match between Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran.

Hundreds Are Shut Out.

All seats for tonight's bouts were disposed of an hour before the first pair entered the ring. Hundreds were milling around the 49th street and 8th avenue entrances to the Garden when the box offices were closed. The town's leading citizen, Mayor Fiorelo H. La Guardia, could not resist the appeal of the Daily News' famous boxing presentation, and he reached his chair just as Louis Camps, a 1933 intercity winner, gained the featherweight championship by outpointing Frank Romano.

Celebrities could be spotted throughout the front sections. Al Jolson, the stage, screen, and radio star who showed Hollywood a few months ago that he can throw punches himself, saw the bouts from the third row. Nearby were Rudy Vallee, Peggy Fears, Bert Lahr, Abe Lyman, Marvin Schenck, Victor Moore, Deke Aylesworth, Ted Husing, and Lou Holtz, all widely known stage and radio folk.

Col. Roosevelt Cheers.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt was cheering the boys on from the second row and seated alongside him were Sylvia Federman, woman's golf star; Bernard Gimbel, and Grantland Rice. James L. Kilpatrick, president of the New York Telephone company; Arthur W. Cunningham, controler of New York, and Gen. John Phelan of the New York boxing commission were other enthusiastic up-front patrons.

There were no more interested spectators, however, than the thousands who were perched in the upper shelves. All were rewarded with the liveliest bouts in the history of New York Golden Gloves. Out of the show came the 16 boys who will meet THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE team in the seventh annual intercity match at the Garden March 28. As a group they are stronger than the squad that lost in Chicago last spring, 10 bouts to 6.

Hough Wins Close One.

Several fighters who are known to Inter-city Golden Gloves patrons survived the finals. Among them are Louis Camps, featherweight, who last year whipped Izzy Goldstein in Chicago when they were fighting as bantamweights. Another is Mark Hough, Negro middleweight, who two years ago knocked out Johnny Neigo of Chicago in the second round. He did not compete in the New York tournament last winter. He thrashed Gus Lesnevich to win the 1934 title, but the decision was so thin that the fans hooted and howled throughout the next contest.

Lesnevich caught the Negro with a right to the chin a few seconds before the final bell and it appeared for a moment that Hough would collapse. Until that punch he had a slight edge.

Frank Williams, another colored lad, earned the lightweight championship by knocking out Charles Diaz. Williams whipped Johnny Dobler in the Inter-city match at this weight last winter. Joe Ferrone, who was a member of the New York squad a year ago, defeated Andre Jessurun for the welterweight title. Jessurun is the metropolitan A. A. U. and New York state champion.

Scores Two Knockouts.

The New York heavyweight champion is Bob Pastor, New York university athlete, who was the light heavyweight king in 1933. Pastor last year lost a close decision to Max Marek in the intercity match. Marek landed the last hard blow, which was the deciding margin.

Pastor scored two knockouts tonight to annex the heavyweight crown. He stopped Eddie Wocher in the third round of their semi-final bout and stopped Al Demedowitz, a former high school football player, in the second round of the title scrap. Pastor is as shifty as ever and is hitting much harder. Increased weight has taken away none of his speed.

The open division summaries:

KLEIN ASSIGNED TO LEFT FIELD JOB FOR CUBS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 12.—Charles [Tiger] Klein, who needs no introduction as one of our very best hitters, will not play center field for the Cubs this summer. Charley Grimm, manager of the Chicago outfit, had made plans to employ the former Philly in that position, but the idea has been abandoned. Klein let it be known today that he preferred right or left field, and the manager immediately announced that Klein could play in any spot where he thought he could do himself and the club the most good.

This alteration means the Hoosier with the blacksmith's arms will go to work in left field when the season starts. Whether he stays there depends on what Floyd [Babe] Herman does with his bat. He did practically nothing last season, so there is some fear he might repeat on his flop. If he hits he'll be in right field, because it is the only fly chasing position he can handle.

Cuyler in Center.

The center field berth will go to Kiki Cuyler, who has been there before. If Herman falls down on the job, thus sending Klein to right, the daily business in left field will be handled by Riggs Stephenson. Stephenson doesn't go so well when the weather gets good and hot, but until annoyed by the temperature he can play on a par with the best of them. Stevie can hit in the pinches, and talent along such lines is not easily crowded out of the picture.

Grimm also has a suspicion that Tuck Stainback, the $75,000 blond from the Los Angeles club, may yet make demands on a regular job. Grimm naturally favors him because of his speed. He can play any of the three outfield positions. He has a wonderful throwing arm, can run like a deer, field well, and hit. That is, he hit Coast league pitching for a .335 mark last season, but might find the major league variety a bit more difficult. Stainback is starting only his third season in professional ball, having been taken right out of a Los Angeles high school by the Los Angeles club on the recommendation of a sports writer.

Tuck to Play at Los Angeles.

Stainback probably will be in center field when the Cubs open their spring exhibition schedule next Thursday against the Angels at Los Angeles. His presence is expected to increase the number of cash customers.

Today's practice was devoted mainly to polishing up the pitching staff on the fielding of bunts and the covering of first base on batted balls handled by the first baseman. Grimm himself acted as first baseman. So far as the pitchers' arms are concerned, they aren't ready to cut loose, but that is always the case in the island camp. The pitchers take things easy over here because the daily breeze makes it easy to acquire a sore arm. As soon as Los Angeles is reached next Thursday they will begin to bear down.

For the first few exhibitions Grimm probably will work Augie Galan, the San Francisco rookie, at second base.

CARNERA, BAER AGENTS CONFER ON TITLE FIGHT

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Representatives of Primo Carnera, heavyweight boxing champion, and Max Baer, generally considered the most formidable contender, conferred today with Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of the Madison Square Garden corporation, in an attempt to reach agreement on terms for a title bout. At the end of the discussion, which was held at a secret meeting place, Kilpatrick announced that progress had been made and that all parties concerned intend to continue negotiations until a definite understanding is reached.

Baer and Hoffman have insisted that Jack Dempsey, who promoted the Baer-Schmeling match here last summer, be given a share in fostering the title bout. The Garden has refused to agree to this point.

Rodak Defeats Paul Dazzo in 10 Round Bout

Leo Rodak, the only three time Golden Gloves champion, last night indicated he is ready for the best boxers at his weight, when he achieved the best triumph of his professional career by defeating Paul Dazzo in ten rounds at White City. It was his 15th victory in as many professional bouts.

The crowd, which packed the arena, expected a hard, tough battle for Rodak. And they were not amiss. Rodak opened the fight with a series of straight lefts to the face. Dazzo attempted vainly to get in close where he does his best work. It wasn't until the fourth round that he untracked himself and scored with several hard lefts and rights to Rodak's stomach.

In the sixth round Rodak traded blows with Dazzo and Paul emerged with cuts over both eyes. The injuries didn't slow him up any, however. He kept after Rodak, attempting to land his powerful left hook, which caused most of his previous foes considerable distress.

Rodak was equal to the occasion. He boxed coolly and cleverly and piled up the winning points with his left jab and sharp counters. Rodak was a tired boxer in the tenth round, but he was able to evade Paul's rushes and vicious wallops to earn the decision. It was his first 10 round battle.

Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., stopped Ray Vegas [3].
Sammy Adams beat George Trapp [4].
Jimmy Christy beat Fred Gravelle [4].

Woman Scores Ace in Tourney—but Takes Five

Pebble Beach, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Gene McDaniel of Burlingame, playing in the qualifying round of the Pebble Beach women's golf tournament today, made a hole in one, but took five on the hole. Mrs. McDaniel was on the fifth tee. She drove one out of bounds. Her second, third and fourth balls also were lost. Her fifth shot traveled 160 yards and into the cup.

Dublinsky Knocks Out Berlier in Fifth Round

New Orleans, La., March 12.—(AP)—Harry Dublinsky of Chicago knocked out Erwin Berlier of New Orleans in the fifth round of a 10 round bout tonight. Dublinsky started off slowly and apparently lost the first two rounds, but rallied later to score several knockdowns and completely outclass Berlier. The bout drew $2,644.

Notre Dame Is Beaten, 43-41, by Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., March 12.—[Special.]—The Minnesota basketball team tonight defeated Notre Dame, 43 to 41, in an overtime battle before 7,000 spectators.

Krause of Notre Dame had sunk a basket to make the score 37 all at the end of regular play. The Irish seemed to have the game won in the extra period, for Krause and Crowe made the score 41-37 in their favor with only a minute to play. Then two baskets by Roscoe and one by Norman put the Gophers in the lead just as the gun sounded.

Notre Dame was trailing, 24 to 13, at half time, because Gordie Norman, Minnesota center, who was playing with a bad ankle, piled up 10 points while holding Krause to 4.

The Irish attack was more effective when they returned to the floor and stepped into the lead at 34-31. The Gophers pulled out in front again, 37-35, only to have Krause knot the score with his fifth goal of the half.

The defeat was the fourth Notre Dame had suffered this year.

Leader—Schaller.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Bearcat team, composed of Torchy Peden and Tony Schaller, and the Belgian-American combination of Gerard Debaets and Fred Ottevaere, took the lead in the six day bicycle race last night at the Chicago Stadium. At the end of 27 hours of riding these two teams had covered a little more than 470 miles and held a one lap advantage over the next four pairs.

At the start of an evening of spectacular jamming, Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands held a one lap lead over their nearest rivals, but they were unable to hold their advantage amid the wild riding which began at 9 o'clock. For an hour and a half there was incessant jamming in the course of which 71 laps were gained. Then, after a brief breathing spell, the 6,000 spectators were treated to another session of speedy pedaling as the 11 o'clock sprints began.

Three Spills for Winter.

Charley Winter was the victim of three accidents during a day and evening of reckless riding. Racing at a fast clip in the afternoon he took a header as his front wheel collapsed. Debaets, moving with a rush just behind, was unable to swing aside. He ploughed into the prostrate Winter. Both riders suffered bruises and wrenched muscles.

After a rest, Winter resumed riding, but ten minutes later he crashed into his trainer, Jimmy Saverne, when the latter stepped too far out on the flat. Again Winter was painfully injured.

On the Floor Again!

During the jamming which followed the 9 o'clock sprints, Winter blew a tire and fell, sustaining more bruises and floor burns. But he was back in the race after a brief rest, his skinned forehead and bandaged arms giving him a battered appearance which contrasted sharply with some of his sleek looking competitors.

The Chicago team of Eddie Trieste and Jerry Rodman also interrupted the race shortly after 9 o'clock. Working hard to gain a lap, they locked handle bars and upset.

The teams which were bunched one lap behind the leading pairs were Tino Reboli and Eduardo Severgnini, Jimmy Walthour and Charley Ritter, Fred Spencer and Bill Grimm, together with McNamara and Lands.

The team of Winter and Jules Audy, which had been right up with the leaders during the early part of the race, was five laps behind, due largely to the accidents suffered by Winter.

Peden and Schaller, the latter a Chicago rider, drew a large share of the crowd's applause. Whenever the field showed a tendency to relax from the terrific jamming which followed the 9 o'clock sprints, the blue and gold colors of Peden or Schaller would go flashing out in front and frenzied riding would begin again.

2—Keating, Reboli, Walthour, Smessaert.
3—Wissel, Debaets, Hopkins, Severgnini.
4—Grimm, Smessaert, Keating, Walthour.
5—Spencer, Audy, Severgnini, Wagner.
6—Winter, Walthour, Keating, Smessaert.
7—Severgnini, Ritter, Rodman, Peden.
8—Grimm, Gadou, Keating, Ottevaere.
9—Ritter, Peden, Wissel, Audy.
10—Walthour, Letourner, Keating, Reboli.

Marquette Center Signs to Play with Chicago Bears

Milwaukee, Wis., March 12.—(AP)—Arthur Kreuger of Milwaukee, center of the Marquette university football team for three years, said tonight he has signed a contract to play with the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football league.

SENATE FINANCE GROUP TO HEAR PROTEST TODAY

Want Ten Per Cent Levy Removed.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic association has sent a trio of representatives to the capital to protest to the senate finance committee that a 10 per cent admission tax on college athletic events is driving spectators away and preventing college sports from making money. The protest will be heard tomorrow.

Leading the battle for an exemption in the 258 million dollar tax bill under consideration by the committee will be Frank McCormick, director of athletics of the University of Minnesota, representing the Big Ten; D. H. Harrison, University of Pittsburgh athletic director, speaking for the Eastern Collegiate association, and C. P. Miles, athletic director at Virginia Polytechnic institute, representing the southern conference.

Say Only Four Making Money.

They will present data gathered by the national association from 137 athletic directors. The three representatives are prepared to argue that the athletic associations at Notre Dame, Southern California, Army, and Navy are the only ones in the nation now making money. Moreover, they claim, football and sometimes basketball are the only sports paying their way and these cannot meet the deficit from track, swimming, wrestling, and the others.

The 10 per cent tax was collected first in 1930 and brought in $900,000 instead of the anticipated 3 million dollars' revenue, the directors claim. They estimate the government will take in only $132,000 this year.

Puts Blame on Overbuilding.

"Colleges and universities overbuilt during the boom period," said McCormick, "and nowadays most of them find they have great athletic plants and equipment on their hands without the necessary funds to pay off the bonded indebtedness.

"On top of this Uncle Sam is trying to collect an admission tax that is driving people away from the big games—the only games where the colleges and universities can recoup."

1929 Is Peak Year.

The National Collegiate Athletic association believes 1929 was the year of the greatest gate receipts for college athletics. It places the figure at 33 million dollars. Last season they were reported to have dropped to $13,200,000.

The directors claim the $132,000 tax is a mere drop in the bucket of government income, but that it is the big barrier preventing colleges and universities from making money on athletics.

ARIZMENDI AND CANZONERI CLASH ON COAST TONIGHT

The splendid showing of the Mexican in the gymnasium cut the odds in favor of Canzoneri, former world's lightweight champion, from 2 to 1 to 10 to 8. There was some chance they might be even less when the fighters step on the scales tomorrow to make 130 pounds.

Especially will this be true if Canzoneri has difficulty making the weight. Arizmendi already is three pounds under and probably will weigh 123 or less ringside.

WINGS AND LEAFS BEGIN PLAYOFFS ON MARCH 22

Fix Dates for Second, Third Place Series.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13.—(AP)—Dates for the Stanley cup playoffs were set today by the National Hocky league's board of governors.

The six teams which will compete have been decided definitly, with the Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Maroons, and Montreal Canadiens carrying the hopes of the Canadian section of the league, and the Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers, and Chicago Blackhawks representing the United States division.

Only one of the five series which lead to the crowning of the cup champions, however, was definitly arranged. That one will send Detroit against Toronto in a best three out of five game series for the league championship. The Red Wings already have clinched first place in the United States section and Toronto has done likewise in the Canadian group.

Final Standings Decide.

The other series pairings will depend upon whether the Maroons or the Canadiens finish second in the Canadian division, and whether the Rangers or Blackhawks finish second in the United States group.

The three other league members—New York Americans, Ottawa Senators, and Boston Bruins—all have been eliminated in the race for the six playoff berths. The dates for the playoffs, as set today, follow:

SERIES A—Between first place teams of Canadian and American divisions, Detroit vs. Toronto, best three-out-of-five games, all contests played to a decision—first and second games at Toronto March 22 and 24; third and fourth games at Detroit March 26 and 28, fifth game, if necessary, on March 30, at Detroit.

SERIES B—Between second-place teams, home and home series, total goals to count, first game of three regular periods only, second to a decision: If Canadiens vs. Chicago, first game at Montreal, March 22, second at Chicago, March 25; if Canadiens vs. Rangers, first game at Montreal, March 22, second at New York, March 25; if Maroons vs. Chicago, first game at Chicago, March 21, second at Montreal, March 24; if Maroons vs. Rangers, first game at New York, March 22; second at Montreal, March 24.

Final Dates Not Set.

SERIES C—Between third place teams, home and home series, total goals to count, first game of regular three periods only, second game to decision; if Canadiens vs. Chicago, first game at Montreal, March 22, second in Chicago, March 25; if Canadiens vs. Rangers, first game at Montreal, March 22, second in New York, March 25; if Maroons vs. Chicago, first game in Montreal, March 21, second at Chicago, March 25; if Maroons vs. Rangers, first game at Montreal, March 21, second at New York, March 25.

SERIES D—Between survivors of series B and C, home and home series, total goals to count, first game of regular three periods, second to a decision: If Chicago vs. Rangers, first game at Chicago, March 27, second at New York, March 29; if Chicago vs. Canadiens, first game at Montreal, March 28, second at Chicago, March 31; if Rangers vs. Canadiens, first game at Montreal, March 27, second at New York, March 29; if Rangers vs. Maroons, first game at New York, March 27, second at Montreal, March 29; if Canadiens vs. Maroons, games at Montreal, March 27 and 29.

SERIES E—Between winners of series A and series D, best three out of five games for Stanley cup, all games to a decision. Dates and sites to be determined later.

HAWKS MEET MAROONS

Montreal, Que., March 12.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks arrived here this afternoon to play their last scheduled game of the 1933-'34 National Hocky league season against the Maroons tomorrow night.

Both teams are in desperate need of a victory. Montreal, with only two games remaining to play, is one game behind the second place Canadiens. A victory will put the Maroons in a tie with their intracity foes, who are idle Tuesday night.

The Blackhawks, with three games left, are only a half game behind the second place New York Rangers, who are almost a certainty to win from their Madison Square Garden rivals, the New York Americans, tomorrow. The Rangers also have three games left on their schedule.

It is likely that the Hawks and Maroons may stay right where they are in the league's standings, which means that they will oppose each other again next week in Montreal and Chicago when the Stanley cup playoffs open.

Tomorrow night's encounter will serve as a forerunner of the styles of hocky maneuvering Managers Gorman and Gerard will employ in an effort to reach the finals of the playoffs.

MEPHISTO AND KASABOSKI END TRAINING TODAY

'Average' Robin Makes 1934 Bow at Proper Time

BY BOB BECKER.

The "average" robin, which ordinarily arrives in our neighborhood on March 8, didn't disappoint us this year. He reported faithfully at the proper time, thus attesting to the worth of arrival records. Although we didn't see the bird on the date mentioned, he was observed by another member of our household. Over the week end this early spring robin was posing around the yard.

According to ornithologists who have been studying migration for many years, these early migrants of the spring are old birds returning to the localities where they nested the year before. The van in spring migration is composed chiefly of veterans who seek to find the old home grounds. There they elect to resume residence.

Because of this feature of migration, we can picture robins [and other migrating birds, too,] playing a sort of nationwide game of leap frog. The bold, hardy birds which push on ahead of the youngsters reach their destination and sit tight. Then comes another flight of birds, which "leap" over the early migrants to travel on northward.

In the spring we must have a new corps of migrants to make a northward forward movement from any given locality. However, nobody knows whether a given group of birds, after a night's rest, keeps in the van on succeeding nights, or rests and feeds for several days, allowing other groups to pass them.

It is known, however, that birds as a rule do not move as rapidly by day as by night during the migration season. During day migration the smaller land birds seldom fly faster than 20 miles an hour. Larger birds, such as wild geese and ducks, can maintain a faster pace.

A check was made one year on the purple martin. It was found these birds averaged 120 miles for each night of flying between New Orleans and Canada. The martins required about 12 nights to go from the Gulf of Mexico to a southern Canada lake. Some migrants, the kind which wait until the last minute before starting northward to their nesting grounds, make even greater distances at night.

SUPERABUNDANCE OF FINE WEATHER SLOWS DOWN SOX

Boys Lay Off to Avoid Overtraining.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 12.—The White Sox laid off today because of the superabundance of fine weather. As much as that loyal San Franciscan, Manager Lew Fonseca, hated to become a booster of southern California weather, his fear that the lads will overtrain prompted him to call the respite.

Fonseca and veteran members of his ensemble said they could not recall an instance of a practice being called off because of too much good weather. The whole procedure is considered worthy of a neat little chamber of commerce brochure—but it should be strictly a Pasadena enterprise, for Los Angeles and most other points have no right to horn in, what with those miserable fogs they've been having.

Back to the Mines, Boys.

Tomorrow the Sox will go back to work. Tomorrow and next day they will play the Los Angeles Angels in what was to have been the last engagement with minor league opposition. However, Manager Fonseca has just arranged a game with the Seattle team, in training at Santa Barbara. The contest will be played at Santa Barbara March 21.

This afternoon Owner Comiskey announced he had arranged exhibition games with the Pasadena Merchants for March 31 and April 1. This lifted the total of exhibition games to 26.

In tomorrow's game Fonseca will employ about the same help he used in yesterday's opener, excepting the pitchers. Gregory, Pomorski and Mills are scheduled to work tomorrow. In Wednesday's game Stine and Wyatt, who pitched Sunday, will pitch, with Nicholas slated to take a turn instead of Gallivan, who was knocked out Sunday before he could complete his three inning assignment.

Earnshaw Hurls Sunday.

Thursday and Friday there will be much bearing down by the first string pitchers in preparation for the games with the Cubs on Saturday and Sunday. Fonseca hasn't definitiy decided on his pitching selections for the Cub games, but Ed Durham, Joe Heving and Les Tietje probably will perform Saturday. On Sunday George Earnshaw will make his debut as a White Sox. Sam Jones and Ted Lyons also are slated to get into the Sabbath contest.

Fonseca said today he will do no experimenting in any of the Cub games. In each contest he will start what he considers his very best battle front, according to his present plans.

Pasek, who caught all of Sunday's game, continued to please his boss. Fonseca likes the kid's aggressiveness and said that in the one exhibition game Pasek put on more little tricks of his craft than White Sox catchers had shown him all last year.

Bonura Is Eyeful.

Zeke Bonura's work at first base was pleasing to those who had to watch Sox first basing in the last two months of last season. Zeke made 12 putouts and two assists, which isn't so remarkable for first base play in general, but vastly better than the painful performances last August and September when Fonseca couldn't dig up any one who could hold a thrown ball or pick up a grounder. Zeke's best batting effort was a line drive which hit near the top of the left field wall. The shot seemed to be gaining sped when it crashed into the barrier.

TWO CHICAGO TEAMS LOSE IN A. A. U. TOURNEY

Kansas City, March 12.—(AP)—The Tulsa Oilers, defending champions, advanced to the second round of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament tonight by defeating Sioux Falls, S. D., college, 52 to 12.

One of the tournament favorites, the Ogden, Utah, Boosters, overwhelmed the Household Finance team of Chicago, 44 to 21, in another first round game.

Led by Gibbons, formerly with the Wichita Henrys, the Boosters rushed into an 18 to 8 lead at the half and never let up. Rudman and Krall were the only Chicago players even to score from the field.

In a second round game, the White Eagles of Kansas City used their advantage in height to swamp the smaller Magic Chiefs of Harvey, Ill., 40 to 21. Scoring almost at will in the first half, the White Eagles held a lead of 20 to 1 at the half. In the second half the shorter Illinois players found the range for a few long field goals, but were unable to stop the White Eagles.

Tony Rock Wins Over Lawless in 8 Rounds

Albany, N. Y., March 12.—(AP)—Tony Rock, 147, Scranton, Pa., defeated Bucky Lawless, 156, Syracuse, tonight in the eight round final of the Nonpareil A. C. card. Although Lawless scored a knockdown in the seventh round, Rock's lead, piled up early in the match, was too much for the Syracuse lad to overcome.

Evanston Sextet Ties Holy Rosary in C. Y. O.

Evanston sprang a surprise in the C. Y. O. Hocky league last night when it held the second place Holy Rosary sextet to a 4 to 4 tie. Evanston has not won a league game this season. St. Anthony marred the perfect record of Central in the second game by holding the former league leaders to a 2 to 2 tie.

Ruth Starts 15th Season with Yankees

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth began training for his fifteenth season with the Yankees and his 21st in the major leagues before a crowd of 500 at Huggins field today.

Lou Gehrig, the other half of the famed Yankee hitting combination, also was in uniform for the first time and drew his share of attention, too.

Gray haired women and eager youngsters, old men and young, and fashionably dressed young women clustered about Babe and Lou. Cameras, both still and movie, recorded the event.

"I am glad to see you in such good condition," said Manager Joe McCarthy to the Babe. "I hope you'll play in 154 games this year and that you'll break all of your records."

"That 154 sounds like a lot of games for a fellow of my age—40 years," replied Ruth. "I'm aiming at 100. But whether it's 100 or 154, you'll get the best I have in every game I play."

GIANTS BEAT MACKS, 4 TO 3.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—With Outfielder Roger Cramer pitching for the Athletics, the New York Giants scored one run in the tenth inning today to beat the American league club 4 to 3. The victory was the world's champions' third in four games with the Athletics. Score:

Giants .....003 000 000 1—4 9 4
Athletics .....000 000 003 0—3 7 0
Batteries—Parmelee, Bowman, Shores, and Richards, Danning; Matuzak, Benton, Dietrich, Cramer, and Berry.

YANNIGANS, 12; CARDINALS, 3.

Bradenton, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinal Yannigans beat the regulars, 12 to 3, in six innings today in their first practice game. Manager Frankie Frisch led the second string men and was the only regular on the team, except the pitchers. The Frisch squad hit Tex Carleton for nine runs in the second inning.

Big 10 Stars to Compete in Armour Meet

Many track and field athletes who took part in the Big Ten meet at Chicago and the Central Intercollegiate meet at Notre Dame last week will compete Saturday night in the sixth annual Armour Tech relay carnival at the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Entries include Purdue, Wisconsin, Illinois, Northwestern, and Chicago among the Big Ten schools; Michigan State, winner of the team title at South Bend last week; Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Marquette, Michigan Normal, Illinois State Normal, De Pauw, Beloit, and Hillsdale.

The one mile relay team from the University of Pittsburgh, which scored a victory over Big Ten teams in that event at the Armour games last year, will defend its honors. Kigu, Keller, Groat, and Connelly covered the mile in 3:24.2 to win the Central Intercollegiate relay.

In the two mile university relay, Michigan State, last years' winner, has Pongrace and Warren, who took first and second place in the Central 880 yard run, to assure strong showing. Illinois State Normal, first in both the one and two mile relays for colleges a year ago, will have teams in both events Saturday night.

Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, in the 70 yard dash; Jackson, Michigan State hurdler; Lowry of Michigan Normal in the pole vault, and Davis of Hillsdale in the shot put are the Central Intercollegiate champions who will push Big Ten stars in the individual events.

In the Wake of the News

EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 12.—Friend Arch: Well, Arch, I'm sort of worried and I'm afraid it will affect all the hard work I'm trying to do for you unless we talk it over. It's about my Carnera-Loughran fight expense account.

Do you suppose you could O. K. a charge of about ten smackers for "Don't Know Where?" In checking over my cash, which I kept separately for that occasion, after itemizing everything I can remember I'm still $17.35 short. One always expects to be a little loser on an expense account, but $17.35 is rather too much, especially since the horses and dogs seem reluctant to have their breed improved profitably.

You may wonder if I didn't just spend this extra money personally, but I didn't, because what could I spend it for? Contraband, of course, is the first thought. But the doc only lets me have one a day, so it couldn't be that. Probably some went for gas on the car I rented to drive back and forth, and I forgot to jot it down, but anyway, it's gone, and I "don't know where."

You said that if I ran behind I could charge a night's lodging at Miami Beach, but that isn't so good. That fellow in the auditing department undoubtedly reads the paper, and I've told how you couldn't get accommodations at Miami or Miami Beach, so how could I pay for them if I couldn't get them, and anyway, how could I get a hotel receipt? I thought some of a receipt of $10 from Mrs. Wake for room, but that would look sort of phoney, too. Of course, one pays much more than that for room and board to one's family, but it's not paid on that basis.

Then I thought of charging it either to Advertising or Promotion. You remember that story I wrote soon after arrival about Florida conditions? Well, the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce took portions of it and ran it as a paid advertisment in the Miami Herald, giving full credit to THE TRIBUNE and The Wake. That was advertising for us, all right, but if I charged it that way it probably would be referred to Hill Donohue, our advertising manager, and he'd be pretty sure to squawk.

If I charged it to Promotion it would go either to Louis Rose of Circulation or Jerry Byrne. Louis has been so nice about my getting final editions down here so I could keep posted on those wonderful Golden Gloves bouts that I don't like to disturb him. So you see I was terribly perplexed and quite upset about the whole matter. Then I thought of "Don't Remember Where," which is the truth, and would clear up the situation.

Perhaps there would be an argument with the auditing department, but it's not further afield than the "Good Will" and "Experience" items I once scheduled from the Kentucky Derby at Louisville and finally obtained through your intercession. Please let me know what you think and I'll turn in my statement, which won't be as heavy as you might think because I told you I'd be careful and the paper certainly gets a break by my not having to charge hotel rooms.

I did have to take out fire and theft and liability insurance on the car I rented because it was not insured but I have my receipt for that. Insurance is very necessary because the world's worst drivers, both state and tourist, are here this winter. I never saw so many drivers who don't believe in signs. They turn off the road right in front of you without any warning signal or they drive right into the arterial highways without looking to see if there are cars coming. Looks as if some of them were not accustomed to much traffic here or in their home towns.

I thought some of covering for you the final day of that four ball golf tournament at Coral Gables, but I would have had to rent a car again. You might think I could use the family car, but, of course, one can get that only if other members of The Wake ménage have no use for it, and that's not often. You know yourself how it is with the family bus.

And I was worried enough already about the fight expense account, so I thought I better not run up any more expense until I heard from you as I knew our routine press service would cover the event anyway.

This year's Golden Gloves tourney must be a wow! I'm mighty sorry to miss the bouts, but I couldn't cover the Florida Derby and get back in time, and I knew you'd want me to cover the Derby, which is next Saturday. Anyway, I congratulate you, and Wilfrid Smith, and French Lane on their success.

I wonder if French Lane played that good thing at Hialeah that Jack Fitzgerald of the New York Morntelly sent him to bet on sure. I hope so because it paid over $80 for $2. Jack didn't play it himself because he decided to wait until it was "ripe" on its second start but it was ripe on its first out. I've met a lot more Illinois people down here but I'll tell you about them in my next. Regards.

Harvey T. Woodruff.

P. S. Please tell Dorothy Stone I received my March 1 pay check O. K. and many thanks. Also it'll be appreciated if she sends the March 15 one just as soon as she gets it from the paymaster.

Gallivan Is Nomad Up for One More Try

Spring training in a major league camp is assuredly no novelty to Philip Joseph [Phil] Gallivan, White Sox pitching candidate.

Phil has been around in his baseball travels. He was up twice with Brooklyn and with the White Sox for a brief period late in 1932. Thus failure this time means he must be released outright.

A right-hander, 6 feet tall and weighing 190 pounds, Gallivan was born in Seattle, Wash., May 29, 1907, of Irish-American parents. He bats right handed. His hair is brown, his eyes gray and he's married. Leaving prep schools in St. Paul he entered St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn. He pitched there as a freshman before quitting in his sophomore year to hire out in professional baseball with Tulsa in 1926, but that club soon gave him outright release.

He's a Nomad.

He then roamed as follows: 1926, with Enid; 1927, Tulsa and Waco; 1928, Waco, Texarkana and Waco; 1929, Fort Worth, Spartanburg and Macon; 1930, Macon and Brooklyn, 1931, Brooklyn and Hartford; 1932, Jersey City, Hartford and Chicago White Sox; 1933, Buffalo.

Under the management of Ray Schalk at Buffalo last season Phil pitched a total of 256 innings in 52 games. He achieved 17 victories against 11 defeats with a team that did not find itself until late in the campaign. He walked 101 men and fanned 114. Of the 16 complete games he worked, two were shutouts.

Pitching for the White Sox in his American league start late in 1932 against the Philadelphia Athletics, Gallivan found himself in a bit of a jam. The bases were filled with no one out in both of the first and third innings. In each case the batters coming up were Al Simmons, Jimmy Foxx and Eric McNair. On both occasions Gallivan struck out Simmons and Foxx while McNair was retired by the Sox defense.

One for the Books.

Early in July, 1929, he was pitching for the Spartanburg club of the South Atlantic league, managed by Mike Kelly, now a coach for the Chicago Cubs. They were playing Macon and in the fourth inning Escalfier, a Macon outfielder, stole home as Gallivan was winding up. Manager Kelly went into a rage and so did Phil. Ten minutes later and Gallivan was out of a job. That night he signed to pitch for Macon, managed by Tom Rogers, who asked Phil if he'd like to work the next afternoon against his former teammates.

Nowack Loses Line Coach Job at Indiana U.

A. J. [Butch] Nowack, who became head line coach at Indiana under E. C. Hayes in 1931, announced after conferring with McMillin that he was out of a job. McMillin said he expected to have an announcement soon regarding the appointment of Nowack's successor. Nowack, a former tackle at the University of Illinois, said he is considering several offers.

Nowack played on the Illinois team which was recognized as the national champion in 1927 and was captain of the Big Ten championship eleven of 1928. He was co-captain of the all-eastern team which defeated the western team, 19 to 0, in California, in 1928.

Fifty players, more than the number which reported regularly for fall practice, turned out for drill today. Fifteen lettermen were on hand.

Bubbles Hargrave Signs as Cedar Rapids Manager

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 12.—[Special.]—Eugene [Bubbles] Hargrave, St. Paul, Minn., former catcher with the Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees, and in 1929 manager of the St. Paul club of the American association, signed today to manage the Cedar Rapids club in the Western league, according to President Harry S. Johnson. Hargrave expects to be a playing manager.

BOBBY JONES? O, JUST AN 8-1 SHOT IN GOLF TOURNEY

Will Have Trouble Winning, Says Horton Smith

Atlanta, Ga., March 12.—(AP)—Horton Smith, the last golfer to beat Bobby Jones, figures Jones is no better than an 8 to 1 shot to win the masters' tournament in his comeback at Augusta March 22 to 25. There will be 72 holes of medal play.

Smith doubts if the grand slam king of 1930 will hold the same psychological grip over the profession as he was popularly believed to have held in his former competitive days.

"Frankly, I know that Jones' presence will have no effect on my game," said the young Oak Park, Ill., professional who beat Bobby by a stroke in the Savannah open of February, 1930.

"I believe it will make me play better, if anything. I won't worry about Bob. I'll just play my own game and never think about the other fellow.

Likes Runyan's Chances.

"Of course, I can't speak authoritatively for all the professionals, but I honestly believe most of them will regard Jones as just another great golfer—not an invincible one—and will fire away with the idea that their chances to win are about as good as his," Smith explained.

Because Paul Runyan, the White Plains, N. Y., pro, has played the most consistent golf during the winter tour, Horton feels he likely will be the professionals' strongest threat against Jones. "Runyan and Jones should be listed together at 3 to 1, with Denny Shute, who is playing a fine game now, at 9 to 1, and a dozen pros, perhaps even including me, at 10 to 1."

He doesn't expect Jones and Runyan to make a two-man race of it, but thinks that any one of a dozen players can and may win.

How About Mental Strain?

"Mechanically, Jones is hitting the ball as well as ever," Smith said. "But the mental strain will be heavy. It may be hard for him to get back his perfect concentration. He will be filled with anxiety. I have found that after a layoff, sometimes you return with ambition that enables you to play better than ever and other times the anxiousness works against your game.

"Also, the pace is faster than in the days Jones played. I believe the leading professionals are 25 per cent improved. There are more good pros now and the boys at the top just naturally have to shoot lower scores to get in the money."

A number of younger stars have come along in the last four years who have never played against Jones and some of them are confident enough not to have any fear of Bobby. Runyan is one.

MANY CORPORATE BONDS MAKE NEW HIGHS FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Domestic corporation issues led the advance in the listed bond market today, many moving into new high ground for the year in active dealings. Foreign loans were irregularly higher and United States government bonds generally lower. In the corporate issues the industrials showed the best average gains, with the utilities and rails next in order.

Transfers totaled $15,538,000, par value, against $14,986,000 last Friday. Dealers pointed out that institutions and many individuals were finding it difficult to get profitable work for idle funds in ordinary channels and, consequently, some renewed interest was being displayed in the various bond groups.

Alleghany Issues Soar.

A long list of the domestic corporation issues mounted 1 to more than 6 points on the day. The heavily traded Alleghany corporation 5s, due 1950, jumped 6¾ points, with other issues of the corporation strong on the news of the filing of an amended statement with the federal trade commission relating to default status of Van Sweringen properties.

Othe ractive issues included American and Foreign Power 5s, due 2030, up 1⅞; Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 5s, up ¼; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 5s, due 1975, up 1, and the road's adjustment 5s up ½; Chicago and North Western 4¾s, due 1949, up ⅞; Interborough refunding 5s, due 1966, off ¼; National Steel 5s, due 1956, up ¼; United States Rubber 5s, due 1947, up 1¼, and Western Pacific first 5s, due 1946, up 2¼ points.

Foreign Bonds Irregular.

In the foreigns the best strength was displayed by bonds of the Austrian group and Kingdom of Belgium loans. German bonds were generally lower in anticipation of the difficulties at the German debt conference to be held next month. Latin American loans were generally steady, except Argentine government issues, which sold off fractionally to more than a point.

United States government bonds closed down 10-32 to up 6-32 point in active trading.

Many domestic issues rose 1 to 5 points on the Curb exchange as foreign loans moved generally lower.

New England Mutual Life.

Investors' Guide: I am contemplating taking out some life insurance. My first consideration is to place it with a most reliable and stable company. Would you please give me information on New England Mutual Life?—B. E.

Answer: New England Mutual Life Insurance company was established in 1835. It did not begin operations, however, until 1843 as a result of a general financial depression existing during the interim. It is purely mutual.

Insurance in force showed healthy increases through 1931, reaching a peak of 1,308 million dollars at the close of that year. In common with the general experience of all life insurance companies, this figure has decreased slightly during the last two years. It stood at 1,280 million dollars at the close of 1932 and 1,250 million dollars on Dec. 31, 1933. Insurance in force in all companies dropped about 5 per cent in 1933, but New England Mutual's was down only 2.35 per cent.

Income continues well in excess of disbursements, and this without having to sell any securities or to borrow money. Income totaled $63,124,000 in 1933 and disbursements were $50,527,000. The company earned 5.11 per cent on invested assets in 1933, approximately the same as in 1932. Mortality experience was 63.39 per cent of the actuarial rate, a one per cent improvement over 1932.

Assets at the close of 1933 aggregated $288,335,000. Cash was $7,574,000 [2.71 per cent]; government, state, and municipal bonds, $31,196,000 [11.14 per cent]; railroad bonds, $46,845,000 [17.20 per cent]; utility bonds, $45,063,000 [16.11 per cent]; stocks, $2,486,000 [1.29 per cent]; real estate, $11,901,000 [4.24 per cent]; mortgage loans, $59,664,000 [21.26 per cent], and policy loans, $62,246,000 [22.18 per cent].

Surplus over all liabilities to policyholders was $16,400,000 on Dec. 31, 1933.

Seton Leather.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly express your opinion on Seton Leather?—V. D. L.

Answer: This small manufacturer of patent leather and other special leathers experienced a sharp upturn in business as a result of increasing sales and higher prices. On Jan. 25, 1934, Joseph Kaltenbacher, president, announced that business for January would be about 75 per cent ahead of January, 1933.

Net income for 1933 was $47,000, or 48 cents per share, against loss of $115,000 for 1932 and net income of $10,000, or 10 cents per share, for 1931. Net income in 1930 was $78,000, against $220,000 for 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets amounted to $588,000 and current liabilities were $29,000. Capitalization consists of 98,000 shares of no par stock, on which nothing has been paid since Nov. 2, 1931.

Prof. Bell Points to Future Dangers.

BY JAMES WASHINGTON BELL
[Professor of Money and Banking, Northwestern University.]

A year ago the bankers of the country were anxiously discussing steps to be taken to stem the financial panic which had culminated in the historic national bank moratorium. Even the present uncertainty of the status of the dollar and the lack of understanding as to the meaning of our "modified gold standard" stands out in marked contrast to the fear and hysteria that brought the financial paralysis of March, 1933.

PROF. J. W. BELL.
[Eugene L. Bay Studio.]

In retrospect most of us would agree that the financial condition of the country is sounder now than it was then.

It is important, however, to call attention to the dangers of further debasement of the currency and to unsound monetary proposals which may store up unnecessary trouble for us in the future. Not a month has passed since the Roosevelt administration took office which has not been marked by some profoundly important development in the nation's monetary policies.

Changes Come Swiftly.

The proclamation closing all banks [March 6] was followed by the emergency banking act [March 9] with its ingenious provisions for conserving the country's gold reserves, issuing "asset currency" [federal reserve bank notes], strengthening the liquidity and capital of sound banks to be reopened under license [March 13-15]. These devices did much to restore confidence in our currency and banks [and prepared the way for a renewed effort to expand credit and increase purchasing power].

By abandoning the gold standard [April 5] and voiding all gold contracts [June 5] the administration cut loose our currency and credit from the gold base and prepared the way for the policy of price raising [and of reducing the debt burden] by means of monetary control. The permissive devices by which this might be attempted were enumerated in the Thomas "inflation amendment" to the agricultural relief act [May 12], devices which contemplated increases in federal reserve credit, "greenbacks," devaluation of the gold dollar, and coinage of silver.

Monetary Policy Isolated.

By repudiating proposals for international stabilization of currencies [July 3, 5] the administration isolated our domestic monetary policy and prompted an immediate rise of prices in the speculative markets. With the failure of the expected inflation to materialize [also due to NRA costs] a period of uncertainty ensued. Despite the inflationary provisions of the Thomas amendment, the great expansion of reserve credit and the vast program of government expenditure the dollar resisted further depreciation until at last, in order to attain this end, the government proceded to discredit its own currency.

A new stimulus was introduced after Oct. 22, when President Roosevelt announced a gold buying policy which was calculated to raise prices by depreciating the value of the dollar. Apparently as a result of the demands for a return to the gold standard dollar with a reasonable stability [uncertainty still surrounding the management of the paper dollar] the President [Jan. 15] requested legislation permitting the appropriation by the government of the gold reserve in the federal reserve banks, the devaluation of the gold dollar to a compromise range of 50-60 per cent of its former content, and the establishment of a 2 billion dollar stabilization fund out of the "profits" of devaluation to be administered by the secretary of the treasury [Jan. 30].

Dollar Finally Revalued.

On Jan. 31 by proclamation the dollar was revalued at $.5906, or 15 5-21 grains of gold 9-10 fine, instead of 25.8 grains 9-10 fine. On this basis gold is worth $35 per ounce, compared to $20.67. [n the words of the secretary of the treasury we are now on "a modified international gold bullion standard."]

Thus within the year we have deserted the old gold standard and have adopted a new model gold dollar which is subject to fluctuations so far as its gold content and foreign exchange value is concerned with a ten point [20 per cent] range from 50 to 60 cents.

The wisdom of going off the gold standard will be debated by students of monetary policies throughout this generation and in generations to follow. It is a question, however, which can never be answered, since it involves public psychology rather than purely economic principles.

Opposing Views Presented.

There are two sides to this debate. On the one hand there are those who maintain that it was necessary, since at the old parity the country's balance of payments [on trade and debt account] was strongly in its favor; its gold holdings were the largest in the world and impregnable against external attacks; confidence in our banks and in our currency had been largely restored; and there was some assurance that our government finances would be prudently handled.

On the other hand, there are those who have confidence in the ability of the government to raise prices and lighten the debt burden through monetary means, and who maintain that all

Bank Deposits Rise, but Loans Show Decline

Bank deposits soared sharply last week, reserve member banks in 91 principal clearing house cities reporting a combined increase of 116 million dollars in demand deposits, in addition to a combined increase of 7 millions in time deposits and a combined increase of 37 million dollars in deposits by the federal government. These increases are for the week ended March 7 and were released yesterday by the Federal Reserve bank.

The reporting banks, however, were not lending and investing the flood of money coming to them in deposits. Loans actually decreased 17 million dollars, an eight million dollar increase in commercial loans being more than offset by a drop of 25 millions in loans on security collateral.

Credit to Government.

By far the biggest bulge in bank credit for the week again was in the direction of credit extended the federal government. The reporting banks increased their purchases of United States government securities 29 millions for the week to a total on March 7 of 6 billion. 278 million dollars. These figures apply only to the banks in 91 principal cities.

Investments by these banks in securities other than U. S. government bonds increased 13 million dollars for the week.

The net increase in the amount of outstanding credit of these reporting banks was 25 millions for the week. The same banks showed an indicated increase of gross deposits of about ten times that amount.

Excess Reserves Soar.

As a result of the continued increase in bank deposits the excess reserves carried by these banks with the federal reserve system soared 196 million dollars in the week.

INT. NICKEL HAS PROFIT IN 1933; SALES INCREASE

International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., earned net profit in the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, of $3,551,653, equal after preferred dividends to 53 cents a share on common stock, according to the company's annual report, mailed yesterday to stockholders. The profit was exclusive of exchange adjustments and profit therefrom of $1,739,617, and compares with net loss of $135,345 in 1932 which included exchange losses.

Net operating profit was $14,219,988, against $3,363,400 in 1932, while earned surplus rose from $14,688,560 at the close of 1932 to $22,767,570 on Dec. 31, last. Cash and securities increased from $5,793,100 to $15,616,012. Total current assets were carried at $40,318,040 and current liabilities at $5,021,711, against $28,870,854 and $3,012,483 at the end of the preceding year.

Robert C. Stanley, president, who signed the report, pointed out that beginning with the second quarter of 1933 profits have been realized each month and improvement was well spread among all consuming fields.

"Our sales of nickel during the year in all forms amounted to 74,356,969 pounds, compared with 34,406,953 in 1932, an increase of 116 per cent," he said. "World consumption of the metal aggregated 96,000,000 pounds, against 57,000,000 a year earlier.

Mr. Stanley said the betterment in the automotive field was the most important factor in the recovery of the nickel market.

North Shore Reports 95 Pct. of Trains on Time in 1933

John R. Blackhall, manager for the receivers of the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, announced yesterday that 95 per cent of the 72,214 trains operated in regular service during 1933 reached their destinations on time. During the four months from May to August inclusive, when travel to A Century of Progress was heaviest, the service on the line was maintained better than 97 per cent on time, Mr. Blackhall said.

Gold Purchase Since Feb. 1 Is Over ½ Billion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Purchases of gold by the treasury from Feb. 1, when devaluation of the dollar was proclaimed to March 9, have amounted to $593,069,609, the treasury announced today. This includes newly mined and imported gold, by far the greater part of it falling in the latter category, and was taken over at the new quoted gold price of $35 an ounce.

In addition, gold purchased at home and abroad by the RFC for the treasury from Oct. 25, when the President's gold purchase policy went into effect, until Jan. 15, aggregated $132,000,000 and purchases through the federal reserve bank of New York, from Jan. 15 to Feb. 1, $55,000,000. These were made at slightly less than $35 an ounce, but the effect has been to increase the monetary gold stocks since Oct. 25, by roughly $750,000,000.

Gold Flow Diminishes.

Treasury figures show that recently there has been a sharp tapering off in the amount of gold received in response to the treasury's offer to buy all shipped here for $35 an ounce, this being due to readjustments in the price of gold on the markets abroad which narrowed the profit to be made by selling it to the United States government. During the week ended March 2, the gold taken over was valued at $159,733,052, and for the week ended March 9 this item had dropped to $73,841,306. Latest reports, the treasury said, are of a continuing decline in the offerings from abroad.

Such a situation has been created without use being made of the two billion dollar stabilization fund set up out of profit of approximately $2,800,000,000 on gold accruing to the government as a result of dollar devaluation. In fact none of the gold profit has been touched and final adjustment when the gold is deposited with the federal reserve bank is being effected by issuing gold certificates against free gold in the treasury.

Accepts What Shows Up.

Up to this time in carrying out its program to take all gold offered at $35 an ounce the government has not actually gone into the foreign markets to make purchases, but has simply accepted that which has been turned in at the mints and assay offices.

The treasury also announced today that $26,466,288 in gold coin and $46,698,290 in gold certificates had been turned in at the federal reserve banks up to March 7 under the secretary's order of Dec. 28 aimed at gold hoarders, and $238,749 in gold coin and $1,303,800 in gold certificates at the United States treasurer's offices.

Total receipts of silver to March 9 under the offer to buy newly mined metal at 64½ cents have totaled 1,544,314.14 ounces.

Bar Silver Price Rises to 46¾c, Four Year High

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—The price of bar silver rose ½ cent an ounce today to 46¾ cents, equalling the peak price of the last four years established on Feb. 19. At the same time silver futures advanced to the best level of the last two weeks. Introduction of the administration's silver purchase bill was responsible for the upturn.

NEW TIRE PRICE WAR FLARES IN EAST OVER DISCOUNT ALLOWANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—A tire price war has broken out again in the eastern part of the country and manufacturers say that the cause again is the large discount allowances made by some sellers on old tires turned in on new purchases. These, it is reported, run as high as 40 per cent where the competition is the keenest. The competition is strongest in Newark and parts of New York state.

About a year ago trade-in allowances on old tires started a price struggle which reached its most acute stage in Chicago.

Near the end of January this year manufacturers were understood to have informed dealers that competitive situations would have to be met as they arose, although they were not in favor of price cutting activities. It was said at that time that some of the companies offered to absorb a part of the trade-in costs. In some instances these were reported to have been as much as 17½ per cent of the cuts.

Reports from Akron, O., were that price slashing was spreading throughout the county and that the problem would be placed before NRA officials.

INDUSTRY NEEDS LOAN BANKS, SAYS RESERVE CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—A survey of credit conditions indicates the need for the establishment of the proposed intermediate credit banks for industry, Gov. Eugene R. Black of the federal reserve board said today. Proposed legislation for a bank in each of the twelve federal reserve districts, under the supervision of the federal reserve system, which would make loans up to five years maturity, chiefly to the smaller industries, has been partly drafted.

Final decision whether the proposal shall be put into effect is still to be made and further conferences will be held by federal reserve and treasury officials. Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury department conferred today with Gov. Black, presumably on the subject, but would not comment.

SENATE PASSES BILL EXTENDING BANK GUARANTY

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Legislation to extend the temporary bank deposit insurance law until July, 1935, was passed today by the senate and sent to the house with administration approval.

The senate acted without debate only a few hours after the bill had been approved by the banking committee on the recommendation of a subcommittee headed by Senator Glass [Dem., Va.].

The banking committee also approved the administration measure to guarantee the principal as well as interest of the $2,000,000,000 of home loan bonds authorized to refinance small home mortgages.

Altered Statement Ends Van Sweringen "Default"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—The protective committee for holders of St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway company river and gulf divisions first mortgage 4 per cent bonds has filed an amendment to its registration statement under the securities act, explaining that since the preparation of the original registration statement the interest payment date had been formally deferred and the Van Sweringens were not in default on $40,000,000 loans.

Dollar Again Drops Against Franc, Pound

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Foreign exchanges displayed renewed strength against the dollar today. Sterling rose 2¼ cents to $5.10¼, a level at which the British exchange equalization fund is believed recently to have intervened to restrain a further rise. The franc went as high as 6.59 cents and closed up ½ point at 6.58½ cents. Based on the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 59.49 per cent of its former parity compared with 59.54 per cent on Saturday.

The spread in the gold price between London and the United States remained about the same as on Saturday, with gold selling today in London at 136 shillings 10 pence an ounce, which, based on a price of $5.07¼ for sterling, was the equivalent of $34.70 a fine ounce.

Canadian Dollar Regains Par.

The Canadian dollar rose to par for the first time since Jan. 4, and all other imports currencies were steady or dearer in terms of the dollar.

The rise in the Canadian dollar was attributed to purchases of Canadian exchange by liquor importers as a result of the recent decision of the government to lift restrictions on liquor importations. Exchange purchases in connection with preparations for increased liquor imports may also have influenced the pound sterling but were not so important a factor there.

The rise in sterling resulted in still further narrowing the small margin of profit available on purchases of gold in London. Small purchases there continue to be made, according to foreign exchange experts, and as much as $25,000,000 is reported scheduled to be sent here or already on the way. Shipments from Paris have entirely ceased, however, and the movement out of London is greatly reduced from the levels of a few weeks ago.

More Gold Coming In.

Imports of $1,466,000 from England were reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, making a total of $550,507,100 of gold imports reported since Feb. 1, and a total net gain in gold during that period of $512,031,100. The imports reported today were part of a shipment of about $2,000,000 which came in on the Berlin. The Paris, due tomorrow, is reported to be carrying $3,850,000 gold and the Majestic, also due tomorrow, has on board a substantial sum. About $7,000,000 is due on the President Harding on Friday.

MILWAUKEE ROAD MARKS 50 YEARS CARRYING MAILS

Officials of the Milwaukee railroad yesterday commemorated the company's 50 years' service as the official carrier of United States mail between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis. A train steamed out of Union station at 2 a. m., just half a century to the hour since the road carried its first load of mail to the Twin Cities.

Records in the office of Carl F. Rank, manager of mail traffic for the railroad, revealed that in 1884 the postmaster general made an agreement with the Milwaukee road for the opration of a fast mail train to the Twin Cities carrying mail destined for Alaska and northwest states and territories.

Questioned as to when the service would begin, officials of the road answered "tomorrow morning," and at 2 o'clock the next morning, March 13, 1884, the mail train steamed out of the Chicago yards.

STOCKS SHAKE OFF LETHARGY IN BRISK RALLY

Traders Expect Less Drastic Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—The drowsing trading community was brought out of its lethargy by an impressive advance in stock prices in the late trading today. In the first worthwhile movement for the rise in two weeks leading shares snapped out of a narrow trading range for advances of fractions to about 2 points.

The rise brought an encouraging expansion in trading volume, the turnover for the day spurting above 1,288,000 shares. The pace of the advance fell off as the last half hour was turned, but under the impetus of quiet buying prices held around the best levels of the day. In the van were mail order, motor, steel and utility equities, with rails also making a good showing.

In the absence of other influencing developments in the day's news the upturn was attributed chiefly to the growing conviction that the Fletcher-Rayburn bill for stock market regulation will undergo considerable revision.

Silver Plan Influences.

Another condition pointed to as explaining the turn was the rebirth of agitation for new silver legislation, with the silver block already having a measure of success in obtaining federal aid in their efforts for rehabilitation of the white metal. The movement once more stirred up inflation talk.

Meanwhile, trade news remained favorable. Strike threats blighted the picture for the automobile industry, but shareholders of General Motors, however, received the compensating assurance from President Sloan that the dividend of 25 cents a share will be "fully earned" in the first quarter.

Advancing 1¾ net, Montgomery Ward was a feature of the late rise. While the stock had the advantage of sales improvement it was debatable whether or not the battle for proxies at the annual meeting on April 27 had reached the open market.

Interest Shifts from Metals.

Interest shifted from the metals, which ruled Saturday's market, to the utilities and two or three speculative industrials. Silvers were inclined to ease slightly but gold shares climbed a bit, Homestake reaching the best price of the year at 360. Firmness in the coppers may have been due in some measure to activities of senators and congressmen from the copper states toward persuading the government to use as much copper as possible in federal buildings.

Among the utilities there was a suggestion of covering in American Telephone, which finished up almost 3 points. On March 15 the stock goes "ex dividend," and it is the usual practice of traders to cover their short sales rather than pay the dividend.

President Roosevelt's order grounding army mail planes was interpreted as bringing a return of the mail business to private planes a step nearer and consequently stocks of aviation companies were well backed.

DU PONT BONUS PLAN IS O.K.'D BY STOCKHOLDERS

Wilmington, Del., March 12.—(AP)—The stockholders of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. in annual meeting today approved the company's thirty year bonus plan as it has been administered heretofore and sanctioned some changes recommended by the board of directors, made necessary because of requirements of the new national securities act.

The directors were reëlected. Henry Belin du Pont was added to the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William Coyne.

The stockholders approved the retirement of 17,387 shares of voting debenture stock, all of which is in the treasury of the company. The shares are the last of an authorized issue of 100,000 and as a result of their retirement it was voted to reduce the company's capital stock by $10,000,000 which this authorized issue represented.

Pullman Reports January Profit; Had Loss Year Ago

Operations of the Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., in January resulted in a net profit of $315,744, compared with a deficit of $119,419 in the same month of 1933. January gross was $3,722,196, compared with $3,208,480 in January, 1933.

Jones Doubts Safe Loans Are Hard to Find

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Many safe loans to industry to aid the recovery program could be made by the banks if the institutions would take the necessary steps to "whip them into shape," Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, stated today in a letter to the American Banker. He denied, however, that his corporation was making a list of banks which had failed to coöperate in such a movement. The letter, made public today by Mr. Jones, read:

"My attention has been called to an article on the front page of your March 1 issue, reading as follows: 'The Reconstruction Finance corporation has indicated that it is making a list of such banks as have shown an unwillingness to make loans on reasonable security for the aid of industry and business. This has been admitted by Chairman Jesse Jones, it is learned.'"

Brands Article Incorrect.

"This article, in so far as it applies to the Reconstruction Finance corporation or to myself, is entirely incorrect and without the slightest foundation. The directors of the RFC are making no such list, nor have they ever even considered such an idea.

"I have encouraged banks to lend to industry where safe loans could be made and have insisted that many such loans could be made if the banks would take the necessary trouble to whip them into shape.

"The effort of the RFC with regard to banks is, and has been, to safeguard bank deposits and to make it possible for all banks to lend in the ordinary way in financing agriculture, business and industry."

Mr. Jones said the RFC was continuing its campaign to strengthen the capital structure of banks throughout the country and to date had authorized purchase of preferred stock, capital notes or debentures aggregating $1,029,100,000 in 6,261 banks.

Plans to Buy More Stock.

Of these authorizations, $497,000,000 already has been disbursed to 2,075 banks, and it is expected to complete the remaining purchases and others which may be authorized, within the next three months. The corporation also has new authorized loans totaling $686,000,000 to 2,115 closed or restricted banks for the purpose of speeding up dividend payments to depositors.

As to the financial status of the RFC, Mr. Jones said that repayments had increased materially recently, and had aggregated $195,800,000 since Jan. 1. These receipts had averaged about $20,000,000 weekly.

STEEL INSTITUTE REPORTS LOWER PLANT OPERATION

New York, March 12.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute today estimated the current steel production rate at 46.2 per cent of capacity, off 1.5 points from a week ago.

This was the first decline since the week of Jan. 22, when the nation-wide average was 32.5 per cent. Last week's 47.7 per cent level was the highest in several months.

Calumet Output Rises.

Hammond, Ind., March 12.—(AP)—Steel production in the Calumet district reached 52 per cent of capacity last week, the highest since August of 1933.

Greene Will Be Elected Director of Atlas Tack

Arthur Greene, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers company, who recently purchased Philip H. No change in the present management or policies will be made, he said.

STOCK CONTROL 'EXPERTS' SPLIT OVER PROGRAM

Roosevelt Desires Strong Bill.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—An undercover dispute tonight split the technical experts who are revising the stock exchange bill with Ferdinand Pecora and his associates composing one faction objecting to relaxations in the measure's minimum margin requirements otherwise agreed upon.

Over the week-end others of the bill's authors wrote into it a substitute provision that would permit margins as low as 25 per cent in some cases. The original measure, written by Pecora, Thomas Corcoran, youthful counsel for the Reconstruction corporation, and James Landis of the federal trade commission proposed a 60 per cent minimum.

President Wants Strong Bill.

Meanwhile, it was learned, an unofficial representative of President Roosevelt has been participating in the conferences. His name was not disclosed. His function has been to keep the chief executive advised of developments. The White House today sent definite word the President wants a "strong" bill.

Word spread, too, that the federal reserve board was represented in the week-end conferences on the measure. An important phase of the general controversy over the measure is whether control of speculative credit shall continue to rest with the reserve system or be given over to the federal trade commission which would administer the measure.

The senate banking committee today closed its hearings on the bill and prepared to take it up in executive session as soon as the experts have agreed upon a revised draft. This, the latter indicated, could not be expected before Wednesday or Thursday.

Exchange Reports on Finances.

The New York stock exchange in answer to a subpena, submitted today to the committee a statement of the finances of the exchange together with those of its affiliated and subsidiary organizations, never hitherto made public and not even circulated among members of the exchange.

Its importance was emphasized by Roland Redmond, exchange counsel, in a plea to Pecora that it be kept in strictest confidence. Publication, he said, would "threaten the financial life of many men in business for years to come." Nevertheless, Pecora strongly indicated its contents eventually would be given to the press, after he and his associates have studied them.

In addition the exchange submitted a list of all transactions in United Aircraft between Dec. 1 and the time of the annullment of air mail contracts. This revealed that the market in that stock for that period consisted of an effort by those holding its shares to unload them. Although there were some out and out short sales, they were comparatively few.

Sold on Loan Account.

This disclosed the block of 4,500 shares sold by J. P. Morgan & Co. was on a loan account to Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank. A letter from the Morgan house asserted "this firm made no purchases or sales for its own account."

Pecora read the Morgan letter saying that "any suggestion" it had advance information on calcellation of

Roosevelt Indicates He Wants Strong Bill.

Pecora and his associates of the investigation had yielded to demands for a modification of the original bill's margin requirements to the point of approving a formula whereby 60 per cent margin would be required when a purchase of stock is made, but with a proviso that there should thereafter be no compulsory liquidation of the account until the margin had been reduced by a falling market to 40 per cent.

The original bill specified that loans on stocks should not exceed 40 per cent of their market value, with the alternative of making their loan value 80 per cent of the lowest price the stock had reached in three years, whichever the customer chose.

Fixes Maximum Values.

The substitute placed before Pecora would fix maximum loan values at 100 per cent of the lowest price at which the stock purchased had reached since July 1, 1933, but not more than 75 per cent of current market value. Later the maximum loan value would be 100 per cent of the lowest price in three years, with an arrangement whereby a greater margin would be required on the more volatile stocks.

This device, its proponents argued, would prevent heavy liquidation and harmful deflation.

Pecora thought the formula much too complicated and said he would seek to find one that would be much more simple. It involved, also, he said, a radical departure from the measure as originally drafted.

The committee counsel was of the opinion that there were good arguments both for and against giving credit control to the federal trade commission as the original bill proposed. This should rest, from one point of view, he said, with the body charged with administering the stock market bill. However, he conceded that it might be inadvisable to divide general control of the nation's credit machinery between the reserve system and the trade commission.

Propose More Members.

Another change proposed, and one to which Pecora had no objections, was that the membership of the trade commission be increased by two, the new appointees being chosen from the point of view of their knowledge of the stock exchange and administration under the measure virtually assigned to them.

Secretary Morgenthau told newspaper men late in the day that, at President Roosevelt's request, the treasury was making a study of the bill from the point of view of its effect upon government credit and banking.

The federal reserve board had the power in the four years preceding the financial crash of 1929 to halt the panic in its incipiency, and the reason it did not take the action necessary to meet the crisis was due to the fact that the board "bent its policy to meet the wishes of the treasury," Percy H. Johnston, chairman of the board of the Chemical Bank and Trust company declared today.

The trouble was, said Mr. Johnston, that the treasury department wanted to borrow "cheap money for the government" and preferred matters to continue as they were at the time.

WHEAT SWINGS UP ON PROSPECT FOR INFLATION

Makes Net Gain of 1 to 1¼c; Corn Strong.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices closed at net gains of 1 to 1¼ cents yesterday, after swinging 2 cents above the lowest levels established early in the day. Inflation prospects caused the bulge.

Favorable action by the house of representatives on the Patman bill, which authorizes the use of greenbacks, and the introduction of the Wheeler silver bill in the senate calling for the governmental purchase of one billion ounces of that metal with the idea it would aid agriculture started a general buying movement.

Many operators sold short early and were forced to cover on the way up. July sold up to 89¼ cents and at one time showed a fraction above the May on the blackboard, the first time this condition has prevailed this season. Closing trades were near top, with May at 88⅞ to 89 cents and July at 88¾ to 88⅞ cents.

Trade Much Broader.

Trade broadened materially after the market started upward. Action of stocks and cotton as well as silver had considerable influence. Silver gained around ½ cent an ounce, while cotton was up about 50 cents per bale in New York.

Other grains were strong but dull the greater part of the day. Corn closed ¼ cent higher. Oats were up ⅝ to ½ cent. Rye advanced 1 to 1¼ cents. Barley was ½ cent higher.

At the top figure July wheat was at the highest level since Feb. 17, and had more than recovered the loss suffered during three weeks of what was regarded by the trade as liquidation in the May delivery. Considerable comment was also heard during the day over the decrease of 3,548,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply, which brought the total down to 97,692,000 bushels, the first time it has fallen below 100,000,000 bushels since July, 1929.

Change in Sentiment.

The action of the wheat market the last few days in advancing in the face of what was regarded as bearish supply and demand factors caused a change in sentiment toward the last as prices advanced to a level at which they had encountered considerable resistance on recent upturns.

Winnipeg May wheat ran into steady selling at the 70 cent level, around which figure all bulges for the last six months have been checked, and closed a fraction under that price. It was intimated the selling in the Canadian market had been for the government agency. Prices at the close were ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, the former on May. Liverpool was unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

Corn, oats, and rye were under some pressure early, but advanced later with wheat, but there was not the broadening in the trade which prevailed in the latter grain.

COTTON HIGHER ON BETTER STERLING, RISE IN GRAINS

Interest in cotton was moderate yesterday. Price changes in the morning were narrow, but the advance in stocks and grains enlivened trade toward the last and made a close within a few points of the day's top.

There were net gains of 2 to 11 points on futures in Chicago, and 8 to 14 points in other markets. Spots in New York advanced 15 points to 12.50 cents, New Orleans and Houston 15 to 12.40, Galveston 10 points to 12.40.

Exports of cotton for the season to date aggegate 5,825,647 bales, against 5,974,701 bales for the same time last season. Japan's imports of American cotton in January were larger than in December. Prices:

Prof. Bell Points to Future Dangers.

other devices having proved unsuccessful, monetary depreciation was the only resort left to achieve these objectives. Furthermore, they maintain that no other part of the administration's recovery program could have been attempted so long as we were committed to the gold standard. They argue that every step in the New Deal concerning agriculture, transportation, labor, tariff, public works, involving policy of such instrumentalities as the AAA, NRA, RFC, PWA, CWA, etc., would have endangered the currency.

Whatever may be the merits of these views the old gold standard is water over the dam and we are more interested in the present and future prospects of the devalued dollar.

The future of the devalued dollar will apparently be decided by the course of commodity prices and the state of the federal finances. Prices are not acting as per calculations of the monetary "brain trust," and the advisers may feel the need of applying new stimulus from time to time.

Uncertainties Still Exist.

Uncertainties are still with us. We have not tried printing paper money yet [provided for in the Thomas "inflation" amendment] and the administration may do more for silver as an inflation aid. But the effects will come slowly, sensitive prices will respond first, others may follow erratically and with many fluctuations. The results are bound to be disappointing in the light of the mechanical expectations of its sponsors. Maladjustments of price groups will continue to exist and debts will not be eased unless costs lag behind selling prices.

Regardless of the character of our monetary base, credit control will continue to be the most important problem since the bulk of our purchasing power consists of bank deposits. The dollar at 59 cents is undervalued in foreign markets and even with a 2 billion dollar stabilization fund we will find it hard to sit on the 60 cent lid. Economic and financial forces are all exerting pressure to raise the price of the dollar in terms of foreign currencies. (We are a creditor nation, we have a favorable balance of trade, our expatriated capital will come home again—all these factors create a demand for dollars and hence tend to raise its price.)

Gold Nations Affected.

Instead of lowering the value of the dollar our gold buying policy is raising the world price of gold and is exerting such pressure on gold standard countries that these may either be forced off gold themselves (Czechoslovakia) or force retaliatory or protective measures to be taken.

The results of the questionnaire submitted by the economists national committee on monetary policy to the members of the American Economic association, published Feb. 19, are conclusive evidence that the administration's monetary policy is advocated and supported in all major phases and is in almost every minor phases by only a narrow minority of economists. A statement by this group of professional students calls attention to dangers we are still facing. There is much good in the recovery program, but why should it be necessary to experiment with policies which are at the same time inconsistent and illogical, and which have been discredited by previous experience?

SHORTER WEEK, HIGHER PAY HELD RECOVERY PERIL

Dunn Fears for Capital Goods Industries.

Advocacy in Washington of further reduction in the hours of work for industry, together with increased wages, is a serious menace to continued recovery, Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age, stated yesterday in an address before the signal section of the American Railway association at the Stevens hotel.

"Whether the improvement in business now so well under way will continue until prosperity is fully restored seems to depend principally upon the economic policies that will be followed by the government," Mr. Dunn continued. He stated that all students of the depression now know that it exists principally in the capital goods and the service industries, which depend largely upon the durable goods industries for business.

Reviews Railway Purchases.

The railways, he said, are normally among the largest purchasers from the durable goods industries, having in the five years 1925-'29 bought an annual average of $1,231,000,000 worth of equipment and supplies, but only $282,000,000 worth in 1933.

"The bulk of these purchases is made from net earnings or with capital raised by issuing securities, which cannot be sold to investors unless there are actual or prospective net earnings with which to pay a return upon them," Mr. Dunn explained. "Therefore a large increase in railway net earnings is indispensable to a large increase in railway purchases and increased employment.

"We hear much talk about the importance of increasing the purchasing power of wage earners. This disregards the fact that most buying from the durable goods industries is done by other industries, and that consequently the only way business and employment in the durable goods industries can be largely increased is by increasing the net earnings of the indutsires that buy from them.

Assails 30 Hour Week Plan.

The establishment of a thirty hour week on the railroads would increase the annual operating expenses of the railways by $600,000,000, an amount largely exceeding the total net operating income they earned in either 1932 or 1933, and almost half as great as the largest amount of net operating income they ever earned in any year.

"If this increase in railway operating expenses were not offset by an increase in railway rates it would absolutely stop the increase in railway buying from the durable goods industries that recently has begun and probably reduce it to even less than in 1932 or 1933.

"If railway rates were advanced to offset the increased cost of the thirty hour week the burden thereby imposed upon farmers and all other producers and shippers would retard or arrest the revival of business."

BUTTER AND EGGS FIRM; MARCH POTATOES LOWER

Butter and egg futures were firmer on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter gained ⅛ to ⅛ of a cent and eggs ¼ to ½ of a cent. Potatoes closed to 5 cents lower.

Moderate new buying support carried both butter and eggs higher. There was little change in the butter news. Receipts were about on a par with last year and the movement of storage stocks totaled 240,000 pounds more than last year.

The inward movement of eggs to storage was 3,000 cases greater than last year. Sales: Butter, 27 cars; eggs, 24 cars; potatoes, 4 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car. Prices:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was a little easier today, with a sale confirmed of 16,000 bags of Porto Rican duty March 20 to a local refiner at 3.20c. This was 2 points below recent sales to outport refiners, although at the close there was nothing more firmly offered at this level, most holders asking 3.25c. The issuance of 70 March notices caused a sharp decline in that delivery at the outset. This was felt in later months, although the loss was nearly all recovered in the latter trading. Final prices were 2 points not lower to 1 higher. Sales were 17,300 tons. Prices follow:

CATTLE PRICES ADVANCE TO NEW PEAKS FOR YEAR

Light Receipts and Good Demand Factors.

Cattle prices yesterday were carried to new high levels for the year on light receipts and broad buying by both eastern shippers and local packing houses. Demand continued strong despite the rise in prices, and the close uncovered some of the highest sales in many months. Many cattle were 25 cents higher than the close last week.

Almost 100 steers, averaging in loads 1,076 to 1,148 pounds, established a new top for 1934 at $7.60 and equaled the highest mark in the trade since December, 1932. This figure was also the top for the entire year of 1933.

While top sales were at new highs, the biggest improvement was found in the market for the rank and file of cattle. Prime 1,300 pound steers jumped to $7.50. More than 30 per cent of the beef steers were sold at $6.75 and above, whereas on Monday of last week less than 20 per cent of the steer run sold at $6.75 and above.

Sell Above Year Ago.

Cattle quotations are unevenly 25 cents to $1.00 higher than a year ago, big steers indicating the most advance over 1933 quotations. Quite a number of well fattened 1,400 to 1,600 pound cattle arrived in yesterday's receipts and sold at $5.50 to $6.75, according to their finish, while some plain but fat 1,600 to 1,800 pound averages were bought at $4.75 to $5.25. One load averaged 1,850 pounds at $5.00.

Butcher stock shared in the rise, moving up 15 to 25 cents, while canners and cutters were strong. Calves sold steady.

This activity in the cattle alleys was in marked contrast to the behavior of the hog market. Hogs dragged slowly through the first half of the session at prices in line with the lowest spot in the trade since Feb. 17 and showed losses of 10 to 15 cents compared with last Friday. Buying increased on local account toward the finish and a fairly good clearance was effected at the price cut.

Top Hogs Hold at $4.60.

Both the top and average prices at $4.60 and $4.40 were in line with the low close of last week and showed 35 cents decline compared with the high point two weeks ago when the top hogs at $4.95 stood highest of the winter. The movement of hogs was reported to be heavier at most of the interior points as well as at the leading public markets.

Lamb prices rallied on strong support from the east yesterday, jumping 25 cents at the opening and closing 50 cents higher. All interests were paying up to $9.75 at the close, within 40 cents of the highest point since June, 1931. Lambs recently shorn sold at $7.75 to $8.00, or 25 cents above the close last week.

LARD FUTURES WEAKEN, THEN RALLY; SPOTS SAG

Lard weakened early yesterday with grains and hogs, but rallied in the last hour owing to the advance in stocks, cotton and wheat. Early losses were in great part regained. Small packers were said to have been fair buyers on the decline.

At the finish lard futures were unchanged to 2¼ cents lower, the weakest being new May and September. Cash lard trade was rather quiet and prices on regular and loose were off 5 cents to $6.45. Leaf lard, however, maintained its recent price of $6.50. Bellies futures quiet. Pork loins were 12½ to 15 cents. Prices:

GOVERNMENT HALTS HOG BUYING PROGRAM; AIMS ACCOMPLISHED

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Belief that the two ends of the government's hog-buying campaign have been accomplished led the farm administration officials today to announce the cessation, at least temporarily, of market operations.

No hogs have been purchased since last Thursday. Buying may be resumed, they said, but no definite opinion was offered.

Dr. Louis Bean, economic adviser to the farm administration, said the hog buying was instituted to provide pork for relief needs and to bridge the period between the time from application of the processing tax through the period of heavy hog marketing until the effect of last fall's pig buying campaign would be felt in decreased receipts.

BUTTER STOCKS HIGH; SET RECORD IN WITHDRAWALS

The total supply of butter in storage on March 1 this year was 36,842,000 pounds, according to the monthly cold storage estimate released yesterday by the bureau of agricultural economics. This total was 25,262,000 pounds greater than a year ago and 13,650,000 pounds greater than the five year average.

The report revealed that the government held 4,114,404 pounds as of March 1. Total withdrawals from storage in February were 39,153,000 pounds, the largest ever recorded. However, of this total the government moved through relief agencies around 22,000,000 pounds. The commercial movement therefore was approximately 17,000,000 pounds, which compared with a movement of 6,253,000 pounds in February last year.

The report showed that nearly 140,000,000 pounds of butter have been withdrawn from cold storage since the peak last year. Since Dec. 1, the surplus has been cut 75,000,000 pounds.

The egg industry entered the storage season with holdings of 90,000 cases, 73,000 cases less than last year and 95,000 cases less than the March 1 average.
